VON PAPEN WINS RIGHT TO RULE AS A DICTATOR

Reichstag Picks Aid of Hitler Speaker.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

BERLIN, Aug. 30.—Chancellor Franz von Papen's junker cabinet emerged victorious in the first round of its fight for existence today. One hour before the reichstag convened in its maiden session, the aged field marshal empowered Von Papen to dissolve the house and govern the republic according to the chancellor's own wishes.

The president gave his consent to the chancellor's economic and financial measures at his home in Neudeck, East Prussia. He requested Von Papen to take particular care in working out the details so that the standard of living of the German workman be secured and their social viewpoint be maintained.

In Complete Accord.

"A thorough discussion of the domestic political situation resulted in complete accord between the president and the government," was the laconic announcement.

But despite the threat of imminent dissolution, the reichstag calmly organized itself for business and then adjourned for a week.

Two hundred and thirty uniformed National Socialists—Adolf Hitler's men—occupied more than a third of the seats in the assembly hall. Five hundred and ninety of the 608 deputies thronged the house as the hated Clara Zetkin, 75 year old communist, tottered up the aisle on a cane to the president's chair to preside. She was helped into her seat—hers by right of seniority and tradition—by two stalwart communist women.

Frau Zetkin was not only permitted to preside but to make a communist speech.

Demands Right to Preside.

"It is a rule of this house," said the feeble old woman in the hoarse voice of an invalid, "that its oldest member shall preside over the opening of the new session. I was born July 5, 1857. Is there any one here older?"

She turned defiantly toward the brown shirted Nazis, but there was no response.

"Then, I call this session to order," she declared.

In an icy silence, interrupted only by occasional communist applause, the reichstag listened to the taunts and jeers of the old woman as she tried to rouse the fury of her political enemies, who ignored her communist program and her thrusts.

Asks Hindenburg's Impeachment.

Only once did Frau Zetkin show signs of her old time vigor. It was when she demanded that the reichstag "do its vital duty and overthrow the Von Papen government which is trying to suppress this parliament and violate the constitution."

"The reichstag must impeach the president and the ministers of the government for violation of the constitution," she said.

She concluded by agitating for a nation-wide revolution.

In perfect quiet, the house then proceeded to choose its officers. Hitlerites, Catholic Centrists, Nationalists, and the Bavarian Peoples' party then combined to elect Hermann William Goering, one of Hitler's lieutenants, president of the reichstag. The vote was 367 to 216.

With the stride of a soldier Goering stepped up to the rostrum in his brown uniform with a red swastika badge around his arm. In the days of the war he was decorated for valor after he succeeded the "red knight" of Germany and commanded Baron von Richthofen's flying squadron until the conflict was ended.

Goering Wins Acclaim "Hoch!"

Goering was acclaimed with shouts of "Hoch!" and the Fascist salutes of his comrades. At the same time communists shouted "Red Front!" in honor of their veteran warrior. Frau Zetkin, who barely had strength enough to hobble out of the hall where she sank on a stretcher awaiting her.

"I will promise to act impartially, but I will not stand for anything derogatory to the national honor," Goering said in a crisp voice.

To emphasize the rapprochement between the Hitlerites and the Catholic Centrists the Nazi leader, Wilhelm Frick, proposed the election of the Centrist leader, Thomas Esser, as first vice president. He was easily elected. The Nationalist, Walther Graef, was named second vice president and Hans

FOUR ARRESTED; CITY HUNTS FOR 1930 WARRANTS

Scheme to Depress Price Feared.

Four men were taken into custody yesterday by police from the detective bureau and questioned in connection with rumors that they had offered to sell $5,000,000 worth of 1930 city corporate tax anticipation warrants which—supposedly—are locked up securely in the vaults of City Treasurer James A. Kearns.

Following the quizzing, during which the prisoners made no statements other than that they were victims of political persecution, City Controller M. S. Szymczak attempted to learn whether the unsold warrants are in fact in the treasurer's safe. But the time lock was on the vaults and will not release until 8:45 a. m. today.

Four Men Are Held.

Confronted with even a small element of doubt as to the whereabouts of the 1930 warrants, of which there are a total of $11,000,000, Mr. Szymczak, Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, and Chief of Detectives William Schoemaker decided to hold the four men until the vaults can be opened.

Those under arrest are Attorney Robert Rollo, 4400 Hyde Park boulevard, once an assistant state's attorney; Bernard A. Ciesluk, broker with offices at 10 South La Salle street; Thomas Barrett, 2382 Milwaukee avenue, a minor politician, and John D. McKinzie, 847 Wilson avenue, an accountant.

Barrett was arrested in a hallway of the Morrison hotel, near the headquarters of Len Small, Republican nominee for governor. The others, according to the police, were all taken in the Ciesluk office.

Sexton Explains Situation.

Corporation Counsel Sexton, at the end of the unsuccessful effort to look at the vault inclosed warrants last night, explained the series of circumstances which led to the arrests.

"Today Mr. Szymczak informed me that men had recently been going to brokerage houses in the loop and offering to sell large quantities of city corporate warrants, 1930 series, at 95½," he said. "The controller was worried, fearing that such offers would act as a depressing effect on the market for warrants.

"The city, of course, cannot sell any of its warrants at less than par. We do not believe, and have never believed that any of the $11,000,000 worth of warrants unsold are missing. Mr. Szymczak asked that an investigation be launched to learn if there was a plot to embarrass city officials by running down the value of warrants."

Offers Reported from Ciesluk.

The offers to sell, it was reported by investigators, were made by men who represented themselves as coming from Ciesluk. It was also reported that these agents had offered to the brokerage houses approached, warrants with the same numbers as those supposed to be in the city treasurer's office. So far as is known no warrant so numbered has ever been displayed to a prospective buyer, supporting the city officials' belief that none are missing.

The police who worked on the case were pledged to secrecy. However, it leaked out that McKinzie and Barrett were believed to have received the offer from Ciesluk and to have transmitted it to the brokerage houses through a man known as Dunn, who is being sought. Attorney Rollo maintained as he was taken to a cell in the detective bureau that he was only there because he was legal adviser of the others.

Previous Proposal Recalled.

Several months ago Ciesluk approached Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the city council finance committee, and announced that he was prepared to purchase $2,000,000 worth of the 1930 corporate warrants. In exchange he would give, he said, $1,000,000 in cash, $500,000 worth of larger denomination 1930 corporate warrants and $500,000 of school board tax warrants.

This offer was refused. Previously the Associated Bond and Share corporation had offered to purchase $20,000,000 of the same sort of city paper, to be paid for partly in cash and partly in school board tax warrants, which commanded then and now a lower price in the open market than the corporate fund issues. That offer also was turned down.

RUMOR OF DAWES BANK CHANGE IS HELD PREMATURE

A rumor was extant last night that the Central Republic Bank and Trust Co. was in process of being reorganized and that next Tuesday it would become the Dawes Bank and Trust Co., with a capitalization of $5,000,000 with smaller quarters in the building now occupied by the Central Republic.

For several months this rumor has been heard—that the Central Republic would liquidate and pay off all depositors and that Gen. Charles G. Dawes and his associates would start a new institution on a smaller scale. But a decision to make this change has not been reached, according to the bank's officials.

Early this morning Phillip R. Clarke, president of the Central Republic, denied that any such decision had been arrived at. He said:

"A plan of this nature has been under contemplation but is not completed and its discussion at this time is wholly premature."

It was said that if the change should be decided on it would not take place within a month at least.

McAdoo Leads for U.S. Senate in California

San Francisco, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Taking a runaway lead from five other contenders in the state primary today, William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, seemed well on his way toward a Democratic senatorial nomination late tonight.

At the same time Senator Samuel Shortridge, Republican incumbent was having a struggle in a five-sided contest in which State Senator Tallant Tubbs, a so-called dripping wet from San Francisco, was leading for the nomination.

Returns from 3,319 precincts out of 10,531 in the Democratic primary give:

McAdoo, 65,433; Justus S. Wardell, 40,235; The Rev. R. P. Shuler, 16,536; Maurice M. McCarthy, 5,254; P. M. Abbatt, 3,365; Annie Riley Hale, 1,969.

In the Republican primary 3,256 out of 10,531 precincts give Tubbs, 61,721; Shortridge, 46,813; Joe Crail, 39,422; Shuler, 36,422; Leo V. Youngworth, 13,186.

Shuler is a candidate on both the Republican and Democratic tickets. He also is running for the Prohibition party designation.

Wets Ahead in South Carolina.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Senator E. D. Smith jumped into an early lead over his three opponents for the senatorial nomination tonight as unofficial returns were tabulated from today's Democratic primary.

With 1,196 precincts reported of 1,446 in the state, Smith received 80,881 votes.

The vote of the others follows:

Ashton H. Williams, 37,333.

Leon W. Harris, 34,872.

Senator Smith, seeking his fifth term, agreed before the Chicago convention to support the national party's prohibition plank and adopted repeal of the 18th amendment and immediate modification of the Volstead act as his stand.

Blease called for a referendum of "the white voters of the state" on prohibition.

Williams favors repeal of the 18th amendment without any reservation.

Harris campaigned as an extreme dry, opposing repeal of the 18th amendment.

Smith and Blease probably will have to battle in a run-off primary.

Ma Ferguson Increases Lead.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Slowly but steadily increasing her lead in the Democratic gubernatorial contest, Mrs. Miriam A. [Ma] Ferguson early tonight held an advantage of 1,743 votes over Gov. R. S. Sterling.

The count was: Mrs. Ferguson, 475,073; Gov. Sterling, 473,330.

MERCURY RISES TO 94°; BREAK IN HEAT SEEN TODAY

The belated heat wave which has kept Chicago and the rest of the middle west sweltering for the last three days probably will be broken late today, according to the forecast issued last night by Forecaster W. P. Day of the weather bureau.

The prediction is for warm weather through most of the day, with increasing cloudiness. However, light showers and lower temperatures are due by night. Thursday will be partly cloudy and cooler. Much cooler weather already has set in over the Rocky mountain region.

Yesterday's highest temperature was 94 degrees, reached at 3 p. m. An hour later, the mercury stood at 93. The all time high mark for Aug. 30 in Chicago was 96, established in 1925.

Reports from the west indicated that the cooling off there was no halfway measure of nature. A party of young people from Salt Lake City was reported snowbound at Mirror lake in the Wasatch mountains, drifts a foot and a half deep blocking the roads.

Heavy snow also fell at Laramie, Wyo.; Hot Sulphur Springs, Steamboat Springs, and Mount Harris, Colo.

WINS HAMBURGER EATING CONTEST BY SINGLE BITE

By one bite, Benjamin Smith, a butcher of McHenry county, won the great McHenry-Lake county hamburger sandwich eating contest in Waukegan last night. The event was held at Nicholas M. Keller's coffee shop, with Sheriff Lester Tiffany of Lake county and Sheriff Lester Edinger of McHenry county, as judges.

Smith, winner of last year's contest, defeated two rivals, Percy Maether, a farmer of Prairie View, and Jack Traxler, a 16 year old high school boy of Waukegan.

In 30 minutes, the allotted time, Smith finished fifteen complete hamburger sandwiches, swallowing the last bite as Maether finished half of his fifteenth sandwich. Maether was credited with fourteen and one-half. Young Traxler could stow away only eleven. Smith's victory was credited to a distinct physical advantage; he weighs 230 pounds as against the combined 250 pounds of his two rivals.

Baby Dies from Drinking Few Spoonsful of Gasoline

Ottawa, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Florence Jeanette Groons, 16 months old, died tonight a few minutes after drinking a small amount of gasoline. The baby had been left at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Stella Groons, while her mother went home to get dinner.

Fate of Gun Widow May Be Decided Today

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

Young Mrs. Dorothy Pollak went on trial yesterday in the Criminal court for what she naïvely termed when it happened, "the dirty trick I did poor Joe." Cook county justice promises to be expeditious for Dorothy. It is possible that Chief Justice Harry M. Fisher of the Criminal court may return a verdict in her case tonight. "Poor Joe" was middle aged Joseph Pollak, alky dealer and money lender, who was shot to death by his wife.

Up to yesterday the episode in the flat at 1936 Garfield boulevard last July tallied precisely with the pattern tradition has sketched for such dramatic chapters in local history. That was—according to the story told to the police—the final quarrel, strong language, the threatening gesture from the furious husband, the convenient gun, the fatal shot, and hysterics of remorse by the woman who pulled the trigger.

A Tearful Young Woman.

There were, subsequently, torrents of tears, photographs of wistful expressions and prayerful attitudes, protestations that it was all inadvertent, and a consistently chic and talkative widow who went suddenly mum on the advice of her attorney. It was all routine to the Chicago that recalled Ita Beulah Annans, Ita Cora Orthweins, Ita Belva Gaertners.

So curious crowds, expecting a long run of drama, overran courtroom and corridors when the case was called, proof that the dark haired defendant with the big blue eyes and schoolgirl complexion hasn't lost her attraction for the multitude. But it proved almost a "one night stand," and the spectators were plainly aggrieved when Justice Fisher, pleading business downtown, closed court at noon.

Defense Waives a Jury.

Things had proceeded speedily up to that point. Ordinarily it would have taken two days to impanel a jury. But there is no jury. For Defense Attorney W. W. O'Brien, once an assistant state's attorney and a veteran court strategist, made a bold play when his client was arraigned by announcing that the defense would dispense with a jury. And the prosecutors concurred.

Mrs. Pollak is the first woman accused of murder who has taken advantage of a State Supreme court ruling which enables a defendant to waive a jury and submit the defense to the court.

Mrs. Pollak, who is 26 years old, was garbed in smart black and white as the trial got under way. Her pretty face, dejected now, had no apparent effect on the vigorous denunciation with which Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast opened fire for the prosecution. He did not directly demand the death penalty, although it had been indicated previously that it would be asked.

He plunged energetically into an attack on the self-defense plea to be advanced.

Tells Story of Killing.

"The police reached the home five minutes after Pollak was shot," Mast reminded the judge. "They found his body lying between the living room and the bedroom. The room was not in disorder. Mrs. Pollak's clothes were not in disorder. Her hair was not in disorder, and she bore no marks of violence. There were no signs of a struggle."

From under the brim of her new black chapeau the blue eyes of the defendant regarded him somberly. Her blonde cousin and chum, Mrs. Vic-

SUN WILL BE HIDDEN BY MOON FOR 98 SECONDS

Visible in Chicago at 2:07 P. M.

Eclipse in Chicago

TIME—The moon will begin its passage across the sun at 2:07 p. m. today for Chicagoans. At 3:18 p. m. four-fifths of the sun will be hidden, the point of greatest obscuration here.

WEATHER—Cloudy skies, forecast for today by the weather bureau, may interfere with the city's view of the eclipse.

DARK GLASSES—Observers of the phenomenon are advised to protect their eyes. Dr. W. A. Evans, health editor of THE TRIBUNE, says the best way to do this is to wear glasses of the kind used by welders. The very dark glasses worn by iron molders and street rollers are next best. If neither is available, exposed and developed photograph film or smoked glasses can be used, although smoked glasses are a poor substitute for the first two kinds mentioned. Ordinary tinted glasses are of no service, Dr. Evans says. There is danger of blindness, possibly permanent, from looking directly at the sun without some fairly effective protection for the eyes, he warns.

Fryeburg, Me., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—On the day before the total eclipse of the sun the astronomers gathered here and in nearby parts of Maine and New Hampshire are beginning to worry a bit about the weather. After weeks of hard work they are all ready for the eventful 98 seconds, and nothing but a generally overcast sky from northern Quebec to Cape Cod can prevent this from being the best observation of the sun in history.

A broken sky such as prevailed here over the week-end, with drifting cumulus clouds and occasional showers, would spoil the eclipse in some places but not in others.

The prediction of unsettled weather with possible showers tomorrow for Maine and New Hampshire dampened the hopes tonight of the scientists gathered in these two states to observe the eclipse.

Chosen for His Lung Power.

Drills are held several times daily in all the camps now. The voice of the counter of seconds is heard in the land.

Usually he is a man chosen for the job because of his lung power, an astronomical Joe Humphreys. "Ten seconds before totality?" he calls, then "nine, eight, seven, six, five, four, three, two!"

Suddenly somebody shouts "Go!" he is the man who has been watching the image of the sun on a ground glass plate in the focal plane of a telescopic camera. On eclipse day he will see the encroaching black disk of the moon narrow the sun down to a very thin crescent.

Finally the crescent will break up into the familiar Baily's beads. These are tiny beads of sunlight streaming through the valleys of the ragged edge of the moon. When the last of the beads vanishes he gives his shout. The total eclipse has begun.

Worker in Tent or Shed.

Often the man who performs this task has to work in a tent or shed, and although he sees a pretty picture of the eclipse, he does not see the eclipse itself at all. It is surprising how many astronomers are willing to take this assignment, making a really great sacrifice in the interest of science. C. B. Watts, senior astronomer of the United States naval observatory, will be immured all through the total phase of the eclipse in a shed at the base of the observatory's 65 foot camera at Limerick, Me.

With the shout of "Go!" the counter takes up his rhythmic chant again, this time beginning at one and calling off the seconds up to 100. His eyes are fixed on the swinging pendulum of a metronome, an instrument similar to that used in practicing on the piano. Every member of the expedition has his appointed tasks and knows at precisely what seconds he must perform them. The work goes forward with clocklike regularity. Every possible advantage is taken of the brief life of the eclipse. The astronomers know that they will not have another chance like the present one until 1934 and that then they must go to Borneo, or the Celebes, to take advantage of it. Some announce eagerly that they are going.

The chief of the unsolved problems on which astronomers hope to throw some light at this or subsequent eclipses concerns the composition of the corona, that halo of pearly light which surrounds the darkened sun. Astronomers no longer believe in the existence of an element called coronium, different from any chemical substance ever found on the earth or revealed in the spectra of the sun and the stars. There is no room in the table of the 92 elements for any such substance.

The celebrated green line in the spectrum of the corona, which was supposed to indicate the presence of coronium gas, is now thought to proclaim the existence in the corona of some familiar element in an unusual state. It is hoped that precise measurements of the portion of this line in the spectrum to be made at this eclipse may lead to the identification of the element which causes it.

Corona Is Tenuous.

Whatever the corona may be, it is certainly more tenuous than any so-called vacuum that can be produced on earth. Comets have been known to pass through it without having their motion retarded in any perceptible degree.

At the Douglas Hill camp, which commands the most beautiful view of all the eclipse sites in this vicinity, an attempt will be made by members of an expedition from the Warner & Swasey observatory of the Case School of Applied Sciences of Cleveland to make a motion picture of the advance of the moon's shadow from the White mountains.

On a clear day Mount Washington is visible nearly forty miles away from the camp. If the shadow can be seen from the time it darkens Mount Washington until it sweeps over the Allen farm there will be more than a minute in which to record it on a movie film as it rushes through the landscape.

Seeks Photographs from Plane.

It was Dr. J. J. Nasseau, who is in charge of the Case party, that suggested to Capt. Albert W. Stevens, U. S. A., that it might be possible to photograph from an airplane flying at an elevation of 25,000 feet or more the whole of the elliptical shadow of the moon at some point in its passage over the earth's surface.

Capt. Stevens will attempt to do this in a flight over this part of Maine tomorrow afternoon. He expects to ascend to an altitude of 28,000 feet. The darkened area on the earth which he will try to picture will be 100 miles in longest diameter.

Capt. Stevens has made many remarkable photographs in high altitude flights. One of these, taken over the Andes with a plate sensitive to infra-red light, was the first picture ever made which actually showed the curvature of the earth.

Radio Test to Be Made.

Astronomers here say that it cannot be emphasized too strongly that photographs of the eclipsed sun made from airplanes have very little scientific value. No cameras can be carried aloft equal in power to those mounted on the ground, and the fact that a plane is in constant motion necessitates extremely short exposures. If clouds should hide the eclipse from the scientists on terra firma an aviator flying above the clouds might get a picture which would show the size and shape of the corona. That is one of the things Capt. Stevens will attempt to do.

Naval Party Starts for Scene.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The naval party which will fly tomorrow to take photographs of the eclipse and its ground shadow left the naval air station today in a Ford trimotor plane. The plane is to be based at Concord, N. H., and the flight will mark the first attempt to photograph the shadow of an eclipse from the air.

In the party are Lieut. C. M. Huntington, pilot; W. M. Brown, associate astronomer of the naval observatory; and four navy photographers.

79 PCT. ECLIPSE HERE

Unless clouds obscure the sun, Chicagoans will get out their smoked glasses and have a look at a 79 per cent eclipse of the sun this afternoon. At 2:07 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time, if the weather is favorable, the man and woman on the street, in the loop or elsewhere, may see the moon begin its west to east passage across the sun.

At about 3:18 p. m. four-fifths of the sun will be hidden behind the face of the moon, leaving only a blazing crescent of sun visible.

With the sun four-fifths obscured daylight will fade to a light comparable to that visible at 7:30 o'clock last night. In other words, it will be less dark than twilight, or about the same as on a dark, cloudy day.

Most Astronomers in East.

Most of the astronomers in the Chicago area have gone to the New England region where the sun will be totally obscured for 98 seconds. One of the few observatories in this region to make observations today will be the Yerkes observatory of the University of Chicago at Williams Bay, Wis., said Dr. Otto Struve, director.

"We will begin in the morning making observations with the spectroheliograph attached to our 40-inch reflecting telescope, designed to aid the astronomers who are in the region of totality," he said. "They have only 98 seconds to observe and photograph the sun's corona when the sun is in total eclipse."

Dr. Struve explained that the photographs of light from stars near the sun made during total eclipses in recent years have produced contradictory evidence in regard to Einstein's theory of relativity. It is hoped this year that the matter will be solved.

Question of Einstein's Accuracy.

"Einstein predicted that the star light would show a certain definite curvature," he said. "It already has been established by photographers of starlight made during eclipses that the light reaches us in curves. But if it is proved that the curve is to a greater degree than Einstein predicted, his theory is disapproved, and we will have to look for some other source than the gravitation field of the sun to explain the curvatures."

Accompanying Prof. Georges Van Biesbroeck and Ralph Van Arnam from the Yerkes observatory, who will study the eclipse from Island Pond, N. H., is Frank Sullivan, mechanician who operates the giant telescope. He went along as a pleasure jaunt, having always wanted to see a total eclipse. Prof. Edwin Frost, the blind astronomer, who recently resigned as director of the observatory, has gone to Lancaster, Me., on a vacation with his family and to view the eclipse through other eyes.

CHANCE OF FAKE ECLIPSE SLIGHT, PEGLER OPINES

Betting on Result Is Light Despite Dark Outlook.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Provincetown, Mass., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The heaviest concentration of intellect, hot-dogs, souvenir sea shells, pennants and pine needle cushions ever effected in the United States is now assembled within a diagonal strip about 100 miles wide, running from southeast to northwest, across portions of Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont and Quebec. This is the area in which, for a period of from one minute and thirty seconds to one minute and forty-one seconds, tomorrow afternoon the shadow of the moon will completely obliterate the sun.

Special railroad and airplane service has been carrying cargoes of brain power into the region and, of course, there has been considerable automobile traffic bearing learned professors to the scene of the phenomenon. The eclipse, to them, is just as important as the annual heavyweight championship prizefight is to the great big brokers, great big society leaders and great big governors who constitute the Best People.

The Simplicity of the Complex.

It takes little to amuse a learned professor. The moon moves across the face of the sun at a certain time, predetermined by calculations so intricate that they leave the realm of learning and pass on into the void of utter nonsense. The calculations are much more complex than those by which the batting and fielding averages of the baseball industry are arrived at, for instance, and lack any such useful purpose.

The professors assemble much strange apparatus with which to observe and photograph the darkness and the circular fringe of rays which appears on the rim of the shadow. If it happens that a cloud drifts across the sky at the precise spot and at the precise instant, the eclipse is spoiled and the professor lets fly the professorial equivalent of "Oh Hell." He then retires to await the next total eclipse, which will occur in the next century, but there is never any scandal or sinister murmuring of fake.

A Strain to Be Understood.

Although this is a very intellectual country, with colleges and universities as thick as gasoline stations along the highways, the astronomers and astrophysicists who have gathered within the zone of the eclipse speak a language which makes it difficult for them to order ham and eggs in words dumb and simple enough for the average comprehension.

All their efforts to explain the eclipse for the rather superior lay understanding of the down easters have wandered off into space and the general idea of the eclipse is still merely that the moon gets plumb in the way of the sun for a minute or so and shuts off the light. Even when a professor gets down on his intellectual knees to explain the eclipse he cannot refrain from such terms as flash spectrum, coronal spectrum, curvature of space, Einstein, and the envelopes of the umbral and penumbral curves. Obviously any one resorting to such language to explain that the moon gets in the way of the sun and shuts off the light would have difficulty condensing his breakfast order into anything so succinct as "Make mine ham and eggs."

"General Admission" Scramble.

The entire country within the strip will be one large grandstand and there has been much bouncing about from place to place in the zone as the professors have sought the most desirable spots, like early customers sampling seats in the unreserved sections prior to a heavyweight championship. Now they are settled at many points, including Conway, Cornish, and Fabyans, N. H., and Portland, Me.

Large parties of apprentice intellects from the high schools of New York and New England also are assembling under the guidance of major intellects to feed their curiosity on the envelopes of the umbral and penumbral curves. They will watch the eclipse with a variety of devices ranging from the vulgar fragment of smoked glass to the scientific telescope mounted on a scaffold and focused to the ten-thousandth of an inch. One comparatively simple contraption consists of a sheet laid on a flat surface and an arrangement of laths to show the rate and direction of the shadows during the eclipse. These shadows go to prove something, but the proper appreciation of an eclipse demands of the spectator almost as fine a technical understanding as a game of intercollegiate football.

So, in Words of One Syllable—

It all comes back to the dumb, simple fact that the moon gets in the way of the sun.

Nevertheless, owing to the lack of a heavyweight championship fight at this season, a considerable number of the great big brokers, society leaders and other Best People have come slumming to the eclipse and the citizens of the New England towns, in whom the commercial instinct has never been feeble, are expecting to do a fine business in hard and soft drinks, steamed clams, chow puppies, antiques and various kinds of souvenirs.

A Maine farmer's wife, who said that in forty years she had never known a minute when her work was done, and who has been unable to persuade any of her grown children to accept the old farm as a gift, is offering tent space on the weary acres at the rate of one dollar per night per occupant, the customers to furnish their own tents. Drinking water, of course, will be extra in New England. She has hope of raising enough money in this way to pay the back taxes but, on the other hand, hopes the show will flop so the sheriff will come and put her off the farm at last.

Chances of Fake Are Slight.

The New York prize fight commission has no jurisdiction over the eclipse and there are other indications on the eve of the phenomenon which tend to encourage a hope that it will be strictly on the level. The scientists who got up the show have not much money, but they are said to be honest men who would not fool the public even for a percentage of the hot dog and antique receipts. But they cannot be very smart for all their intellect, considering that they are the ones who promoted the entertainment and sounded the ballyhoo which had drawn the business to the hotels, but failed to cut themselves in for a piece of the revenue. They even neglected to reserve the moving picture and radio rights.

Even the deserving Democrats of Tammany hall who are always so active at big fight time, have been unable to chisel themselves a piece of the eclipse and the constables will be on the lookout for them with flashlights when the shadow is complete. When people are standing around in darkness, intent on looking up, articles of value are likely to disappear from their pockets.

Little Betting on Result.

Certain persons among the great big brokers and great big society leaders are so keen on not missing this quaint experience with the simple pleasures of the learned astro-physicists that they are planning to stay up all night so as to be certain not to oversleep. The eclipse will occur in the afternoon but when the Best People are at play they are apt to lose consciousness for long periods. However, those who cannot stay conscious may yet see the eclipse in the movies or the roto-gravures.

There will be no preliminary eclipses leading up to the championship eclipse and the schedule calls for the main event to go on regardless of whether the radio companies have conflicting advertising contracts for their time when it happens. Big prize fights and national political conventions are movable festivities but the eclipse will start at 3:25, eastern standard time, in the northwesterly end of the zone and ten minutes later in the southeastern extremity.

Owing to the absence of any competitive element there is practically no gambling on the event and the only serious flaw seems to be that Prof. William Muldoon of the New York prize fight commission has not recognized it as an official eclipse. Prof. Muldoon is not the same kind of professor as the astronomers and astrophysicists. He is a professor of physical culture, engrossed in important affairs of pugilism and cannot be expected to sanction the trivial nonsense of professors who stand around in the darkness looking up.

START ON CHICAGO SUPERHIGHWAY BY WINTER URGED

Sheets Sees No Chance for Project Before '34.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The Fox Valley federation appealed to State Highway Engineer Sheets today to start work this winter on the construction of an elevated highway through Chicago's west side. His reply was a forecast that construction of an elevated highway system in Chicago would start in 1934.

"I recognize the traffic needs in Chicago," said Mr. Sheets. "I am fully aware that the present surface streets cannot handle the traffic. And I'm personally convinced that elevated highways offer the only feasible means for appreciable relief from the delays and hazards of Chicago's congestion. But 1934 is as soon as work can start."

Would Give Work to 10,000.

"Can't the special session of legislature appropriate for the structure?" asked E. A. Keplar, secretary of the Fox Valley federation. "The construction can properly be considered as an unemployment relief measure, since it would furnish jobs to 10,000 men."

"The special session," replied the state engineer, "will have its hands full raising money for charity. It may be that the legislature will appropriate our gasoline tax revenue for charity, leaving us without funds for road building. If this happens, the elevated highways cannot be built, and the thousands now engaged in state road construction will be added to the charity lists. I hope the money for relief will come from some other tax that does not place all the burden upon the motoring public.

"If the governor wanted to include the elevated highway project in his call for a special session, it would be legally possible, but I couldn't recommend it. For this special session to obtain the results you desire, both houses would have to pass an appropriation by a two-thirds majority so the law would become effective immediately.

Program to Get Under Way in 1934.

"The general assembly will convene in regular session in January. The legislators will have a report from their own commission recommending future policies. The state bond issue system will be completed next year. The new era in road building, authorized by 1933 by legislation based on the commission's report, will get under way in the spring of 1934. I'm confident that the commission's report will take definite cognizance of the need for elevated highways in Chicago.

"I suggest that you men bend your efforts at this time toward preserving the gasoline tax revenue for road construction and that you present your views on the elevated highway and on your proposed Fox Valley scenic drive to the road commission, which is headed by Representative David Hunter of Rockford."

Others Urge Elevated Highway.

In introducing his request for the elevated highway Mr. Keplar said he was directed by Lester Norris, president of the federation, to point out the state is in the gasoline business, collecting 2 cents on every gallon, and that it was good business for the state to erect those structures that will increase fuel consumption by encouraging use of the automobile.

A. G. Harris of Dixon, Ill., made a similar plea for the Chicago elevated highway in behalf of his city on the Rock river 100 miles from the loop.

FAMOUS ECLIPSES OF HISTORY; FIRST RECORDED IN 2137 B. C.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Famous eclipses of history: The first one recorded, 2137 B. C., in China. It cost two Chinese astronomers their heads for getting drunk.

763 B. C. mentioned in the Old Testament. Interpreted by Joshua as the "sign" promised by Jehovah to show that Jerusalem would be saved from besieging Assyrians.

585 B. C. an eclipse in afternoon stopped the Medes and Persians in the midst of a battle and scared them into ending a five years' war with peace.

1780 A. D. at Penobscot, Me., during the American revolution. Despite the war the American government fitted out a scientific expedition.

1842 A. D. in Italy. An eclipse of such extraordinary beauty that vast crowds of spectators broke into cheers. Bally's beads were named at this eclipse.

Others in the delegation included Rodney Brandon of Batavia, state director of public welfare; Mayor I. G. Langum of St. Charles, and George Barton, traffic engineer for the Chicago Motor club.

They called upon Mr. Sheets as Gov. Emmerson's adviser in highway affairs. The governor is ill, and seeing few persons.

"With the state making no effort to do the elevated highway job at this time, it's almost a certainty that the federal Reconstruction Finance corporation would not advance a loan for the structure," said Mr. Barton.

The motor club has proposed that the state might appropriate $8,000,000 from the gasoline tax and borrow another $8,000,000 from the government to finance the west side super highway, the federal loan to be retired by a 10 cent toll to meet the requirement of the congressional act that improvements must be self-liquidating. The club prefers, as do other proponents of the improvement, that the state pay the entire cost of the superhighway from gas tax receipts so there would be no necessity for a toll.

MELLON, MILLS IN NEW YORK CITY START RUMORS

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The presence of Secretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills and former Secretary Andrew Mellon, now ambassador to the Court of St. James's in New York today gave rise to rumors of important banking conferences which, however, seemed to have no other foundation.

Mr. Mellon registered at the Hotel Biltmore this morning and received several visitors there. This afternoon he went to Wall street, but he had no talk with Mr. Mills at the federal reserve bank, it was learned.

Meyer, Harrison Absent.

Mr. Mills was at the federal reserve bank during the morning and lunched with its officers. He came up from Washington to confer on the treasury's fiscal operation.

Both Gov. George Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve bank and Gov. Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve board were out of the city today.

The report that Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills were conferring with bankers led to a revival of the rumors which accompanied the week-end visit here of Montagu Norman, governor of the Bank of England. Mr. Norman, however, returned to Bar Harbor, Me., yesterday.

Confers with Norman.

Gov. Harrison of the federal reserve bank, who conferred at length with Mr. Norman last night, denied that a rumored $3,500,000,000 loan to liquidate reparations had been discussed. Rumors of such a loan project circulated both here and abroad, and if they had any basis in fact both Mr. Mellon and Mr. Mills would be immediately concerned with the negotiations.

Mr. Mills said in Washington yesterday that he did not believe Mr. Norman was here on a debt mission.

WIFE ILL, ASKS LICENSE TO WED IN CASE SHE DIES

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Life is uncertain at best, reasoned George Burger, 43, so with his wife in ill health and five children requiring a mother's care, he went down and applied for another marriage license, just in case——.

That, at least, was the explanation police said Burger gave when they investigated a complaint that he was planning another marriage without the formality of a divorce from his present wife.

It was just an idea of his, he said, to eliminate five days of delay required by law between application for and issuance of a marriage license, should anything happen to his wife.

Mrs. Burger was much surprised to learn of her husband's foresight. So was Miss Estelle Mosek, 24, named in the license application as the prospective bride. She said it must be a mistake.

Burger agreed with her when police held him on suspicion of perjury.

DISCLOSE TRUST CHANGE MADE BY EDITH M'CORMICK

Terms of Old Will Also Are Revealed.

Two new revelations concerning the Edith Rockefeller McCormick estate were brought to light yesterday by a woman friend of the former social leader.

The first was the disclosure that Mrs. McCormick, during an illness two years ago, modified the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust so that the trust, instead of being liquidated at her death, would be administered for a period of fourteen years from the date of modification, with Edwin D. Krenn and Edward A. Dato in full control.

Now Dato is the sole trustee of the trust as the result of an assignment executed shortly before Mrs. McCormick's death in which Krenn turned over to Dato all his interest in the real estate firm of Krenn & Dato and all his prospective interest in Mrs. McCormick's estate. Under the will Krenn would receive five-twelfths of the estate and the remainder would be divided among Mrs. McCormick's children, Mrs. Muriel Hubbard, Mrs. Mathilde Oser, and Fowler McCormick.

Old Will Is Disclosed.

The second disclosure concerned an old will which, with the trust modification, was drawn up on June 3, 1930, a day before Mrs. McCormick entered St. Luke's hospital for an operation to check the malady which later caused her death.

The will, now voided by her final testament which she signed a few weeks before her death, bequeathed $1,000,000 to Mr. Krenn and left the bulk of the estate in trust to the city of Chicago and the village of Lake Forest for the cultural advancement of the public and for maintenance of her Chicago and Lake Forest homes as public museums.

In the later will there are no bequests to other friends than Mr. Krenn or to charities.

Audit of Estate Begun.

Litigation involving the administration of the estate was forecast by legal authorities during the day as the work of auditing the complicated finances of Mrs. McCormick was begun. One big question which the lawyers were contemplating involves the authority of the Chicago Title and Trust company, as executor of the estate, to vote the 52,320 shares in the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust which were held by Mrs. McCormick.

An answer to this question will disclose whether the removal of Dato as sole trustee of the trust may be effected by the Title and Trust company while, as executor, it holds legal possession and control of the trust shares. Hints have been offered that such a removal would be desired by the children of Mrs. McCormick, but no statements have been made.

The trust agreement, which made Krenn and Dato joint trustees of the trust with Mrs. McCormick, provides that the holder of two-thirds of the shares may oust the trustee or trustees. Krenn and Dato each held fifteen of the 52,350 shares and Mrs. McCormick held the remainder.

May Go to High Court.

"It is a question which may have to go to the Supreme court," commented former Judge Charles S. Cutting, attorney for the executor.

"There has been no indication anywhere of a desire on the part of the heirs to remove Mr. Dato as trustee," declared Robert J. Hilliard, representing Dato. "During the administration of an estate, the executor, having temporary possession of the certificates of the trust agreement, may have the right to vote the certificates. I am not certain of that."

The attitude of Mr. Krenn, who waived his five-twelfths inheritance from Mrs. McCormick, ceding it to Mr. Dato for a guarantee of $2,000 a month for the duration of his life, remained a mystery. He was in seclusion, speaking only to his bodyguard and refusing himself to reporters.

Must Pay Tax, Ash says.

First Assistant Attorney General Harry Ash, in charge of the state inheritance tax department, said that Krenn, as a non-relative of Mrs. McCormick, will have to pay a state inheritance tax of 10 to 24 per cent on the first $250,000 after an exemption which varies according to the size of the estate, and 30 per cent on all he inherits exceeding that.

"Mr. Krenn did not evade the state inheritance tax by signing the agreement through which he gets paid $2,000 a month," said Mr. Ash. "Only in case Mr. Krenn had renounced his share of the estate entirely, receiving no compensation at all, he would not be forced to pay the tax."

If the five-twelfths of the estate bequeathed to Krenn should be valued at several millions of dollars, Mr. Krenn would be taxed more than $1,000,000, Mr. Ash said. Mr. Krenn might find it difficult to pay this tax out of his $2,000 a month, it was pointed out.

No Dato Agreement Revealed.

No agreement by which Dato has agreed to pay the inheritance tax has been revealed and even the legality of such an agreement might be called into question, it was said.

Because the two daughters and son of Mrs. McCormick, who are co-heirs with Krenn, are her lineal descendants, they will pay a maximum state inheritance tax of only 14 per cent in comparison with Krenn's 30 per cent, Mr. Ash said.

The federal inheritance tax is not assessed against each heir, but is deducted from the body of the estate before it is distributed. The tax is approximately 10 to 25 per cent on all fortunes up to $10,000,000 and 40 per cent on estates valued at more than $10,000,000.

Sees Long Audit Ahead.

It was predicted that several months would be required to complete the audit of Mrs. McCormick's estate.

"It may be six months or a year before we can discover the actual value of the estate," said one investigator. "It may then be disclosed that the estate is worth anywhere from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000, based on present real estate and security values. Or it may be that the value will be even less than five millions."

Plans for admitting the will to probate were being made yesterday. The will was merely filed in the Probate court Monday.

Singer Becomes Bride in New York

MISS VIRGINIA GARDINER (MRS. ROY DURSTINE).

RUDY VALLEE TO PAY $1,000 MONTH ALIMONY AND $50,000 OUTRIGHT

[Copyright: 1932: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Rudy Vallee already has agreed to a financial settlement with Fay Webb, his bride of 13 months, who leaves Friday for Reno to divorce the radio crooner. He will give Miss Webb $50,000 outright, $1,000 monthly alimony for the rest of her life, and a half interest in their $100,000 Beverly Hills, Cal., estate.

Before Vallee left last week on a New England tour there was a series of conferences here between him, his wife and their lawyers. Clarence Webb, father of Fay, and police chief of Santa Monica, Cal., sat in on these parleys.

Finally, it was agreed that the $50,000 was adequate for the outright settlement. But the $1,000 monthly allmony—that was all very well right now, while he remains in the big money. But after a while, when his popularity wanes and those heavy pay checks aren't coming in, it might be a strain. It would be time then to discuss a reduction, Fay and her lawyers argued and at length the crooner agreed.

"MEN FIRST," SAY GIRLS AS RESCUE FORCE ARRIVES

By their own vote, four pretty young women rejected the traditional "ladies first" privilege last night and changed it to "men first."

The women were stranded with twelve men in an elevator which stuck between the third and fourth floors of the police building at 11th and State streets. All were victims of robberies, and had attended the regular showup of prisoners. As the cage descended, it stuck. The inconvenience was aggravated by the stifling heat.

Cries for rescuers resounded throughout the police building, and within a few minutes help arrived. Working from the fourth floor, several policemen removed the top of the elevator, and lowered a ladder. All was ready for the exodus by way of the ladder. The men held back. "Ladies first," one of them deferred gallantly. But none of the young women moved. Instead they held a whispered conference. Then one of the women spoke.

"We'll go last, you men go first," she said.

And so it was.

REEVES WILL DEBATE UPSHAW ON PROHIBITION

Col. Ira L. Reeves, western manager of the Crusaders, will go to Freeport Saturday to debate the prohibition question with William D. Upshaw, presidential nominee of the Prohibition party. Col. Reeves will take the negative side of the issue that "National Prohibition Has Made Good and Should Be Continued as a Governmental Policy." Freeport was the scene of one of the Lincoln-Douglas debates on slavery in 1858.

In accepting the invitation for the debate, Col. Reeves said: "If Upshaw can explain away the rape of temperance, liberty and morals that the 12 year record of prohibition has inflicted on the people of this country, then I will be the first to concede that prohibition has been a success."

SEARCH FOR TWO BOATS LOST IN FLORIDA STORM

Miami, Fla., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Coast guard cutters tonight are searching for two boats with nine men and women aboard, believed lost at sea off Miami in the tropical storm last night. One boat contains G. H. Gardiner, newspaper executive, his son, Kenneth, and a sister, Mrs. Eleanor Shuck, all of Pontiac, Mich.

The storm, according to the weather bureau tonight, is moving west northwest across the Mexican gulf and may strike near Galveston, Tex. Southeast Florida today was recovering from a blow which brought some property damage but no loss of life.

HOWARD SCORES 171 MI. AN HOUR IN AIR CONTEST

Beats Liggett and Livingston at Cleveland.

BY HUGH SEXTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Benny Howard, the Chicago mail pilot and racing plane designer, won his second fast closed course race of the meet this afternoon at an average speed of 171.671 miles an hour for the fifty miles, passing Johnny Livingston, of Aurora, Ill., his nemesis in last year's events, on the second lap. Howard flew Mike, a new white racer of his design, powered by a Menasco in-line cooled motor of 160 horsepower.

Ray Liggett of Wichita, Kas., defeated Livingston for second place after a bitter struggle on Livingston's part. Livingston held second laq through the first four of the five mile laps, but then Liggett's red Cessna racer [Warner powered], with its landing gear drawn into the fuselage, passed Livingston and drew farther away steadily. Near the close of the race, by taking the pylons at beautiful vertical banks, Livingston regained some of Liggett's lead and at the finish mark they were almost neck and neck but with Howard clearly ahead.

Livingston's yellow monocoupe [Warner motor] is no match for the very slim, streamlined racers flown by Howard and Liggett. Liggett's average time was 169.902 miles an hour, and Livingston's 169.835 miles an hour. Livingston was off first in the race horse start.

204 Miles an Hour in Dash.

In addition to winning the race, Howard's Mike attained an average speed of 204.068 miles an hour in four dashes over the official three kilometer course to qualify for the Thompson trophy race, America's land plane speed classic. The qualifying speed is 200 miles an hour. The race is scheduled for Labor day.

Fourth place in the closed course event was won by William Ong, flying Howard's other Menasco powered racer, Ike. He averaged 166 miles an hour. Bob Clampett of San Francisco, flying a Keith rider, low wing racer [Menasco powered], finished fifth. He lost quite a bit of speed on the turns. S. J. Wittman of Oshkosh, Wis., was sixth in his Cirrus powered racer, and Walter Carr, Saginaw, Mich., flying a stream-lined racer powered by a Curtiss Ox-5 racer, did not finish after cruising around for six laps at 80 miles an hour.

Before the race, Howard revealed how he keeps track of the laps. He ties a package of ten matches to the control stick and as he passes the home pylon on each lap, tears one off. The rest of the time he devotes to flying Mike gently with the tips of two fingers. Howard still makes the perfect vertical pylon turns that won him the title "pylon polisher" at Chicago two years ago, when he first entered racing.

Total Winnings $495.

Howard said his first prize money was $405. In fourth place Ong won $90 for him, making a total of $495 in prizes for the team. The total of prizes paid in the race was $900. His insurance for the two planes in the one race cost Howard more than the team won. Last year the total prizes paid in the same race was $4,300.

Howard said his planes would be entered in the speed events at the American Legion charity air meet at Sky Harbor on Sunday, Sept. 11. He plans to recoup there a little of his investment of $20,000 in "Mike" and "Ike." John Livingston plans to be in the Chicago races, as do most of the pilots here.

Doolittle Has a Workout.

Maj. James H. Doolittle took the Gee Bee II., racer that he plans to fly in the Thompson race up this afternoon for test runs, but did not open it up because adjustments are needed, he said. At about 5,000 feet the plane streaked across the sky, at what Maj. Doolittle described as "cruising speed." The plane is powered by an 800 horsepower Wasp motor and is expected to break the land speed record here this week.

Art Chester of Joliet, Ill., flying a Davis monoplane [Leblond motor], won the first division of the Sohio Mystery Derby today. Roy Hunt of Norman, Okla., who won the Cord cup race sweepstakes last Saturday, took second place in his Great Lakes biplane [Cirrus powered], and Lee Sherrick, Canton, O., was third in a Travelair [Curtiss Ox-6 motor].

The first pursuit group of the army air corps, roaring down in a simulated attack from a high altitude, saluted a large crowd at the national air races this afternoon on their arrival from Selfridge field, Mich., for "Army day."

Thrills Aplenty.

Spud Manning, a stunt parachute jumper from Hollywood, thrilled the crowd by an 11,000 foot delayed drop from an autogiro.

Alford J. Williams, former navy ace, now a captain in the marine corps, gave the finest stunting exhibition seen at the races in many a day. He looped his Bliss powered Curtiss Hawk fifty feet above the field, spun it twice at the top, and finished the maneuver. He finished by climbing to 1,500 feet, spiraling down on his back and rolling over right side up just in time to land.

James G. Haislip, who won the Bendix dash and set a new transcontinental record yesterday, landed here in his Wedell Williams racer [Wasp Jr. motor after flying from Floyd Bennett airport, New York, this afternoon. He predicted that his record of 10 hours 19 minutes would be lowered to about 8 hours next year.

Mrs. Putnam Arrives.

Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam, who recently set a new nonstop transcontinental record for women, landed here today and was enthusiastically applauded. Flight Commander R. L. R. Atcherly of Great Britain, one of the team of foreign stunt flyers, who amused Chicago two years ago with his "crazy flying," came to grief when a wheel on his Curtiss Fledgling [Wright powered] broke as he skidded the plane along the ground.

Many at Ceremony

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Miss Virginia Gardiner, radio and concert singer, today became the bride of Roy Sarles Durstine, vice president and general manager of the advertising firm of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn. Many notables attended the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Theodore Gardiner of 133 East 80th street. The bride is a member of a distinguished family of Pennsylvania pioneers and is a direct descendant of Dick Whittington, thrice lord mayor of London.

ORDERS POLICE TO AID TRAFFIC SAFETY DRIVE

Commissioner James P. Allman yesterday ordered Chicago police to begin strict enforcement on Thursday of all motor vehicle laws in an effort to reduce automobile fatalities and accidents. The drive is part of the National Safety council campaign to be carried on in fifty-three cities. Each district police captain was ordered to make a daily report on the number of arrests for traffic violations. The 300 members of the detective bureau were drafted to take part in the campaign.

Henry Psiodo, 18 years old, of Chicago, was killed yesterday in Plymouth, Ind., when he was struck by a truck while repairing a tire on his automobile parked at the roadside. Tony Dombrowski, 43 years old, of Indiana Harbor, died of injuries suffered on Sunday in a similar accident on the Dunes highway. He was struck by a car driven by W. L. Ross, chauffeur for Benjamin Milbrath, a Gary contractor. George Cholte, 8 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Cholte, of Aurora, died yesterday of a fracture of the skull incurred when he was struck near his home by an automobile driven by Herman Reichennacher, also of Aurora.

Two automobile deaths in Cook county increased the toll since Jan. 1 to 772. The victims:

Herman Brown, 40 years old, 2120 Schiller avenue, Wilmette. Fatally hurt when he was crushed between two heavy motor trucks in the yards of a building contractor. He died in the Evanston hospital.

John Johnson, 61 years old, of 6451 Grove avenue, an iceman. Died this morning in St. Bernard's hospital of injuries received last night in front of 6457 South State street when he was struck by the automobile of B. B. Biggers, 7643 Stewart avenue, and run over by the car of Ralph Burlingame, 316 West 60th street.

FORMER STOCK TRADER KILLS SELF IN HOTEL

Hoyt P. Smith Is Found Dead by Brother.

Hoyt P. Smith, once a well known independent trader in La Salle street but more recently a frequenter of the race tracks, shot and killed himself late yesterday afternoon in his room at the Congress hotel, where he had lived for more than fifteen years. He was about 53 years old.

His brother, Arthur Smith, of 4650 Clarendon avenue, had gone to the hotel to visit Smith and was knocking at his door when there was a shot. It was followed soon after by another. Breaking into the room, the brother and hotel attachés found Smith's body, unclothed, lying on a bed. There were two bullet wounds in the head.

Note Gives No Motive.

There was a note on a dresser instructing Arthur Smith to handle post mortem affairs, but it gave no motive for the suicide. The brother said Smith had been despondent recently over ill health and the loss of a large fortune piled up in the boom days of the stock market. He added that he knew nothing of race track losses, which other friends said had been heavy in recent weeks.

Smith was reported, shortly after the war, to have broken the bank at the Havana casino. Later, according to a friend, he was connected in an executive capacity with Col. E. R. Bradley's casino in Palm Beach.

In addition to betting himself, Smith had acted as a commissioner for others desiring to place wagers on the races here, it was said.

Twice Married and Divorced.

He had been twice married and twice divorced. In 1922 he married Mrs. Dorothy Reimers Smith, widow of William Reimers, manager of the Palmer house, who was killed in an automobile accident in 1921. The couple had a honeymoon trip to Florida and Cuba. Later, in a divorce bill, Mrs. Smith charged that Smith had tried to throw her from an airplane on this trip.

Mrs. Smith shot and killed herself in 1927. It was reported last night that a second wife had divorced Smith.

FREES ALIMONY PRISONER; "NO MONEY IN JAIL"

"You might just as well be out of jail," Superior Judge Ross C. Hall yesterday told Earl F. Goodman, an automobile salesman who had spent 32 days in Alimony row at the county jail. "You can't earn any money while you are there and certainly there is a chance that you might if you were out."

Goodman had been sentenced to jail by Judge Marcus Kavanagh because he was $275 in arrears in payments of alimony and support money to his former wife, Mrs. Lillian F. Goodman, 4950 Washington boulevard. His attorney, Martin Walsh, yesterday appeared with a petition for his release on a habeas corpus writ, but Judge Hall refused to rule upon the lawyer's arguments. Goodman was released on the judge's order.

EASY PROBATION AROUSES GRAND JURY CRITICISM

Ask Prosecutor to Fight Freeing of Criminals.

Grand jurors expressed disagreement yesterday with Judge James J. Kelly's recent statement that the state's attorney's duty ends with the conviction of a criminal and that the prosecutor should have no voice in deciding whether the criminal should be placed on probation.

The jurors had shown an interest in the proceedings that followed Judge Kelly's action in freeing three shotgun bandits on probation. Yesterday the jurors summoned Col. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the Chicago crime commission, and State's Attorney Swanson to the jury room where a two hour conference was held. It was said later that probation in auto theft and gun toting cases was discussed.

Cite Record of Judge.

Records were brought in and it was learned later that the statement was made that one judge granted probation to 25 criminals during the month of August and 18 of these were men convicted of robbery with a gun. This was said to be Judge Kelly's record.

It was reported the jurors voiced sharp criticisms when told that some judges believed "that everybody is entitled to commit one robbery without going to prison." When informed that Judge Kelly had told an assistant state's attorney that probation was a matter for judical discretion and not a prosecutor's business at all, several jurors, it was learned, expressed disapproval. The jurors' view was that a prosecutor is the man who stands between a captured felon and society and that he should resist to the utmost any tendency to tender heartedness in dealing with a criminal.

It was learned that Mr. Swanson was urged by the jurors to make greater efforts to send criminals to prison, resisting all influences. He was told that leadership is expected of him in the fight against crime. There was said to be some dissatisfaction expressed over general laxity in dealing with gun toters.

Rising Auto Theft Rate.

Regarding automobile thefts the jury discussed the fact that 100 machines are stolen each day and a recent police report was to the effect that stolen automobiles valued at $2,000,000 were recovered in one month, which suggested the belief that the amount of loss was far greater. The jurors were interested in this as an economic problem as well as a criminal one, it was stated, as insurance rates would soon be prohibitive if auto thievery increases.

In the corridors, after the conference, a discussion was heard in which Judge Kelly's action in freeing two convicts from prison was compared with the release of James "Fur" Sammons a few months ago by Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of McHenry county.

"Shurtleff released a Cook county convict and Judge Kelly, of Cook county, released two Champaign county convicts," was one remark.

"Something ought to be done to stop such practices," said another. Then it was learned the grand jury plans to make some recommendations when their month of service is up.

CITY GETS BIDS ON THE DISPOSAL OF ITS GARBAGE

Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works, yesterday had under consideration bids from six companies for a contract to collect garbage and refuse. At present this work is being done by city laborers, but under a provision in the 1932 budget the commissioner, with the approval of the city council, may turn over the work to a private contractor.

The contractors bid on the following four proposals: Collection with their own equipment of garbage and refuse south of Roosevelt road; collection with own equipment of garbage alone north of Roosevelt road, and on those two proposals on the basis of using city owned equipment. Separate bids were submitted on each of the four proposals for each of the seven collection districts into which the city is divided. Garbage is separated from other refuse only north of Roosevelt road.

The lowest bid was submitted by Thomas Irwin and H. Kerschner, 201 North Wells street. They offered to collect garbage and refuse south of Roosevelt road for 66 cents a cubic yard and garbage north of Roosevelt road for $1.89 a ton, in each instance using city equipment.

VON PAPEN WINS RIGHT TO RULE AS A DICTATOR

Reichstag Picks Aid of Hitler as Speaker.

Rauch of the Bavarian Peoples party was elected third vice president.

Tonight these four men were seeking President von Hindenburg's permission to visit him at Neudeck to impress upon him the orderly behavior of Germany's parliament and to suggest he give it a chance to function in accordance with the constitution before determining to dissolve it.

Sends Telegram to President.

Speaker Goering sent the following message to the president:

"There is no state of emergency in Germany which would justify the elimination of the reichstag. The German people and foreign countries are worried by the rumors that the reichstag will be eliminated. I am firmly convinced that the president will act only according to the provisions of the constitution which he took to uphold under oath."

The Hitler leader, Joseph Goebbels, said he expected Goering would leave to call on Von Hindenburg tomorrow night.

"I cannot believe that the president will dissolve the reichstag," Dr. Heinrich Breuning, former chancellor and Centrist leader, said tonight. "He ordered new elections to adapt the parliament better to the wishes of the nation. The nation expressed its wishes when it went to the polls. If the parliament is dissolved now it would be against the wishes of the people as expressed in the elections which Von Hindenburg and Von Papen ordered."

Von Papen Equally Firm.

This, the Centrists contend, would be a violation of the constitution.

Von Papen's associates are convinced that Von Hindenburg will not allow the pleas of the parliamentarians to sway him. But the chancellor expected to postpone the dissolution of the reichstag a short while, figuring that a postponement will bring the Centrists and Hitlerites closer together and induce them to make reciprocal concessions which the chancellor hopes will compromise them in the eyes of their voters.

MRS. POLLAK PUT ON TRIAL; CASE MAY END TODAY

Judge Hears Evidence on Killing Without Jury.

toria Schultz, indicted with her as "accessory before and after the fact," wore a defiant expression, but she sat quietly. She is the key witness, the only available spectator to the tragic scene that ended the life of Joseph Pollak.

Simon Mysza, father of Dorothy, whose presence in the flat during the quarrel is disputed, has been missing for the last three weeks. Assistant State's Attorney Michael Ostrowski, who questioned him in Polish the day after the shooting, will testify that Mysza told him he was there and that he later accused his daughter of murdering her husband in cold blood.

Attacks Testimony on Knife.

Prosecutor Mast was drumming away at the casual memory of Mrs. Schultz, who "forgot" about the knife which she told the police Pollak was waving as he rushed at his wife and she shot him.

"After her first statement, in which no mention of a knife had been made, Mrs. Schultz told the police she had forgotten to mention it," he pointed out to the court. "The house was searched, but no knife was found. Then she led us to a sideboard and produced a butcher knift. At the inquest Mrs. Schultz said it was a butcher knife. Mrs. Pollak said it was a paring knife."

Attorney O'Brien followed the barrage of accusation with a perfunctory demand that his client be released. When this was refused by the court, he asked and obtained a nolle prosequi of the charges against Mrs. Schultz, who will be called and questioned as a court's witness. This will permit the state to question her.

Tells of Dorothy's Life.

"This defendant was a girl of 23 and Pollak a man of 50 when they were married," declared Attorney O'Brien. "They lived at Drexel boulevard and 48th street for thirty days. She gave him $1,250 while they lived there. She bought his clothes. She was a devoted wife and there was not a ripple on the sea of marriage at that time. Then one day he got a telephone call from a woman. She asked 'Who was that?' He slapped her face, put on his coat and hat, and walked out.

"A few days later he flung her out of doors at 4 in the morning. They were still on their honeymoon. She ran to a neighbor for consolation. From then on her life was a program of threats of violence and black and blue bruises.

Says Pollak Kicked Wife.

"She made trips to Mrs. Cebulski's house and pleaded with her to leave her husband alone. One day Pollak caught her there and kicked her in the abdomen. Once when they were out driving she waved to a friend and he struck her and cut her lip. She appealed to her mother. Her mother begged Pollak not to treat her daughter that way and was told 'Mind your own business. I'll cut her heart out.'

"Dorothy Pollak shot as the law gave her a right to do. She had stood all and more than the law asks. She was in fear. She shot in self-defense."

At one point in these presentations Judge Fisher reminded the attorneys that they were not addressing a jury—that he would stick to the facts and dispense with oratory.

Frank Cebulski Testifies.

Frank Cebulski, the husband of Mrs. Julia Cebulski, accused by Dorothy Pollak of having alienated the affections of her husband and causing all the trouble between them, was the only witness placed on the stand. He testified that he was for three years a chauffeur for Pollak, but declared he did not know his employer's business.

On the afternoon of July 27, he related, Mrs. Pollak came to his home and asked him, "Where is my husband?"

"I said, 'I don't know,'" he went on. "She asked, 'Where is your wife?' I told her my wife was out—at her brother's house. Then she said, 'Every time your wife is out my husband is away. I'm going to get through with him today.'"

"Did Mrs. Pollak say that she was going to kill him?" cross-questioned O'Brien. A—No.

Q.—Did she have a weapon? A.—I didn't see. She had a purse.

Q.—Did she talk of a weapon? A—No.

Q.—Did she threaten to kill him? A.—No.

Cebulski, who lives with his wife and three children at 1512 West 47th street, was then excused as the opposing counsel argued over the dismissal of charges against Mrs. Schultz. Mrs. Cebulski also will appear as a state's witness.

Widow Wears Funeral Garb.

Dorothy Pollak, who wore the same black dress with a white cowl collar that she wore to her husband's funeral, sat quietly behind her attorney during the testimony except for occasional whispered conversations with him. If the case proceeds today at yesterday's pace she probably will be called to the stand either just before or just after the noon recess.

Which means that the closing argument may be made before adjournment this afternoon, and that Justice Fisher may have indicated by nightfall whether she will spend her days in Joliet or walk forth a free woman.

BRITISH MILL STRIKE 95% SUCCESS; LONDON BUSMEN VOTE TO QUIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The Lancashire cotton strike spread rapidly today and tonight it was estimated that the walkout is 95 per cent effective. Less than 30,000 of the 200,000 operatives in the manufacturing section of the industry are working. Pickets were active today in a majority of towns where mills are still working and succeeded in inducing thousands of workers to join the strike. In several instances employers decided to shut down the mills to avoid possible trouble. Fifteen mills which were either partially or completely running yesterday were closed today.

Meanwhile London's busmen decided to strike today. Unless favorable terms are arranged between now and Sept. 23, employés of the London General Omnibus company will walk out on that date, resulting in a complete tieup of the city's street passenger traffic.

The decision was arrived at after a nine hour conference of delegates of the workers, which unanimously agreed to reject the proposal.

HOOVER PARDONS MAN SERVING 20 YEARS FOR FRAUD

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Andrew E. Nelson, former Minnesota securities commissioner, convicted in the Coehran gold note case in 1928 and sentenced to a 20 year term in Leavenworth federal penitentiary, has been pardoned by President Hoover.

Nelson was released from the penitentiary Aug. 24 after President Hoover signed the pardon Aug. 18, it was learned here tonight, and he has returned to his home in Minneapolis. He has been in ill health the last few years.

With more than 20 others including C. A. Cochran, Nelson was named in an indictment returned by a federal grand jury in St. Paul in 1927. The indictment which cited the alleged inner workings of the Cochran organization, charged that Nelson issued permits for the sale of securities of the Duluth and Little Falls Brick companies. It was charged that the companies never were intended for the manufacture of brick but merely to further a central Cochran promotion.

HUBBY SO ATTENTIVE SHE LOSES JOB; JUDGE GRANTS HER DIVORCE

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Because she charged her husband paid too much attention to her after they were married, and eventually caused her to lose her job, Mrs. Vena M. Miller has been granted a divorce.

Mrs. Miller told Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson that her husband, against her protest, sent her flowers every day at the office where she was employed. She said her employers informed her they could no longer employ a woman whose husband could afford to send flowers every day.

As soon as she lost her job, she said, her husband lost interest in her, and even gave up his job as a railroad engineer.

Miller's attorney protested that Miller did not give up his job, but was fired because he stopped a passenger train to go to a farmhouse near the railroad and buy a pound of butter to take to his wife.

FLYING FAMILY IN LABRADOR ON ATLANTIC TRIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Aug. 30.—The flying Hutchinson family, including George, his wife, and two small daughters, and a crew of four, left Anticosti island today for Hopedale, Labrador, the next scheduled stop on their leisurely air jaunt from New York to Europe. They reached Hopedale, Labrador, early this afternoon, wireless dispatches said.

Capt. J. A. Mollison, bound for Europe to complete his round trip Atlantic flight, today delayed his departure from Nova Scotia for Harbor Grace, N. F., because of foggy weather. He said he will remain where he landed yesterday, near Sydney, until the fog lifts.

Clew to Lost Airmen?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30—Authorities are investigating the report of a road patrolman that he heard an airplane engine suddenly die out over sea on the Welsh coast near Talybont about 7 p. m., Friday. The report has given rise to the suggestion that the machine may have been that of the missing Atlantic flyers, Clyde Lee and John Bochkon, who left Harbor Grace Thursday.

NEGRO SHOT TO DEATH.

Pope Secures Military Exemption for 2,500 Men

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The pope's cloak of peace will exempt about 2,500 men from service in the Italian army. The Lateran treaty automatically exempted 600 citizens of Vatican City and provided that others might receive similar treatment. Now a mixed commission has drafted a list of 1,900 Italian citizens "indispensable" to the Vatican and they will not have to serve.

ROOSEVELT WILL IGNORE JUDGE'S WALKER RULING

To Continue Quiz on Broad Basis Friday.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt will disregard the opinions set forth by Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Staley and continue his "common sense" method of hearing the Mayor Walker removal charges, it became known here today.

When the hearing is resumed Friday afternoon—Gov. Roosevelt has received no request for a further delay from Mayor Walker because of illness—the snipping of red tape will continue, despite the court ruling that the governor is not following the narrow lane of judicial procedure.

Word from New York was to the effect that Mayor Walker is ill in bed from nervous exhaustion brought on by his trial and the death of his brother and that he might ask the governor for an "indefinite postponement." Tonight Gov. Roosevelt had received no official word of the illness.

Governor Sure of Ground.

The fact that the procedure of the hearings will not be changed by the Staley opinion attacking the legality of the use of the Hofstadter testimony at the present hearing was learned from friends of the governor, who pointed out that Mr. Roosevelt believed he has observed the legal rule on witnesses by offering John Curtin, fifty subpoenas for witnesses who testified before the Seabury hearings.

It was explained that when Mr. Curtin asks the governor to abide by the procedure laid down by Justice Staley he probably will be told that the court's criticism is regarded as gratuitous and asked to bring on any witnesses he may have in reserve.

The governor's viewpoint is that every witness who appeared before the committee was cross-examined by the minority members—the four Tammany Democrats.

Considers All Evidence.

Justice Staley, while admitting lack of jurisdiction over the governor, held that prior term charges should not be admitted at the present time. The governor is known to feel that it is sound public policy to continue to consider evidence which was not disclosed before Mayor Walker's reelection and, therefore, was not before the voters who reelected him.

Gov. Roosevelt wants the Walker case to move along and, his friends say, feels that it cannot be speeded up if permitted to become involved in a maze of legal technicalities.

The governor plans a long session Friday carrying on until midnight and then Saturday he will resume his week-end campaigning as the Democratic presidential candidate.

Speaks Saturday Night.

Gov. Roosevelt will speak in Bridgeport Saturday night, the topic of the speech not yet having been disclosed. It will be a brief address, however, and the governor will return immediately to his Hyde Park, N. Y., home.

Gov. Albert C. Ritchie called on Gov. Roosevelt late today and placed his services at the disposal of the candidate. The Maryland executive said he would speak for Roosevelt in Chicago some time in October and that he expected to confine his speaking to the industrial cities of the east, Illinois and Indiana.

"I believe the Roosevelt prospects in Maryland are good," Gov. Ritchie said. "The people want a change and are going to express that desire at the polls in November."

Gov. Ritchie returned to New York City late tonight.

CITY SCHOOLS GET $75,000 IN TUITION FEES

The board of education has received nearly $55,000 for tuition for pupils attending Chicago high schools who live in non-high school districts of the county, Benjamin F. Buck, assistant superintendent of schools, said yesterday. The tuition per pupil is $175.

Mr. Buck said that Chicago sends a few pupils to schools in the county but that the balance is in favor of the city.

"Another source of cash revenue," he said, "is the $20,900 a year which is paid by parents of pupils living outside the county, some of these students coming here from far distant states."

ACCIDENTAL DEATH VERDICT.

A verdict of accidental death due to a fall was returned yesterday at an inquest into the death of Mrs. Victoria Slazek, 35 years old, 13410 Brandon avenue, whose body was found Aug. 18 at the entrance to a basement flat at 13351 Baltimore avenue.

ROOSEVELT TO CALL SPECIAL RELIEF SESSION

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Gov. Roosevelt has determined that it will be necessary to call a special session of the legislature to provide additional unemployment relief, but probably will not summon the legislators until after the presidential election.

This was disclosed today in a letter from M. Maldwin Fertig, counsel to the governor, to Howard S. Guttman, Republican candidate for the assembly.

Information from Albany was to the effect that the governor did not contemplate calling a special session before election but would do so immediately afterward. A $30,000,000 bond issue to provide funds for unemployment relief will be submitted to the voters at the election and the governor and some of the Republican legislative leaders have agreed that it would be advisable to wait until this issue, approval of which is expected, is voted.

RED CROSS ASKS 100,000 WOMEN TO SEW FOR THE NEEDY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—(AP)—An appeal for 100,000 women to lend their aid in converting government donated cotton into clothing for the needy was made tonight by James L. Fieser, vice chairman of the Red Cross.

Fieser said a questionnaire to Red Cross chapters had disclosed that 8,000,000 persons need clothing. He said the help of women to aid in fashioning the 500,000 bales of cotton after it becomes cloth was imperative.

Information coming to the Red Cross, he said, was that the greatest immediate need is for children's clothing, then for shirts and undershirts for men and for women's dresses.

GIRL DROWNS OFF BEACH.

POLL STARTED OF CONGRESS ON REPEAL ISSUE

Wets Say End of Dry Law Is Up to Voters.

B. M. Winston of Chicago, vice chairman of the Illinois division of the Association Against the 18th Amendment, announced yesterday that a nation-wide poll of all congressional candidates in the Nov. 8 election is to be begun immediately by his organization. This is separate from a similar poll to be taken by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

B. M. WINSTON.

"Regardless whether Mr. Hoover or Mr. Roosevelt is elected," said Mr. Winston, "the thing that will do the most to further the repeal of the 18th amendment is the election of senators and congressmen pledged to repeal.

"Prohibition will continue unless two-thirds of congress votes to submit the question to the people. If we cannot gain a two-thirds majority in November it will be two years before we have another chance to elect a favorable congress.

Seeks Direct Confirmation.

"Here in Illinois both parties favor repeal. Both candidates for the senate favor repeal. A majority of the fifty-four candidates for the house of representatives favors repeal. While the positions of many candidates are fairly well known, we desire to have direct confirmation from the candidates themselves before throwing our support behind any candidate.

"We are convinced that a majority of the people in every congressional district of Illinois are today wholeheartedly for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. We appeal to that majority, as well as to all our members, to vote only for candidates pledged to repeal. Do not be fooled by pussyfooting and weaseling.

"The answers to our questionnaire will be published well in advance of the election. Watch for this accurate information on the stand of men who are seeking your votes."

Mrs. Yost Tells Prospects.

Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, chairman of the women's division of the Republican national committee headquarters in the Palmer house, returned to Chicago yesterday from an eastern trip which she said strengthened her convictions of victory in November.

The national headquarters announced the appointment of Nathan William McChesney as director of the national Hoover-Curtis organization bureau.

Judge Otto Kerner, nominee for attorney general on the Democratic state ticket, has accepted the invitation of the Illinois Young People's league to be the guest of honor at its first annual picnic. It will be held on Sunday, Sept. 11, at National grove in the forest preserve. The grove is at 28th street and Des Plaines avenue, North Riverside.

KANSAS DEMOCRATS AND G. O. P. DECLARE FOR DRY PLATFORMS

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Declarations against prohibition repeal were written into the Democratic and Republican state platforms at the meetings of the Kansas party councils here today.

Gov. Harry H. Woodring, nominee for reelection and a supporter of the presidential candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, read the Democratic platform which was adopted with this prohibition plank:

"We reaffirm our adherence to the traditional Kansas policy of prohibition. We will oppose all attempts to weaken this law and pledge the strict enforcement of this and all other laws."

The Republican prohibition plank echoed the stand of Vice President Charles Curtis, who voiced his opposition to repeal in his recent acceptance address here. It reads:

"The Republican party of Kansas adheres to its established policy of strict and impartial law enforcement and prohibition of the liquor traffic. We are opposed to the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

W. AURORA HIGH CUTS TEACHERS' PAY ANOTHER 10%

The trustees of West Aurora High school voted yesterday to cut the pay of teachers in the school a second 10 per cent and also to shorten the school term by a month.

This was made necessary, it was explained, by the action of the Kane county board of review in recently reducing real estate assessments in the county by 20 per cent, thereby reducing the tax revenue of the school district by an equal amount. The school board voted a 10 per cent pay cut last spring.

The East Aurora High school board and other school districts throughout the county are expected to take similar steps. The term at West High was reduced from ten to nine months by extending the Christmas vacation to three weeks, at which time the district will also make savings on heat and light, and by setting the commencement next spring for June 2 instead of June 16, the date in the past.

CERMAK BLASTS EUROPEAN MYTH OF EVIL CHICAGO

Mayor Predicts City as Safest in U. S.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Mayor Cermak of Chicago got his dander up today and before a large crowd of Americans and distinguished French guests at the American club luncheon vigorously exploded the European myth that Chicago is broke and wallowing in crime.

"I did not come to Europe to defend Chicago," the mayor said afterwards, "I come over here for a rest. But I had no idea of the exaggerated idea that many Europeans had of Chicago. I was simply 'burned up' when I kept on hearing the same absurd questions everywhere I went. Thus my vacation trip has turned into a campaign to debunk the mythical idea of Chicago prevailing over here."

Blasts Erroneous Ideas.

That is just what Mr. Cermak did today at the American club. Point by point he exploded erroneous ideas about Chicago which had spread throughout the world during the régime of his predecessor. He described the reforms accomplished since he took over the office and those still to be worked out.

"When you come to Chicago you will come to the safest city in the United States," the mayor said.

To the distinguished French officials present, who included Maurice Palmade, budget minister, as the government's representative, editors, bankers and others, Mr. Cermak gave assurance that Chicago is not broke, "even if it is badly bent."

And the mayor told them just why the city is bent and how credit has been restored since the house cleaning started. Regarding the 1933 Century of Progress exposition Mr. Cermak said he was able to give solemn assurance that it would open on time, and perhaps a month earlier than anticipated. He declared he had succeeded in inducing all central European nations to exhibit at the fair.

Talks with Insull.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Mayor Cermak of Chicago today talked for some time with Samuel Insull, former public utilities magnate, reminiscing about their home town. Mr. Insull told a reporter he had no plans for the future and wishes only to be let alone.

The mayor said later that they had discussed only generalities. "We didn't talk about business," he said, "for we had no conceivable business to discuss."

To Our Fellow Merchants

It is our duty as merchants to keep the public advised in the matter of commodity prices. No merchant shirked that duty when prices were moving down. It was shouted from the house tops

Why not be equally frank and informative when prices move up?

Your customers are entitled to this consideration. They should be given an opportunity to anticipate their needs before retail stocks are replaced at higher prices

We've been doing it for over a month; we've quoted newspaper reports, market quotations, and the report of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics. You know from your own experience that prices are rising

Won't you join with us in giving these facts to the public just as frankly and as fearlessly as you did when prices were dropping?

There are no doubt others, like ourselves, who anticipated the rise in prices and contracted for fall goods before the advances became effective. This advice, too, should be given to the public

It will make for confidence, business action, and provide the impetus of public buying that is so essential to the return of prosperity

IT'S CHEAPER TO BUY GOOD SOAP THAN NEW CLOTHES

The biggest bargain of them all.. saves your clothes and spares the hands

"It's the purity of a soap that keeps washables from being ruined," says Mrs. Robert R. McCormick. "That's why I always insist on American Family Flakes. It's pure and therefore safe.. saves endless worry and expense."

Most revealing is the experience related by Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley, noted for her African explorations. "In the jungle," she explains, "our wash boy had nothing but cold water from the river . . . and American Family. But even the dirtiest khaki came out amazingly clean.. stains completely gone. And woolens never shrank or faded."

"We wouldn't use anything but American Family Flakes," asserts Mrs. Clifford Rodman, referring to general household cleaning. "Any other soap that cleans as fast would take off the finish."

"Kirk's American Family is the most economical soap of all," say the women who manage Chicago's best appointed homes. They have learned that the few pennies saved by buying soap flakes of doubtful quality may be lost many times over in the things that may be ruined.

That's why they insist on American Family. It contains no free lye or other harmful ingredients that might eat into fabrics, fade colors, or tear fine textures to threads. On the contrary, it's as pure as pure can be.. makes cleaning tasks easy.. spares the hands. Created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region, it makes double the suds of ordinary soaps.. and it's the mild, thorough double-suds that makes the difference.

JAPAN IS ASKED TO QUERY U. S. ON FLEET IN PACIFIC

M. P. Sees a Connection with Manchuria.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 30.—Hitoshi Ashida, former diplomat and now one of the leaders of the Seiyukai party, in a speech in the lower house of the diet today questioned Foreign Minister Count Yasuya Uchida as to what the government is doing about "the concentration of the bulk of the American fleet in the Pacific." He asked whether Japan is behaving like an ostrich in being satisfied with repeatedly telling the world it is right in its actions in Manchuria without considering whether the world looks at things in the same light.

Ashida intimated that the concentration of the American fleet was due to a misunderstanding in the United States as to Japan's intentions in Manchuria.

"Count Uchida has frequently asserted that Japan's attitude is fair and just," he declared, "but to what extent has he succeeded in making the world understand?"

Recalls Defeat in League.

"Japan was defeated, 13 to 1, in the last league of nations assembly," Ashida recalled. "Is anything being done to avert a similar failure in November?"

Count Uchida answered that he saw no need of an explanation from the United States regarding the fleet concentration and declared that Japan is determined to hold to her present contentions in the face of all opposition.

"Naturally, we are making every effort to improve the situation through diplomats abroad," he said.

Three hundred army officers, including Sadao Araki, minister of war, and other leaders, were told tonight by Ventaro Kaneko, privy councillor, to remember that Japan had promised American backing for an Asiatic Monroe doctrine and to keep that fact in mind in dealing with the Manchurian question.

Kaneko, in the course of an hour's lecture, stressed the necessity of Japan announcing to the world an Asiatic doctrine. He claimed that this was urged upon him when he met the late Theodore Roosevelt during the latter's presidency.

Names Envoy to U. S.

The foreign office today ordered Hiroshi Saito, counsellor of the London embassy, to proceed at once to Washington, D. C., to become chargé d'affaires. Saito previously served in Washington for seven years. It is understood that the foreign office feels Saito will succeed better than Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi in informing America of Japan's stand regarding Manchuria and in dispelling American suspicions. Debuchi recently left Washington for Tokio on leave.

Officers of the Kwantung army in Manchuria tonight requested Minister of War Araki, to increase the forces there for the purpose of making the South Manchuria railway zone safer. It was explained that the increasing activities by bandits has rendered even the railway zone unsafe. The recent attack on Mukden by Chinese bandits was given as a typical case.

Father and Boy Missing; Fear Deaths in the Lake

Mrs. Alice Hallaran, 11822 Eggleston avenue, reported to the Kensington police last night that her husband, William, 35 years old, and her son, William Jr., 5 years old, had not returned home after leaving earlier in the day for a swim at the 79th street beach. She said she feared that they might have been drowned. Hallaran usually rented a suit when swimming at the beach, and today the suit rental list will be examined. If the list shows Hallaran rented a suit and has not turned it in the water will be dragged.

YOUNG T. R. DROPS PLAN TO STUMP IN U. S. FOR HOOVER

MANILA, Aug. 31.—[Wednesday.]—(AP)—Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt announced today that he had called off his proposed trip to the United States to participate in the Republican Presidential campaign after President Hoover recommended that he remain at his post.

Gov. Roosevelt had planned to sail Sept. 14. He is known to have told Republican chieftains that he felt he should remain here because of important matters pending in the Philippines legislature. The legislature is struggling with a budget balancing program and measures to reorganize the government.

Americans in the Philippines protested recently when Gov. Roosevelt announced his intention of going to the United States. National Republican leaders had counted upon the campaigning of the son of the late President Roosevelt to add color to the campaign and possibly to counteract any psychological advantage that might result to the opposition through use of the "Roosevelt name" by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee.

BESTS POLICE IN FREEDOM OF PRESS BATTLE

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Arthur Kasherman scored a victory over Minneapolis police today in his fight to sell his weekly newspaper the Public Press. He was brought into Municipal court on a charge of disorderly conduct growing out of an incident before the Municipal auditorium Aug. 20. He was found not guilty by Judge Paul S. Carroll.

Patrolman Carl Hanson, who arrested Kasherman, was the principal witness against him. He said that after he told Kasherman that the latter could not sell the publication Kasherman resisted an attempt to seize the papers. In finding Kasherman not guilty, Judge Carroll declared that "the state must show that the police officers had a right to do what they did."

In arresting Kasherman "the state is not prepared to prove that," replied Leo McHale, assistant city attorney.

An appeal to the courts for a restraining order against police officers was taken under advisement by Judge Levi M. Hall last Friday.

BOMB AT FRUIT MARKET SHAKES PART OF AUSTIN

Part of the Austin residential district was jarred early this morning by a bomb which was exploded in the front entrance of the United Fruit and Vegetable market at 5040 Madison street. The damage was estimated at $500.

The front of the store was wrecked, and part of the interior was damaged. Windows were broken in the offices of Dr. M. J. Parenti on the second floor. A family occupying the third floor was shaken.

William Rudin, owner of the store, told Sergt. William Quilter of the Austin police that the only motive for the bombing that he could suggest was competition in the soda pop business.

GRIEVANCES OF ILLINOIS MINERS NOT ALL WAGES

Have Technical Complaint About the Work.

BY PERCY WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Taylorville, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Citizens of Taylorville and Capt. Carl J. Meacham of the National Guard began to sound out opposing sides in this sector of the Illinois mine war today, hoping that arbitration conferences can start soon.

The tension engendered two weeks ago by mass picketing which withdrew all but 100 men from the four Peabody mines is dying down, and leaders of the community believe a meeting of minds can be effected, perhaps this week, or in the not too distant future.

Notwithstanding this feeling, fighting in which one miner was injured broke out at the Lamarsh Creek mine No. 6 today between pickets and an auto load of Pekin men attempting to return to work. Sheriff Frank Lichtweiss and a squad of deputies quelled the disturbance.

Miners Have Complaints.

No one believes that the strike itself is waning. The miners have a broad set of aims, one of them being the displacing of John H. Walker as state president of the United Mine Workers of America, and they are in revolt against acceptance of the new $5 wage scale.

Those are the objectives of central Illinois miners, and their Taylorville brethren are aligned with them. But there are local conditions, the miners here say, which, if corrected, would remove some of their grievances. There is a strong personal feeling against some of the mining company officials and there are technical complaints regarding their work below ground.

No conference with the miners, the company officials and leading citizens has as yet been called.

Fail to Return to Work.

Today was the deadline set by the company for the miners to return to work. But the men did not return to work. Slightly fewer than have been going down the last week ventured to the pits. And in so doing they passed through lines of pickets augmented by delegations of strikers from nearby towns—Pana, Witt, Panama, and others.

About 1,000 men were on hand at the gates of the Hewittville mine on the Taylorville city limits. Others picketed the Langley mine, and only about 100 men were working those two pits today. The Kincaid and Tovey mines have not hoisted a pound of coal since the strike.

Call Indiana Meeting.

Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Negotiations between Indiana miners and operators seeking a new wage contract will be resumed tomorrow, it was announced unexpectedly here today. It was believed here tonight that additional concessions had been made preparatory to tomorrow's meeting."

LITTLE CHILDREN OF RICH WILL GO TO PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Children of a number of wealthy and socially prominent families of Lake Forest will attend public schools instead of private schools this year, acording to John E. Baggett, superintendent of schools in the suburb. He estimated yesterday that the total enrollment of the three Lake Forest grade schools would reach 650 to 660 this wall as compared with last year's attendance of 580 pupils.

Among those listed for entry in the public schools are Carol and Joan Harrison, daughters of Carter H. Harrison Jr.; Carol and John Hawkins, children of J. C. Hawkins; Hempstead Washburne Jr.; Helen and Barbara Priebe, daugthers of Frank Priebe; Henry and Emmerson Chandler, children of Kent Chandler; Diana and Sylvia Prosser, daughters of John Prosser; David, Agar and Wilson A. Jaicks Jr.; Robert Sturgis, son of Mrs. Elisabeth Hammond Sturgis; Mary Bigford, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Bigford; Mary and Nancy Wilson, daughters of L. O. Wilson, and Nancy Broeksmit, daughter of John S. Broeksmit.

President Fred Held of the board of education, said yesterday that the Lake Forest schools would be opened next Tuesday with no financial worries. "There is money in the treasury," he said, "because we have paid our bills as we went along."

MRS. MILLSTONE WINS DIVORCE FROM EX-DOCTOR

Circuit Judge George Fred Rush yesterday granted Mrs. Anna Millstone, 742 West Marquette road, a divorce from Henry J. Millstone, former physician and plastic surgeon.

Mrs. Millstone charged cruelty. She was given a $300 cash payment and $25 a week for the support of herself and her son, Sanford, 15 years old. Twice before in the last four years she had filed suits against Dr. Millstone, once for separate maintenance and once for divorce, but on both these occasions a reconciliation was effected.

In April Dr. Millstone's license to practice was revoked by the state department of registration and education. He admitted before a medical examining board that he had performed an illegal operation.

500 MEN SLAIN IN ECUADOR BATTLE; CITY BOMBARDED

Civilians Are Trapped; Diplomats Protest.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The four day revolt for the right to name the president of Ecuador was declared by the government to have ended tonight with the rebels laying down their arms at Quito in full surrender.

Federal forces were expected to reenter the city tomorrow morning and reassume control after two days of sanguinary fighting resulting in the estimated deaths of 500 men on both sides and even heavier casualties among the wounded.

The rebel command was said to have unconditionally accepted the government's demands when they found they were waging a losing battle for possession of the Bolivar barracks, key to the city, and on the insistent petitions of foreign diplomats.

Unknown Man May Be President.

Humberto Albornoz, a relatively unknown figure, was advanced as the most likely candidate for provisional president and as the best available compromise between President-Elect Neptali Bonifax, the cause of the rebellion, and Acting President Baqueirzo Moreno, both of whom are believed to be in hiding.

Before the truce was reported reached, the American flag fluttered in the midst of bloodshed tonight as federals and rebels alternated bullets with olive branches. Advices from the capital said Carlos Freile Larrea, conservative party leader, had emerged from the Bolivar barracks in an automobile bearing the stars and stripes, presumably on a truce mission, and had promptly been taken prisoner by the Loyalists.

A few minutes before the defending insurgents had run up a white flag over the barracks and had indicated a desire to cease firing. Both sides followed with a renewed bombardment and the gesture was wreathed in the smoke of battle.

Diplomatic Corps Protests.

The diplomatic corps, in which is American Minister William Dawson, was understood to be making vigorous representations to the opposing camps to end hostilities, pointing out that the civilian population was being caught between two fires.

Their apprehension was increased when the insurrectionists, virtually hemmed in by augmented Loyalists, turned their artillery on the city without regard for the lives of non-combatants or the rescue work of the Red Cross, frantically ministering to the dead and dying.

Deserted by civilian volunteers as the engagement grew fiercer, the rebel command turned loose a considerable number of convicts and provided them with arms. The majority of them were captured by the besiegers.

WOMAN BLAMES SOCIETY MATRON FOR HER SUICIDE

Dope Addict Leaves Note, Jumps Out Window.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Drugs, debts and the depression enmeshed and drove to sucide another member of London's "half" society, testimony disclosed today at the inquest over "Babette" Graham, who dropped from the window of her hotel near Piccadilly and died, half clothed, on the sidewalk.

The woman, 42 years old, was the wartime wife of a farmer named Graham. She left a note blaming her death jointly on a man named Tom Chadbourne and Mrs. Elvira Dolores Barney, prominent society woman, and daughter of a British knight, who was acquitted a few weeks ago of murdering her lover, Thomas William Scott Stephen.

Mrs. Barney's Father in Court.

Mrs. Barney's father, Sir John Mullen, was present in court and heard the following note, which Mrs. Graham left to her landlady, read by the coroner:

"I am too unhappy to go on. Tom Chadbourne and Elvira Barney are responsible for this. Please communicate with my mother, my only relative, and make Sir John Mullen pay my account."

Mrs. Graham had been taking large doses of heroin daily by permission and twice had been in court, once when she was convicted of breaking the drugs act and was sentenced to undergo a cure, and again a year and a half ago on a charge of attempted suicide. These facts and the suicide letter were brought out by the coroner. The coroner added that he had discussed the references in the note with Sir John and had decided that there was no reason to ask him to explain.

Friendly with Rich Families.

Mrs. Graham was well known in London and on the continent. A few days before her return to London she visited Mrs. Barney in France. She had been destitute for many years, except for small sums received from her mother and gifts from wealthy families with whom she had been friendly. She had been a drug addict for 15 years.

FARM PICKETERS DRIVEN OFF IOWA CAPITAL ROADS

Milo Reno Tells Plans of Strike Movement.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The holiday pickets took to the tall corn today as determined Iowa farmers met them on one side and Sheriff Charles N. Keeling and his deputies stood by to "see that the law is enforced."

Only a few mild clashes occurred during the morning, with the khaki shirts and disgruntled farm hand pickets booing the passing truck drivers, and then the "blockaders" dispersed. Not a single truck was turned back and this evening not a single picket could be found on the highways leading into Des Moines.

Arrests Break Blockade.

The collapse of the attempted blockade was attributed to firm action of Sheriff Keeling last night, when he arrested eighteen pickets, including fourteen khaki shirts. Sheriffs in other counties—Pottawattamie and Woodbury particularly—have shown no disposition to enforce the laws against obstructing highways and molesting property, and the blockades are effective around Council Bluffs and Sioux City..

Nine of those arrested were held in lieu of $1,000 bonds today on charges of maintaining a nuisance and two were held on charges of malicious injury to property, while the others were released. Sheriff Keeling addressed the assembled pickets at their posts and told them they would command more respect in the community if they kicked out the khaki shirts, most of whom are veterans of the battle of Anacostia at Washington. Then the sheriff went among the mobs, stripping "M. P." badges from the arms of the khaki shirts and ordered them to get out of their "uniforms."

Leaders Threaten Reprisals.

"You're a disgrace to those uniforms," he told them. "Get them off or I'll drive you out of the county."

Out on highway 60, where 50 or more khaki shirts were encamped in ragged tents, Lyman Cook, "national chief of staff," told a different story.

"We're not wearing our uniforms today because the sheriffs arrested 14 of our men last night," he said. "They can't recognize us with these overalls on. This thing is not over."

John Chalmers of Madrid, state chairman of the holiday association, refused to discuss the defeat of the blockade, but another man to disagree with Sheriff Keeling's statement that it's all over, was Milo Reno, founder and national president.

Reno Speaks Confidently.

Mr. Reno, who for years has derived a respectable livelihood by sowing in the fertile field of agrarian unrest, was confined to his bed in his Highland Park home, "scared of pneumonia," but he readily consented to be interviewed. Propped up on two pillows, with his bushy, gray hair bobbing, he poured forth a stream of rural economics and vituperation.

First, Mr. Reno paid his respects to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, which commands about as much of his love as Addison Parker, attorney for the Des Moines Coöperative Dairy Marketing association, bitter enemy of the holiday movement.

The gleam of the under-dog's Messiah shone in his blue eyes as he set forth the goal of the holiday strike.

"This is no setback," he said. "We are not concerned over any local situation. The movement is nationwide and it's going straight forward. It's a state of mind and is spreading like fever. You can't stop it any more than you can stop the revolution."

The Revolution of 1876.

"Which revolution, Mr. Reno?"

"O, make it 1876. The movement is spreading in New York, New Jersey, Ohio—from Maine to California and from Canada to the gulf. On the 8th of September I'm speaking in Oklahoma, but I don't need to. Oklahoma is already organized. The same is true of Illinois. I don't need to speak there.

Asked whether there would be any further attempt to interfere with the bringing of Polk county produce to the market, now that the blockade had failed, Reno smiled bitterly.

"They can't take their stuff to market. Just let 'em try it!"

Explaining the objectives of the movement, Reno said the farmer had a right to determine the costs of production and to receive them.

"But the milk producers here are getting more than the farmers anywhere else, aren't they?" he was asked.

"That's a damned lie; you've been talking to Addison Parker," he shouted. He grabbed a telephone when he was asked to explain the price schedule and when he had finished his conversation with William Gross, his press agent, he explained:

"Gosh, I didn't know these dairies were getting 10 cents a quart in this town!" Surprise was expressed at his unfamiliarity with prices and then he was off again.

"This is no contemptible milk war. We're after production cost prices for everything the farmer produces. Our production cost schedule is no secret."

Traces Start of Movement.

Reno said the present holiday movement was an outgrowth of the old corn belt committee, formed in 1925 to promote the McNary-Haugen bill, twice vetoed, he said, "by Andy Mellon."

"The farm board," he continued, "was an administration attempt to get control of this committee, but they saw they couldn't and then did a walkout. But they split it wide open. There are two factions now, one headed by William Hirth (who has voiced his opposition to the holiday scheme) and the other headed by the farm board with its federation of farm bureaus."

Reno said it would be impossible to estimate the number of signers or sympathizers in the holiday movement because "it's growing so damn fast."

Besides being national president of the farmers' holiday association, each member of which is required to contribute 50 cents, Reno is a director and former president and founder of the Iowa Farmers' union; general manager of the Farmers' Union Mutual Life Insurance company, from which he receives a salary of $600 a month; president of the Farmers' Union Mutual Automobile association, with a salary of $200 a month, and a directing genius of the Farmers' Union Mutual Property Insurance company, but it could not be learned what compensation he receives from this organization.

Only $14,000 Yearly.

Once when he was accused of receiving $17,000 a year from his various organizations, Reno replied:

"That's a lie. I only get $14,000."

Members of the Des Moines coöperative declare that no Polk county farmers are really in sympathy with the holiday movement, and that those who engage in the picketing have a grudge against the association's manager, J. H. Mason. Mason forced the members to build milk houses with concrete floors and "clean up the milk" two years ago when the United States public health service condemned Des Moines milk.

Illinois Farmers Organize.

Moline, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Between 500 and 600 farmers met near Prophetstown to discuss a produce strike and other meetings are being held. Organizations are to be formed in Lee, Whiteside, Bureau and Henry counties.

The Rock Island county milk producers have threatened to strike after Iowa's denial to dealers of the Illinois and two Iowa counties of a permit to operate a creamery in Davenport, Ia. Residents of the tri-city area were uneasy today fearing their milk supply would be cut off. At a meeting in Rock Island milk producers voted to refuse to sell milk to distributors, turning their product over to the creamery operated by their own coöperative association.

Plan Siege at Cedar Rapids.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Ed Walshire, chairman of the Farmers' holiday association in Cedar county, the scene of the cattle war a year ago, said today that all highways, stockyards and creameries would be placed under siege Wednesday. He expected 1,500 farmers to take part.

Captain of Kenkora II. Quizzed

YACHT SEIZED WITH LIQUOR IS HELD BY U. S.

Crew Members Tell of Taking Rum Aboard.

The Kenkora II., the $500,000 yacht owned by Kenneth G. Smith, president of the Pepsodent company, was declared to be in a state of "tentative seizure" by Anthony Czarnecki, customs collector, following an informal hearing yesterday in the federal building. The yacht was put under guard Monday night at its moorings at the foot of Monroe street when customs officials found liquors aboard valued at $2,500.

Customs Collector Czarnecki ruled that the boat could not be moved without his sanction until the case is closed. It was indicated that the liquor would be destroyed and fines assessed when its owner is determined.

Two Violations Charged.

Two customs regulations had been violated, officials decided. The first violation occurred, they said, when Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Clements, left a foreign port, Little Current, Ont., without announcing their departure to Canadian authorities, and landed in Chicago without notifying customs officials here. The second violation arose through failure to declare the liquor to customs authorities.

Mr. Smith did not appear at the hearing yesterday and will be questioned at a later date, officials said. Capt. Claude Newman of the yacht's crew, Alexander De Soto, first chef; his assistant, Philip Greenwald, and J. C. Gordon, steward, were questioned at the hearing.

Tell of Taking On Liquor.

The last three told how the liquor had been placed aboard the vessel in Havana, Miami, Palm Beach, and Little Current. Capt. Newman said he knew nothing about it.

"I did not buy it," he said. "It was not in my jurisdiction, and I did not declare it."

Steward Gordon said he had seen the liquor come aboard and had received instructions from Mr. Smith to serve drinks to any of the guests who requested liquor. He said no one had paid for a drink and expressed surprise at such a question.

Seized Liquor Is Listed.

The liquor seized on the yacht was listed as follows by the government:

60 bottles of Johnny Walker whisky [4 part full].
27 bottles of Frontenac ale.
3 bottles of Graves wine.
4 bottles Vermouth.
12 bottles of Dogs Head ale.
4 bottles burgundy wine.
6 bottles Mumms champagne.
2 bottles Monotoh dry champagne.
4 bottles Terrier Jonet champagne.
1 bottle Old Style ale.
6 bottles Heidsieck champagne.
2 bottles Louis Roeder champagne.
2 bottles Haute Sauterne.
6 bottles Gilby sherry.
1 bottle Buchanan.
1 bottle Sandeman port.
2 bottles Gilby gin.
10 bottles Kuntze old lager beer.
1 jug Bacardi [part full].
1 bottle Old Malt whisky.
2 bottles Kadoka whisky.
1 bottle Napoleon brandy.
1 bottle Curacao liquor.
30 bottles William Dow ale.
8 bottles Cointreau.
7 bottles Creme de Menthe.
10 bottles Dubonnet.
5 bottles apricot brandy.
1 bottle Kummel.
1 bottle Marquis del Marito.
6 bottles Martell brandy.
43 bottles Dewar's Scotch.
4 bottles Benedictine.
8 bottles Constanino.

Claims the Jug of Bacardi.

Greenwald, the assistant chef, claimed the jug of Bacardi.

"I used it to cure stomach trouble and an occasional attack of indigestion," he said. De Soto admitted ownership of two cases of ale, which he had purchased for personal use, he said.

GRADY RETIRES AFTER 45 YEARS AS FIRE FIGHTER

Rounding out a career of 45 years as a member of the fire department, Chief Frank A. Grady of the 26th battalion retires on pension at 8 o'clock this morning.

He served out his last shift last night and this morning as usual and answered several alarms. Throughout the night friends of long standing visited him at his station, hook and ladder company 41, 6041 South Western avenue, and chatted over old times.

Chief Grady is 69 years old and a great-grandfather. He lives at 5914 South Artesian avenue. He has served in some of the most hazardous fire districts in the city and figured in some of the most spectacular fires in the city's history. He was at the cold storage fire at the World's Fair grounds in 1893 in which sixteen of his comrades were killed. In 1905 he helped fight a fire on the icy roof of the Hotel Brevoort in a temperature 22 degrees below zero. Chief Grady has won three honorable mentions for rescue work.

BLIND, HIS MILLIONS GONE, FINE CARRIAGE MAKER KILLS HIMSELF

Saranac Lake, N. Y., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—His sight gone, J. Howard Demarest, once worth millions, today ended his life in a furnished room here.

Years ago he was a member of the firm of W. G. Demarest company, on Fifth avenue, New York, which made fine carriages. The coming of the automobile spelled the doom of that business, for the Demarests refused to embark in the new industry.

Mr. Demarest came to Saranac Lake years ago. Part of the family fortune remained. He entertained lavishly. Gradually his money disappeared and his mode of living changed. He sold his rare antiques and other valued possessions. He was an ardent sportsman, but soon the small camp he prized also had to be sold. He tried to earn a living by selling fruit cake and other delicacies. Some time ago he told friends that he had lost the sight of one eye.

"When the other goes," he asserted, "I'll kill myself."

Mr. Demarest sat in his room this morning, wrote to a nephew, sealed the letter, took a revolver and fired a bullet into his head.

FARMERS' STRIKE MERE HYSTERIA, SAYS E. A. O'NEAL

Getting No Support from Organized Agriculture.

The "farm strike" with its attempted food blockades at Des Moines, Council Bluffs and Sioux City, Ia., was denounced last night by Edward A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, as being sponsored by a small group of "misguided farmers" associated with "radical, nonfarmer agitators." He called on the 1,250,000 members of the farm bureau, largest of the agricultural associations, to back up law and order and put an end to "hysterics."

E. A. O'NEAL.

After a consultation with Charles E. Hearst of Des Moines, president of the Iowa Farm bureau, Mr. O'Neal sent a special letter to 100 Iowa county farm bureaus, their officers and members, urging them to discourage the manifestations of the Farmers' Holiday movement.

"Use all your influence," the O'Neal letter to Iowa said, "to put an end to hysteria and to bring sound reason to bear.

"It is my firm conviction that the methods used in the present instance cannot result in general success. Upsetting a few loads of milk and preventing farmers from hauling their produce into the market cannot right the wrongs from which we are suffering."

O'Neal said he was sympathetic with objectives sought by farm strikers, but he believed the farm bureau's program for the "rehabilitation of agriculture" is the only sound plan for solution of the farm problem.

"Our policy," he said, "insists that the agricultural marketing act be amended in such manner as to provide for full control by the farmers of marketing machinery in the hands of farmers themselves, without requiring any subsidy from the government."

O'Neal declared that speculation in farm crops must be controlled and that a land policy should be developed designed to retire sub-marginal lands from cultivation.

MICHIGAN WETS BOLT GOV. BRUCKER FOR HIS PROHIBITION STAND

Lansing, Mich., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Present and past dry affiliations of Gov. Wilber M. Brucker and Lieut. Gov. Luren D. Dickinson make them unsuitable to the liberals and they will be opposed by the leading wet organizations, it was decided at an executive session here today of directors of the Michigan branches of the Crusaders and the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform.

The boards of the two wet groups are expected to compile a complete slate of preferences for the guidance of voters at the Sept. 13 primary.

Mayor William H. McKeighan of Flint, George Welsh, former Grand Rapids city manager, and James C. Quinlan, Grand Rapids, former state senator, the other Republican candidates, were indorsed for their anti-prohibition stands. The resolution opposing Gov. Brucker is as follows:

"We are opposed to Wilber M. Brucker for governor because his mere reflection of the President's statement on prohibition does not convince us that his long alliance with the Anti-Saloon league has been dissolved and especially because he has failed to make public his stand relative to the proposed liquor control amendment to the Michigan constitution, provisions of which, if successful, materially concern the next governor of the state."

TWENTY LAUNDRY OWNERS TO WAR ON ASSOCIATION

Owners of 20 laundries announced a revolt yesterday against the Chicago Laundry Owners' association and the formation of a new group to be known as the Laundry and Dry Cleaners' Association of Cook County.

Leo B. Lowenthal, 11 South La Salle street, attorney for the new group, announced that a committee would call upon State's Attorney Swanson today to charge that there is an illegal agreement between the Chicago Laundry Owners' association and the drivers' union to control the industry.

Wage Clause Under Fire.

One provision in particular of the contract recently negotiated by the Chicago association, headed by Aaron Sapiro, and the Laundry and Dye House Drivers and Chauffeurs union is being fought by the new association. The contract provides for a cut of from $40.50 to $30.50 a week as the basic wage for drivers, but it is said the cut applies only to drivers employed by members of Sapiro's organization. The union, it is charged, agreed to compel independent laundries to pay the old wage of $40.

As an example of the consequences of this agreement, it was stated that the Edgewater laundry, 5539 Broadway, and King's Laundry, 2213 West Madison street, were being picketed by union drivers yesterday because they refused to pay them the $10 a week extra because the two laundries are not members of the Chicago Laundry Owners' association.

Calls It a Holdup.

"We will not be held up for $10 a week more than association members are paying," said O. H. Schults, manager of the Edgewater laundry. "We will pay as much as other companies," said Victor Adland, manager of the King's plant, "but we will not be coerced into joining the Chicago association."

The new Cook county organization, headed by Don Sessions of the Baxter laundries, represents about 400 routes in Chicago, according to Lowenthal.

THE SAFETY DRIVE.

While we are all for the safety drive sponsored by the National Safety council and enthusiastically indorse Police Commissioner Allman's instruction to the police to pay particular attention to violations of motor regulations, they both offer occasion for some serious reflections by the citizenry upon the science and conditions of government in the United States. First of these reflections will raise the question why such special effort is called for, as it clearly is. We have a death roll and accident rate so high that we might reasonably assume it to be the most powerful and persistent influence for the enforcement of safety regulations by the police and even for voluntary obedience by the public. Why in the face of this tragic record, which is in fact growing, is it necessary or at least expedient to organize a special effort to impress upon users of the highway respect for regulations devised for their own safety and upon the police their duty of enforcing these regulations?

The question we leave to our readers. Its answer will carry them far into the American temperament and into the character of self-government. But apart from these considerations we think the safety drive will demonstrate that the police must take their responsibility for the enforcement of regulations more seriously. There is no doubt that enforcement is difficult and that the motor driver ought to coöperate more intelligently for his own sake if not for others'. But the lack of good sense and consideration for others shown so deplorably by a minority, though too large a minority, of drivers ought not to excuse indifference or slackness by the public agencies of discipline and control. To put the blame for reckless and slovenly driving manners on the public does not absolve the police from their special responsibilities.

This ought to be obvious enough and seems beyond argument, but it is not realized in action. Commissioner Allman's statement is excellent. "A reduction in deaths and injuries to persons," he asserts in his order, "can best be attained by an intensive and steady day by day enforcement of the motor vehicle laws, the uniform traffic code, and the revised Chicago code. This will result in securing better obedience on the part of the motorists to the traffic laws and ordinances."

In fact, nothing less will secure obedience. General appeals to the self-interest of motorists do not reach the men and women who are the chief menace on the highways. Often they think they have some immunity through pull. Sometimes they have it. It is a responsibility of the motor club and the press to see that the police are supported when this pull is put in operation. But these cases do not justify the police in relaxing enforcement.

What is needed most, as Commissioner Allman recognizes in his order, is persistence, "steady day by day enforcement." The chief cause of the failure of regulation is lack of continuous uniform discipline. The letdowns demoralize and defeat regulation and encourage carelessness in motorists. Enforcement must be uniform and unrelaxing. Then it will be respected and proper driving habits will come. Special safety drives will not be necessary.

PENMANSHIP IN THE CHICAGO SCHOOLS.

Supt. Bogan announced the other day that new methods of teaching penmanship have been devised and new standards of accomplishment have been established for the children in the Chicago schools. It is to be hoped that Mr. Bogan will contribute samples of the new style for reproduction in THE TRIBUNE, together with samples of what the ordinary child is able to accomplish with the new method.

The generation now about to cast its first or second vote was the victim of somebody's mistake in the selection of a penmanship manual. The style may have looked well in the copy book, but there was something about the formation of the letters which made legible writing extraordinarily difficult for the average boy and girl. Perhaps the explanation lies in the fact that the letters were formed with a lot of unnecessary flourishes. The generation in its early twenties today has, we say with little hesitation, the poorest handwriting known in the history of American penmanship. The writing is formless and filled with confusing scratchings. It must be hard to write that badly, and, as Vox Pop can testify, it certainly is hard to read that kind of writing.

A change has been long overdue. Almost any style from the past and any method of holding the pen would be improvements. What is needed is a hand so simple and so free from flourishes that the normal child can master it. Such a style, when subjected to individual peculiarities in later life, will stand a much better chance of being legible than one filled with flourishes alleged to be beautiful and refined.

RIOTS FOR PROSPERITY.

The members of the Farmers' Holiday association who have been picketing the roads around Council Bluffs and Des Moines to keep farm produce from reaching the market apparently think that it is possible to riot their way back to prosperity. It is a notion which seems to be shared by the coal miners in Illinois and Indiana and by the bonus marchers.

Of all the nostrums which have been put forward to cure the depression, this one is the silliest. There are already a great number of economic dislocations in the country and in the world. The sum of these dislocations is the depression. The notion that any good can be accomplished for any one by still further crippling the machinery of production and exchange is so absurd as almost to defy comment. The most that the participants can expect is a temporary increase in prices caused by the blockade. When the blockade is lifted, as it must be sooner or later, the produce which would have gone to market will be piled on top of the normal supply and prices will fall further than they rose. So far as perishables are concerned, the farmers will have lost whatever income they might have obtained from selling them.

It is reassuring to learn that the great majority of Iowa farmers are not in sympathy with the movement. The fact that the picketing of the roads is being conducted in regions which long have been Brookhart strongholds need occasion no astonishment. The years which he devoted to propagandizing his follies and to building up a spirit of jealous rage among his constituents are now bearing fruit. He taught the farmers to believe they are the victims of a foul conspiracy on the part of their customers and he encouraged them to accept any expedient for improving their condition. They will be lucky if his teaching does not land them in the penitentiary.

The men who have blocked the roads to market and have destroyed the property of those farmers who wished to sell their produce have committed an offense of the utmost seriousness. Public officials have shown good sense in waiting to see if the movement will die of its own inherent folly, but there is a limit to patience. The pickets are racketeers whose practices are indistinguishable from those of an Al Capone when he muscles into the cleaning and dyeing industry to fix prices and corner markets. The Brookhart-bred hoodlums are using force to restrain trade. They are preventing the honest and industrious farmer from going about his business of earning a living for himself and his family. If the government of Iowa cannot protect this man for whose protection it was created it may be necessary for the federal government to take the matter in hand. Conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce can be prosecuted in the federal courts.

TURNING THEM LOOSE.

Judge James J. Kelly's discussion of the present law governing probation is of interest to the lay public chiefly for the assertion that robbery with a gun is probational while larceny of a sum over $200 is not. That is, a man who takes money or property from another by force or threat of force may be set at large under probation, but not the man who has merely stolen without violence.

If this discrimination in favor of the greater offense exists, it should have the earliest possible attention of the legislature. But much more than this is desirable. The whole law and system of probation in Illinois should have thorough reconsideration and amendment. There is nothing more notorious in crime conditions than the large proportion of serious crimes committed by convicted and paroled offenders. Our system of probation and parole is not working as intended. It is a constant threat to the safety of the public and should be drastically overhauled. There are probably other anomalies such as Judge Kelly has exposed and certainly there is need for better checks upon the privilege of probation than the discretion of judges now seems to provide. The bar, it seems to us, should undertake an immediate study of the Illinois law and its administration and be ready to present to the next assembly amendments which will correct existing abuses and make the system as consistent as possible with the safety of the community. It is time to give that objective more attention. Our present system is less efficient in reforming criminals than in turning them loose unrepentant and undeterred.

Editorial of the Day

OUR LATEST INSULAR POSSESSION FLOATS.

[Newark News.]

There is nothing, absolutely nothing, too small in these United States for our dear, fussy old government to bother with. Next time you think baby has swallowed grandma's gold brooch, with the genuine facsimile diamond, just ask the department of the interior. It will probably send you a brochure.

There are 3,026,789 square miles in continental United States, of which, up to a few days ago, 53,013 square miles was believed to consist of inland waters. That figure will have to be revised by subtracting 200 square feet. In the state of Wyoming [area 97,548 square miles], and more specifically in Yellowstone park [area 3,426 square miles], the department of the interior has found a floating island, measuring twenty feet by ten. It floats around on Beaver lake. The day of discovery and territorial acquisition is not past, and our great nation is now 200 square feet larger in real estate, 200 square feet smaller in ordinary, nonportable inland water, thanks to the vigilance and discovery of the interior department.

No sooner was the discovery made than a federal author sat him down at his federal typewriter, slipped a sheet of federal paper between the rollers and wrote a modest three paragraphs about the sensational find. Government mimeograph machines made hundreds and hundreds of copies of the story and sent them broadcast and postage free all over the country.

The department was in such a hurry to apprise the nation of its good fortune that it didn't wait to name the new island. Hoover island leaps to mind, but because of the isle's instability that name might be favored only by Democrats. It just floats around, you see, being here one day and there the next, but never leaving its little pond. Let's see—Borah island? Roos—no, it would have to be a good Republican name. Prohibition island?

Maybe it would be a good idea for Secretary Wilbur to hold a prize contest for the best name, with a free ride on the floating island as the major reward.

P. S.—The department has discovered that the island is probably the roof of an old beaver house which broke loose. All contests are off until it is made certain that the beaver won't want his attic back. Maybe the R. F. C. will finance a new home for him and let us keep our only floating island.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THE NEW YORK COURTS say that Mr. Roosevelt, now governor of New York and a candidate, if we remember correctly, for the presidency, has the right to remove Mayor Jimmy Walker from his job. He certainly has the right now that the courts have spoken, but would he, as Henry Clay so neatly said, rather be right than be President?

WE HAVE WAITED AND WAITED with the patience worthy of several saints, but we have finally reached the point where our good nature breaks down and we speak right out with considerable rancor. Every day the papers tell of another colonel appointed to his staff by Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky. When, Gov. Ruby Laffoon, do you appoint us a colonel on your staff? It may be, of course, that we have been appointed and that the letter went astray. In that case, of course, we will accept a new appointment and say nothing more about it. But we do not wish to be the last man in the United States appointed by Gov. Ruby Laffoon of Kentucky as a colonel on his staff and we should like to be commissioned before we're the only private, so far as Kentucky is concerned, in the country.

CRAZY LINES FOR A TAP DANCER

She dances on a trap drum,
With three giggles and one laugh,
But her cuttle bone heart
Is cracked half in half.

She wears a jaunty fool's cap,
Green ringlets on her wrists,
And toe nails painted red.
But though you hear her giggling,
As she feigns to play
At turning inside out
The blue lining of the day,
Her merriment is only
A scrap of gray caprice,
A gold will-o'-the-wisp
In search of blue peace.
But blue peace is walking
The night on tiptoes,
And when the cock crows
Her eyes slowly close.
And the cock, too, must sleep,
If his comb be kept red,
Though he perches on a stick,
And sleeps not in a bed.

But she dances on a trap drum,
With three giggles and one laugh,
For her cuttle bone heart
Is cracked half in half.

KIND REGARDS TO MR. WOODRUFF, who took such good care of our child, little Lina Typo, while we were with Mr. Hoover down in Washington. Of course, we were not actually with Mr. Hoover any more than we usually are, but at least we were much closer to his views and policies than ever before, hardly a mile, in fact, as we lived in Georgetown. We were in touch with the Democratic party, too, in Georgetown, as Cactus Jack stayed out in our garden. Of course, we don't mean Postoffice Jack Garner. Our Cactus Jack was a small land turtle that loved to promenade up and down the brick walk in the garden. Tommy Atkins, the educated Sealyham, would carefully pick Cactus Jack up every night and bring him up to his couch on the terrace as a bedfellow. But what we started in to say was that it was mighty nice of Harvey Help Help to take such good care of little Lina Typo while we were away and return her to us grown so big we hardly knew the child. But Harvey—a kind guardian often does—rather spoiled little Lina, and she seems a wee bit saucy, but with a few spankings we hope to have her the sweet, docile little darling that she used to be. And if she hain't, we'll just naturally kick the stuffin' outten the brat. That's the kind of a doting parent we are.

SCIENTISTS say that with a piece of smoked glass you can see the eclipse of the sun this afternoon. Shucks, we have grown so used to watching the eclipse of all the stocks we bought that we can look at a little thing like the sun doing an eclipse without smoked glasses or green goggles or any artificial aid whatever and never bat an eye.

USUALLY WE ARE VERY FOND of our w. k. mayor, Mr. A. Cermak. But yesterday for a brief time we hated him. The newspapers said that at a luncheon in Paris Anton drank a Martini cocktail and white wine. As we sipped cold water, oh how we hated Mr. Cermak over there in Paris drinking a Martini cocktail and French white wine, and he could have had beer, too, if he had wanted it. And as we sweltered in the awful heat our imagination conjured a tall, lovely stein filled to the brim with cold amber beer. And all we could do about it was to sip more water and hate Mr. Cermak because he had a Martini and French white wines.

DOWN IN NEW YORK the eclipse this afternoon will be total, but out here in the midwest we get only a seventy-nine per cent eclipse. Again proving the discrimination always shown in the east against the dwellers in the great Mississippi valley. PYORRHEA.

A CORRESPONDENT wants an article on pyorrhea.

This is a very important subject, and it would be written about more often if there were more advances to discuss. It is far the most important dental subject and yet it receives a limited amount of study from research workers and practicing dentists—a trivial amount as compared with tooth decay. Of the teeth that are lost, a few are drawn because of decay while, in comparison, pyorrhea causes the loss of hundreds. Even as a cause of arthritis, rheumatism, heart disease, and neuritis, tooth decay is unimportant in comparison with pyorrhea.

Pyorrhea is a disease of the gums, the tissues that line the bony tooth sockets in the jaw, and, in its later stages, of the bony structure itself. As a rule, the first symptom the patient notices is the loosening of the tooth, though the key to the pyorrhea prevention problem is for people to recognize the slight redness and swelling of the gums which precedes by years looseness of the teeth. A still later symptom is oozing of pus up the side of the tooth from the tooth socket. Somewhere along the way between the slight redness and puffiness of the early stage and the oozing pus of the late stage the sufferer may notice that the gums are shrinking away from the teeth, and that the bony ridges that hold the teeth are being absorbed.

If anything is to be accomplished a person should recognize early that pyorrhea has him, and will demand his teeth as a tribute unless he changes something and that without procrastination. Usually, the treatment of pyorrhea is not begun until the teeth are loose and, maybe, pus is oozing. The effort then made is to clean the teeth and to anchor those that are loose that they may be retained as long as possible. In some cases this line of treatment does more harm than good. Teeth can be anchored with some success. Loose teeth can be retained for years. But in such advanced cases there is always considerable infection of the sockets and gums, and the chances are that we pay for keeping these very loose teeth with arthritis, rheumatism, neuritis, and heart disease. Probably we would be better off if the loose teeth were sacrificed without delay and the attention was concentrated on the gum areas in which pyorrhea was just beginning.

Our discontent with the research men is that they have not told us enough about the cause of that early stage—redness, looseness, and softness of the gums, what causes it, and what is to be done about it. So far as we can judge it is caused by something constitutional. We get a similar appearance of the gums in scurvy. That results from prolonged use of a diet that is deficient in fruits and vegetables especially. It can be prevented by the continued use of a proper diet. It resembles the appearance of the gums in certain metallic poisonings as, for instance, that due to calomel and other forms of mercury. In lead poisoning we have evidence that metals are prone to deposit in the gums.

It seems probable that mouth cleanliness will go farther in preventing pyorrhea than it will in preventing tooth decay.

A STAR PATIENT.

C. E. W. writes: I am termed the star patient at the hospital, department of anemia, and my steady improvement from the pernicious stage in which I was suddenly plunged makes me wish profoundly to tell other sufferers of my happy experience following the use of liver extract, one vial after meals in water accomplishing wonders for me.

My blood count was as low as one million at the start of the treatment, in 1930. I was utterly useless, lifeless, yellow in color, sleepless, etc. In a week my count increased until nearly six million was registered, a year later. Then I decreased the dosage until now I take it only two or three times a week. I weigh 185 pounds, an increase of 20 pounds. I sleep like a baby, eat like a pig, and enjoy life.

I begged a friend in the pernicious stage to resort to the liver treatment. His physician consented, but the urge was lacking and my friend died shortly after—a useful life closed that I believe could have been saved as I was saved.

FOOD COMBINATIONS.

Y. G. writes 1. Will starchy and proteid foods combine?

2. Will bread mix with tomatoes or fruit?

3. Will starchy and acid foods combine?

REPLY.

1. You know they will. You eat bread and meat.

2. Yes. You eat tomato sandwiches.

3. Yes. Strawberry shortcake is fine. So are berry pies.

ALL-BRAN AS CEREAL.

A. B. C. writes: I have been eating all-bran as a cereal for breakfast for two years. I have been told that continuous use will scrape the lining of the stomach.

REPLY.

People with spastic colon find bran too irritating. Most persons are in the class who would benefit from eating it.

WHITE SPOTS ON HANDS.

C. M. writes: What is the remedy for white spots on the hands?

REPLY.

I presume you refer to vitiligo spots. One physician says he has cured some cases by the proper use of dilute muriatic acid internally. Many who have such spots content themselves with using a walnut juice stain on them.

RHEUMATICS.

M. W. S. writes: Are meat and milk not good for rheumatics?

REPLY.

So many diseases are called rheumatics that a blanket answer to the question is not possible. As a rule, chronic rheumatics diet too strictly, when they diet at all. Some of them would be better off if they ate more meat and milk.

BOTH PAPERS NECESSARY.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—[Friend of the People.]—I am a native of Sweden and came to Chicago in 1911. I was married in 1920, but later divorced. I thought I was a citizen through marriage, but have just learned that my former husband only had his first paper at the time and did not get his second paper until 1929. Must I apply for a first paper, or can I get a second paper right away? Where will I apply for papers?

P. C.

As the writer's husband was not a citizen, she must secure both first and second papers. An application for first paper is being sent to her to be filled out and returned to room 776 Federal building, Chicago.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 31, 1916.

WASHINGTON.—W. G. Lee, president of the Trainmen's brotherhood, tonight served notice on congress that in order to avert a general railroad strike it must pass the proposed bill to fix an 8 hour workday for trainmen in interstate commerce, at present wages, before midnight next Saturday, Sept. 2.

WASHINGTON.—Four union presidents will decide before the end of the week whether the nation is to be plunged into the greatest strike of all history. Upon this quartet—Presidents Stone, Lee, Carter, and Garretson of the railway brotherhoods—there is being brought to bear tonight every ounce of the influence of the administrative and legislative branches of the government to obtain at least a postponement of the strike. Congress may take action before Saturday night, if other expedients fail, prohibiting the brotherhoods from carrying into effect the impending walkout on Monday morning. This suggested action was being discussed by administration leaders tonight. President Wilson has been advised by his congressional lieutenants that a resolution embodying action of this character could be rushed through the house and senate late Saturday night, if in the meantime the strike is not postponed. Some senators claim, however, that such a thing cannot be done, any more than to force men to work if they didn't want to.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson took a drastic step to keep at least some of the railroads open after Monday next, even if the strike is called. Though not admitted, the step also means military preparations to enforce order throughout the country. He directed Secretary of War Baker to order the return of 15,000 men from the Mexican border to their state mobilization camps. They include two Illinois regiments, three from New York, two from New Jersey, and others from strategic points. In addition, there have been ordered to their regular posts 6,000 troops of the coast artillery who were temporarily sent to the border.

CHICAGO.—Full of bitterness against his brother, Max Silver, upon whom he shoulders all the blame for the wrecking of the two Silver banks in the Ghetto, Adolph Silver arrived in Chicago from Los Angeles and gave himself up to State's Attorney Hoyne.

ZURICH, Switzerland.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg, according to a dispatch received here, has removed the Austrian major general, Puhallo, from command of the army corps defending the Kovel section of the front in Volhynia and has given the command to Gen. Friedrich von Bernhardi.

PARIS.—The Austrian armies are in full retreat before the Rumanian invaders, who are pursuing them deep into Transylvania. The Rumanians have taken the important city of Kronstadt, and one report says they have taken Hermannstadt. Rumanian troops, operating with the Russians, have captured all the principal passes in the Carpathians. Austria tacitly admits the successes of the Rumanian arms and the capture of Kronstadt, Petrozseny, and Koedzi-Vasarhely, northeast of Kronstadt.

PARIS.—The French launched another attack on the Verdun front, east of Fleury, and made further progress, while the British repulsed two German attacks in the vicinity of Guillemont, on the Somme front. South of Martinpuich the British extended their line across a small salient.

LONDON.—Remobilization of the Greek army is under consideration at Athens, a Reuter dispatch says, and the question of a ministerial reorganization providing for the inclusion in the cabinet of former Premier Venizelos has arisen.

CHICAGO.—The marriage of Miss Wynona Hauptmann, daughter of Mrs. Jennie Nelson, 927 Airdrie place, to Harold Haddock Burt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Burt of Battle Creek, Mich., will take place tonight at the home of the bride's mother.

STUDENTS AND MINERS.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—The purposes and activities of the midwest college committee for investigation and relief of Illinois coal miners seem to have been lost sight of in the editorial of Aug. 25 and in the letters appearing in this column on Aug. 27. The burden of the editorial was to the effect that the forces of law and order are justified in opposing mass picketing by armed force. On this point I do not presume to pass judgment. The question is wholly irrelevant. The roads at Mount Vernon, where the student expedition was turned back by deputized gunmen, were not blockaded "to prevent miners of one region from entering other regions." There were no miners in the party. The issue is a very simple one of the constitutional right of outsiders to enter Franklin county for the purpose of relieving destitution and investigating labor conditions. The denial of this right constitutes lawless violence which cannot be defended by reference to extraneous circumstances.

The letters protesting against my original communication of Aug. 22 are both based upon misconceptions. The expedition was not in any sense officially sponsored by the University of Chicago nor by any other institution of learning. The students and "faculty advisers" are acting as individuals on their own responsibility and their academic affiliations do not imply anything whatever regarding the attitude of other students or instructors. The investigators, moreover, are no longer "impartial." The treatment they received [which had nothing to do with their "qualifications" as investigators] has caused them to lose all respect for sheriffs, deputies, and mine operators and to sympathize wholeheartedly with the striking miners. All the armed violence thus far has been o. one side. Nonpartisan observers are justified in assuming that those who bar inquiry and resort to firearms have something to conceal and are unworthy of the support of outsiders. Mr. Rommel assumes that unions are per se an evil and should be abolished. This assumption is based upon such an obvious ignorance of the economic realities of modern industrial society that I do not consider it deserving of comment.

The case is quite different with my distinguished colleague, Prof. H. A. Millis. He is anxious that the students should not be "taken seriously." They are, he says, a small minority of the student bodies of their respective universities and colleges. This is quite true. Only a tiny fraction of American undergraduates are interested in labor disputes or in other social and political questions. It is difficult for a mere political scientist, however, to see why this should be a source of satisfaction to a professor of labor problems. The implication of his letter is that if students take sides in the present conflict they ought to side with the owners, the gunmen, and the bankrupt leadership of the U. M. W. A. rather than with the strikers. This is not, I am sure, his position. His purpose, no doubt, was to allay the absurd alarms of those who have erroneously assumed that the university or its faculty or its student body as a whole are represented by the committee. With this purpose I am in full accord.

It is nevertheless true that of the students actively interested the overwhelming majority are in sympathy with the miners. They appreciate the fact, however, that no wage scale and no solution can bring prosperity to the mine areas, for the whole industry is so hopelessly disorganized by rugged individualism and competitive profit seeking that disaster confronts workers and owners alike. For the owners this means smaller profits; for the workers it means starvation. Those who would aid are therefore bound to aid the workers first. This is recognized by interested students and faculty members. Economists who cry "Hush! hush!" or even "Shush! shush!" place themselves in the false rôle of apologists for private exploitation and official terrorism.

DEPRESSION AT A ROADHOUSE.

Chicago, Aug. 23.—Is there a depression? This is a bill received at a roadside inn northwest of the city that has a sign posted reading, "Chicken dinners, $.60. Dine and dance. No cover charge":

Four [4 ounce] pieces of fried chicken with bread and butter, and a couple of relishes	$2.40
Two bottles of ginger ale	2.40
One fingerbowl of ice	.25
Two small bottles of near beer	1.00
Total	$6.05

Terrible music was supplied by an amateur 4 piece lady orchestra. The ginger ale was of unknown make, probably retailing at 5 cents a bottle. There was no itemized list of drinks or food on the tables.

LAY CAMPAIGN PLANS IN SECRET AT WHITE HOUSE

G. O. P. Leaders Debate How to Re-elect Hoover.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Republican campaign plans for the final weeks of the drive to re-elect President Hoover and Vice President Curtis were discussed at a secret White House conference last night by Chairman Everett Sanders of the Republican national committee and seven other key men of the high command.

Although participants in the parley were uncommunicative today it was learned that difficulties experienced in building up a generous campaign fund was one of the topics of discussion. The general reaction of the country to President Hoover's speech of acceptance and the two major addresses of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, also came in for discussion.

No Final Decisions.

Walter Newton, one of the President's four secretaries, described the gathering as a meeting of the general staff on the eve of the major battles of the campaign. He said a general discussion was had of all the factors which make up a campaign. He added that no final decisions were reached.

According to Mr. Newton, the Republican executives present reported to Mr. Hoover that the campaign for his reëlection was progressing satisfactorily for this stage of the campaign. They were unanimous, Mr. Newton said, in reporting a fine reaction to the Hoover speech of acceptance, in which the President deserted the radical drys to urge changes in the eighteenth amendment to eliminate the evils of national prohibition and permit wet states to have liquor but not the saloon.

In the group that called on the President last night were J. R. Nutt, national treasurer of the party; former Senator Henry J. Allen, director of publicity; Senator Felix Hebert [Rep., R. I.], eastern campaign chairman, and his assistant, William H. Hill of New York; Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde. George Akerson, former White House secretary, and Lawrence Richey, White House secretary, also attended.

Mystery Conference.

Mystery was attached to the conference due to the secrecy with which it was held. The out-of-town White House guests came to Washington solely for the parley, arriving late in the evening and remaining at the White House until close to midnight.

It is understood that the part to be played by the President in the campaign came in for considerable discussion. Both the eastern and western campaign headquarters would like to have the President make at least one address in their territories. The President is expected to speak at Chicago, but no date has been set. Plans call for having the campaign under full blast by Sept. 15.

In working out a plan of strategy Republican officials have had to take into consideration the depleted condition of the campaign treasury. Both national committees are hard up, however, so that neither has gained much advantage along that line thus far. Republican officials said today that money had been coming in faster since the Hoover speech of acceptance was delivered. Officials today were of the opinion that all phases of the campaign will have to be cut down, compared with 1928, to save expenses. This means, it was added, that the newspapers will have to be relied upon as never before to get the party message to the public.

White House officials today disclosed that the White House will not be officially represented at the American Legion convention at Portland, Ore., on Sept. 12. If Secretary of War Hurley attends, as he now plans to do, he will go simply as a Legionnaire.

COUSIN STARTS SUIT AGAINST EMMA LINTZ

Miss Emma Lintz of the Drake hotel, said to be an heiress, who attracted attention when she made a world tour in search of "a perfect husband," was named defendant in a suit for accounting filed yesterday in the Circuit court by her cousin, Mrs. Bessie Kreston Suchomel, 5516 West 24th street, Cicero.

In her bill Mrs. Suchomel says that she was left $100 under the will of Miss Lintz's father, Anton J. Lintz, real estate dealer who died in Los Angeles in 1928, and that her mother, Mrs. Christina Kreston, now an inmate of the Kankakee state hospital, was left $2,000. They were never notified of the probate proceedings in California, and have never received their legacies, the bill says.

Attorney James J. Shipro, who filed the bill, said the action had not been started sooner because Miss Lintz's travels prevented his client obtaining service upon her.

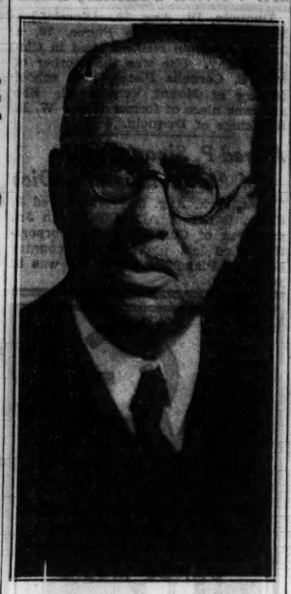
Denies Resigning



President Pascual Ortiz Rubio

[Copyright: Harris & Ewing Photo.]

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Current rumors that a possible change in the presidency of Mexico was in prospect were given impetus today by a categorical denial that the president had resigned. The denial was issued by the presidency.

It was pointed out that Niceforo Guerrero Jr., secretary to the president, in the statement said only that President Pascual Ortiz Rubio had authorized him to "categorically deny the rumor that he had resigned his high post." The statement, however, did not say the president would not resign in the near future.

As proof that things politically were undisturbed, Guerrero pointed out that there was "unquestionable harmony and political relationship between Ortiz and Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles." In political circles it still is rumored Ortiz Rubio will ask for a leave of absence early in September and that the new congress will designate a provisional president on Sept. 1.

"MACHINE GUN" M'GURN FREED; BROTHER FINED

"Machine Gun" Jack McGurn, Capone henchman, veteran of many court trials, was discharged yesterday when he was arraigned before Municipal Judge John F. Haas in the Jury court on two automobile charges. His younger brother, Anthony Gebardi, who was arrested with him, was fined $2. The family name is Gebardi.

McGurn was charged with operating his car with a short wave radio set that would receive police calls and with using ficticious license plates. A radio expert testified, however, that the set was an ordinary automobile radio. On the license charge McGurn explained that the plates were obtained by him by using an alias, "De Vito." His brother, who was driving the car when they were arrested, was fined on a charge of driving past a stop sign.

McGurn said he was a traveling salesman and had the radio installed in his car because he "often got lonesome."

THIS EXPLAINS WHAT MAKES THE WHISTLES TOOT

The blast of an engine whistle yesterday in the Chicago and North Western roundhouse at Chicago avenue and Halsted street started a celebration on the near north side. Engineers in surrounding factories sensed an important occasion when the whistling continued for an hour and added the noise of whistles at their command.

Curious citizens seeking an explanation of the uproar traced the origin to the roundhouse where they found August Heldt, engineer on Kenosha to Chicago train. He was toiling with the engine whistle.

"Was prohibition repealed?" he was asked.

"No," he explained, "the whistle stuck." Workmen placed a new valve on the engine whistle and halted the uproar after two hours.

Search Hotel for Girl Who Vanished on Library Trip

Police yesterday visited a hotel on Milwaukee avenue in the search for Margaret Suchan, 16 years old, 4265 Montrose avenue, who disappeared from her home on Aug. 20. An anonymous postcard had informed police that a girl answering the description of Miss Suchan had been taken into the hotel from an automobile. No one recalled seeing her in the neighborhood. The girl disappeared after returning books to a branch library in the 4500 block on Montrose avenue.

BAIN ATTORNEY ACCUSES RABER OF PERSECUTION

Busch Denies Offering Blanket Guilty Plea.

Attorney Francis X. Busch, defense counsel in the Bain bank conspiracy case, issued a statement yesterday denying the allegation of Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber that he offered during the trial to plead John Bain and three younger members of the family guilty in exchange for jail sentences. His offer applied only to the elder Bain, Attorney Busch said.

He likewise charged that the plan to try John H. Bain and Robert A. Bain, sons, and W. Merle Fisher, son-in-law of Bain, on new charges of receiving deposits while knowing the Bain banks to be insolvent is "solely inspired by Mr. Raber's vindictiveness." The three younger defendants were fined $1,000 each by Judge John M. O'Connor in the first trial. John Bain was sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary.

Busch Makes Statement.

"After the trial had proceeded for about two weeks," Mr. Busch said, "and considerable testimony had been introduced against John Bain, but practically none against the other defendants, I spoke to Mr. Raber with the definite understanding that our conversation was to be in strict professional confidence. Since Mr. Raber has violated this confidence and grossly misrepresented the facts, I feel that justice to myself and to my clients demands that I state the truth about the matter.

"I distinctly told Mr. Raber that I had had no conversation with John Bain, and had no authority from him to discuss the entering of a plea. I then asked him if John Bain could be induced to plead guilty would he recommend a jail sentence for him and dismiss the case as to the other defendants. At no time was there any suggestion, direct or indirect, to plead John H. Bain, Robert H. Bain and W. Merle Fisher guilty.

Charges Vindictiveness.

"In the recent trial it was abundantly clear from the evidence that John H. Bain, Robert A. Bain, and W. Merle Fisher had nothing whatever to do with directing the policy of the banks, and had no sufficiently intimate knowledge of their condition to justify the infliction of any severe penalty upon them. The present talk of new trials and new indictments against these defendants is solely inspired by Mr. Raber's vindictiveness. It has become a persecution, not a prosecution."

Attorney Busch also charged that Frank A. Mulholland, who was indicted with the Bains but obtained a severance, "testified for the state pursuant to a deal by which the case was to be dismissed as to him." He asserted that the fact, brought out in evidence, that both Prosecutor Raber and Mulholland worked between 1912 and 1920 in the state's attorney's office, "may in some measure account for the tender consideration shown Mulholland."

Prosecutor Makes Reply.

"There was never any mention of Mr. Busch's proposal to me being made in confidence," said Prosecutor Raber when he had been told of Mr. Busch's statement. "Attorney Busch said, 'We were thinking there might be a plea of guilty, and a jail sentence.' He didn't say specifically that he meant that all four defendants would plead guilty, but I assumed that was what he meant.

"I told him: 'Noting doing. Everybody would think I was fixed.' As to Mulholland, I never knew he had worked in the state's attorney's until we were preparing for trial.

Judge O'Connor Drafted.

Other attorneys interested in the Bain litigation protested yesterday against the suggestions given earlier currency that Judge O'Connor had indicated the probability that he might appear before the parole board and intercede for John Bain.

"Judge O'Connor was drafted into the Bain trial," said one lawyer. "He is a member of the Appellate court and as such need not preside at trials. When he was first approached he declined to hear the Bain case. He was later persuaded to act only when he was urged to do so on the ground that if he did not the cost of drawing a jury might impose a burden of $150,000 on the citizens.

"Judge O'Connor imposed a penalty provided by law. His reputation for integrity is so great that he was asked by both prosecutor and defense to sit without a jury. It is absurd to suppose he would impose himself upon the parole board with which he has no connection."

KILLED ON ROCK ISLAND ARSENAL.

Rock Island, Ill., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—When the car in which he was riding struck a stone abutment on a viaduct on the Rock Island arsenal island early today Clark Barron, 27, Davenport, Ia., received a fractured skull of which he died four hours later. John Caddy, 23, driver of the car, may die.

BRITAIN CENSORS RADIO; ONLY FEW PERMITTED ON AIR

Public Is Limited in What It Hears.

BY EUGENE SPECK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—Radio in Great Britain is a government molopoly which none but the chosen may use.

The British Broadcasting corporation, which controls all broadcasts, is a network of "national" and "regional" stations under one direction. Its funds come from the sale of licenses for sets. It is administered by a board appointed by those in political power.

Every owner of a radio set helps to support the B. B. C. Purchase of a radio set amounts to a tax collected by the British post office, which controls telegraphs as well as telephones and the mails. License fees are turned over to the broadcasting corporation.

No Choice in Programs.

The public moneys are spent on programs which must be accepted by the British listener unless his receiving set can reach Paris, Berlin, or perhaps Moscow.

The B. B. C. claims to be impartial. It professes to sit on every fence that can be strung around any body of opinion in the country.

But the story of the B. B. C. is one of constant dissatisfaction on grounds of bias, partiality or partisanship. Space cannot be bought from the B. B. C., as is the case with some continental stations which broadcast advertising programs in English.

But its influence reaches abroad, as was shown during the last general election, when a party fighting the coalition now in power was refused the use of a French station on the ground that it did not represent enough public opinion in England.

Churchill Quarrels with B. B. C.

Two quarrels with the management of the British wireless system, both involving questions of great public interest, originated with Winston Churchill, member of parliament and former cabinet member.

In August of last year Mr. Churchill asked for the privilege of addressing the country on the Indian round table conference. The request was made during an adjournment of the conference. Mr. Churchill pointed out that several radio speeches had already been made from various viewpoints on British administration in India.

"All of these addresses," he wrote to the B. B. C., "are from standpoints wholly different from the views which I represent, which are held by very large numbers of persons in all classes in this country. They embody in different forms that body of opinion which, though differing in method and degree, favors an immense and far-reaching curtailment of British authority in India. I now formally ask you to accord me an opportunity of stating the British side of the case."

Refused Use of Air.

The corporation replied: "In view of the delicacy of the situation in India, and having considered the matter with great care, we have come to the conclusion that it would be undesirable to proceed with the suggestion."

"In refusing to allow me to warn the nation of the enormous perils which are rapidly approaching us in India you are taking a serious responsibility," Mr. Churchill replied. "For more than six months I have been pressing the British Broadcasting corporation for an opportunity similar to those which you have freely extended to the opponents of British rule in India. Always reasons have been found to refuse me.

"All that you are doing is to sterilize or unevenly apply a new and valuable facility which science has given us and which was intrusted to your care. In the circumstances I can only make this protest against a procedure which would not be possible in other leading civilized countries and is a lamentable departure from our own traditions."

Barred Second Time.

Churchill was again refused the use of the British radio system this summer. He had been paid $1,500 for a broadcast to the United States on the world economic crisis. He asked for an opportunity to deliver the same talk to British listeners. The B. B. C. replied by offering him $250 for a broadcast on something harmless. He answered by offering the B. B. C. $250 for permission to deliver the speech he planned originally. The B. B. C. refused.

DEMANDS MEN EARN PAY GIVEN BY RELIEF FUND

Reynolds Makes Reply to Complaints of Loafing.

In giving work relief instead of direct charity to heads of families the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, according to Wilfred S. Reynolds, executive secretary, contemplates that the men should give satisfactory service for their pay, and not loaf on the job.

Mr. Reynolds' comment yesterday was in answer to complaints that men given employment by the local governmental agencies, but paid with relief commission funds, shirk their work. Two instances, in particular, were reported to him, one involving men employed to cut weeds in the forest preserves, and the other, sixteen men cleaning the beach between 75th and 79th streets.

For Wise Use of Funds.

"The commission is concerned," said Mr. Reynolds, "that the men paid with commission funds should not displace men who are regularly employed but that their work should be of value to the community. The commission wants these men given real, not trifling work.

"After this temporary work closes, every community where the commission's funds are used should have physical, tangible evidence of the wise use of public money, in addition to helping the unemployed over this crisis. This is not just 'made work.'"

In instructions to employers the commission has said that the relief laborers are to be held to the same standard of employment, hours, etc., which the employer would require of other laborers. A warning is given that the men may be undernourished or not hardened to work due to prolonged unemployment.

The employer, which would be the county in the case where relief workers on Touhy avenue were leaning on their rakes and conversing instead of cutting weeds, and the city, where the men were cleaning the beach, is responsible for keeping the laborers at work, according to Mr. Reynolds.

Some Loafing on Job.

On the beach, six of the men who were equipped with a pointed instrument to pick up papers, were reclining in the shade formed by a wooden breakwater. Four men with rakes were slowly burying small piles of stones in a shallow hole dug by a companion. Three others with shovels lolled along the beach, occasionally picking up a piece of glass.

These men belonged to a group of 300 relief workers assigned to the city bureau of parks, recreation and aviation. They are employed five days a month, according to Walter Wright, superintendent of the bureau, at $5.50 a day.

"The men furnished us this summer by the commission are better workers than those we had last year," said Mr. Wright. "The city foremen, who supervise their work, send back to the commission those who shirk, but we try not to demand too much from those who are incapable of hard work. It has been our policy to keep the beaches always clean, and not wait until there is an accumulation of dirt to be removed before sending the relief laborers to the job."

IRISH CHIEF SEES HOPE FOR TRUCE IN BRITISH ROW

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Sean O'Kelly, vice president of the Free State, returned from the imperial conference at Ottawa today optimistic over the prospects of breaking the Anglo-Irish trade deadlock.

Although he did not go into his reasons, the vice president said:

"There is definitely more hope than before the Ottawa conference. I am sure the British understand our position thoroughly now."

LEWIS RENEWS R. F. C. LOAN PLEA TO AID TEACHERS

School Property Income Meets Terms, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—New efforts to obtain a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation with which to pay Chicago school teachers were initiated today by Senator James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.].

The senator outlined his plan at a conference with legal advisers of the corporation this afternoon and arranged for a more detailed hearing tomorrow. His proposal, he said, is based on the belief that the Chicago board of education is a self-liquidating project under the terms of the emergency relief bill.

The school board, Senator Lewis pointed out, has a considerable amount of property in addition to its school property from which it derives revenue in the form of rent. This income, he maintains, makes the board "self-liquidating," and therefore eligible for a loan from the finance corporation.

Called "Broad" Interpretation.

Officials of the corporation with whom the Illinois senator conferred today declined to discuss his plan. They indicated, however, that such a proposal contemplates a considerably broader interpretation of the "self-liquidating" project section of the emergency relief bill than had hitherto been considered. Several officials, on the other hand, evinced interest in the proposal.

Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], author of the legislation which finally evolved into the relief bill, was another who visited the corporation today for the two purposes, he explained, of urging the corporation to hurry up in making "self-liquidating projects" loans, and of inquiring as to the status of New York's applications for self-liquidating project loans totaling 113 million dollars.

Wagner Sees Directors.

The New Yorker visited for nearly an hour with Directors Jesse Jones and Harvey Couch of the finance corporation. He was given to believe, he said, following his conferences, that the board will begin the actual work of advancing loans for self-liquidating construction projects within a very few days. He expressed the opinion that "a vigorous prosecution of these loans will put two million men to work at once."

Senator Wagner listed the New York applications for "self-liquidating projects" loans as including $75,000,000 for the 38th street-Weehawken tunnel under the Hudson river; $26,000,000 for the Tri-Borough bridge connecting Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx; $6,000,000 for a "mid-Hudson" bridge just below Hudson, N. Y.; $6,000,000 for two bridges at Niagara, and an unnamed number of millions for slum eradication projects on the lower east side.

COTTON INDUSTRY SEEKS TO PUT U.S. OUT OF BUSINESS

Find Farm Board Co-op Is Harmful Competitor.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 30.—(AP)—C. O. Moser, vice president of the American Cotton Coöperative association, voiced objection before the Shannon congressional committee today to any attempt to "remove the government from the agricultural business while allowing it to continue in other business."

The committee is investigating government competition with private business.

Witnesses representing the cotton industry have attacked the farm board sponsored coöperative association as a harmful competitor and one witness today charged he had been slandered by a coöperative seeking to secure business.

"In considering the farm board operations," Mr. Moser said, "it should be done along with other major governmental activities authorized by congress and recognized as national policies. It will be fair to consider the elimination of such boards and commissions as the federal reserve board, the tariff commission, interstate commerce commission, federal trade commission, the Reconstruction Finance corporation or the immigration commission, if we are to consider the elimination of the federal farm board.

All or None, His Stand.

"We cannot take the position that fair minded friends of agriculture cannot look with complacency upon the elimination of the federal agency endeavoring to help agriculture, while they regard with propriety the continuation of the government in business in other lines. In other words, is there justice or reason in an attempt to take the government out of business of agriculture while leaving the government in business in other major economic undertakings?"

Oscar P. Geren, president of Putnam and Norman, Inc., New Orleans cotton factors, testified he believed an audit of the farm board's books "should reveal gross extravagance and mismanagement, manipulations and speculations, breach of contracts, unethical procedures, and slander."

Charges Delivery Blocked.

He offered a letter which he said Sam Bass, secretary of the Louisiana Cotton Coöperative association, had written to W. T. Bell, farmer of Baskin, La., requesting Bell to remove his cotton from the Putnam and Norman firm to the coöperative association.

The letter quoted Bass as saying "we have had a number of farmers throughout the state who had their cotton with Putnam & Norman, not only seed loan cotton, but other cotton, and these producers felt they could get a better price for their cotton and a squarer deal by delivering to the association, and this particular firm has gone to almost any length to keep them from making delivery to us."

YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED

DAVIS SAYS NOT GUILTY ON LODGE LOTTERY CHARGE

Senator Asks Speedy Trial in U. S. Court.

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—United States Senator James J. Davis, candidate for reelection from the state of Pennsylvania, told Federal Judge Robert P. Patterson today that he was not guilty of violating the federal lottery laws as charged in two indictments returned against him two weeks ago by the grand jury. The senator indicated through his counsel Charles H. Tuttle, that he might seek trial and vindication on the charges at a date earlier than Sept. 19, which was the date requested by the government.

JAMES J. DAVIS. [Acme Photo.]

Senator Davis and six others were indicted by the grand jury for alleged illegal operations of lotteries in fraternal organizations such as the Loyal Order of Moose, with which Senator Davis is connected, the Eagles and the Shriners.

Each Pleads Not Guilty.

Arraigned with him today were Theodore G. Miller, head of the propagation department of the Moose, who lives in Mooseheart, Ill.; Bernard C. McGuire, head of the B. C. McGuire Merchandise company, and Raymond Walsh, McGuire's assistant. Each pleaded not guilty and nominal bail of $1,005 was fixed for Senator Davis, Miller, and Walsh and $2,500 for McGuire.

The four defendants arraigned today were named in each of two indictments. Arraignments on two other indictments of the lottery group were held last week when Conrad H. Mann, prominent Kansas City business man and politician; Frank E. Herring, editor of the Eagles' magazine, and M. J. Rivise of the Western Union Telegraph company pleaded not guilty.

The four indictments, obtained by United States Attorney George Z. Medalie, charge each defendant with violations of the federal lottery laws and with conspiracy to do so.

Denies Part in Lottery.

In behalf of Mr. Davis, a statement was issued by Mr. Tuttle, who formerly was United States attorney in this district, and Charles J. Margiotti, associate counsel, who was admitted to the federal bar from Pennsylvania today to take part in this case.

"While we do not wish to discuss the case in detail at this moment," the statement said, "we do say that it can be speedily demonstrated that Senator Davis is entirely innocent of these charges; that he had no part in the plan under which the charity balls were held, and that he neither took nor got a penny from the proceeds thereof.

"Furthermore, we are of the clear opinion that this plan, which in substance also has been used by a large number of the most honorable fraternal, charitable and other societies in the country, is not violative of any federal statute."

He was correspondent for the New York Evening Post in Cuba and Porto Rico during the Spanish-American war and later was an editorial writer on the New York Sun. He wrote several books on Caribbean problems.

EX-JUDGE DIES

Attorney Sheridan E. Fry, for twelve years a judge of the Chicago Municipal court, died yesterday in a hospital at Dixon, having failed to rally from an emergency operation for appendicitis which was performed on Sunday. He was 65 years old.

Attorney Fry was born in Donelly's Mills, Pa., and spent his boyhood working on a farm in Winnebago county. He was graduated from Northwestern university in 1895 and was admitted to the bar the same year. He practiced law in Chicago for ten years and was assistant to County Judges Orrin N. Carter and Lewis Rinaker before his election to the Municipal bench in 1908.

He served as a judge until 1920. He failed of reëlection in that year, and resumed the private practice of law. His home was at 6136 Evans avenue. His widow and two children survive.

DR. ALLISON DIES; NOTED IN ORTHOPEDICS

Dr. Nathaniel Allison, 56 years old, in charge of the division of orthopedic surgery at the University of Chicago, and recipient of the Distinguished Service Cross for his work in France during the world war, died at La Jolla, Cal., yesterday.

He was known throughout the country for his orthopedic work, and held several positions of medical importance. Dr. Allison was born in St. Louis, and was graduated from Harvard college and Harvard medical school. He first practiced in St. Louis. After the war, from 1919 to 1923 he served as dean of Washington university, St. Louis, later going to the Harvard medical school as professor of orthopedic surgery. In 1929 he came to the University of Chicago.

Dr. Allison was a member of many medical and surgical associations, foreign and American, and was a former president of the American Orthopedic association. He was a member of the Onwentsia Country club. His home was at 181 Lake Shore drive. Surviving are his widow, Marion, and a sister, Mrs. Joseph W. Lewis, of St. Louis. Burial will be in St. Louis.

ADMIRAL COLE TO RETIRE AFTER 47 YEARS IN NAVY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The navy department today announced the retirement, effective Sept. 1, of Rear Admiral William Carey Cole, former commander of the scouting force and more recently commandant of the 12th naval district with headquarters at San Francisco.

Rear Admiral Cole was born in Chicago in 1868. Graduated from the Naval academy in 1885, he spent 47 of his 64 years in the navy, and served in the Spanish-American and world wars.

Rear Admiral Cole was awarded the distinguished service medal for his service during the world war in command of the battleship Nevada operating in the war zone with the British fleet. He also holds decorations from the Peruvian, Ecuadorean, and Chilean governments.

His present home is in Cleveland, O.

TAXPAYER ACCUSES JUDGE OF PREJUDICE; REBUKED IN COURT

Judge Craig A. Hood yesterday rebuked a delinquent taxpayer who sought a change of venue in a suit in the Circuit court to collect back taxes. The taxpayer contended that Judge Hood was "prejudiced against all taxpayers." The judge denied the petition, charging that it was a subterfuge to delay collection of the tax.

The petition was brought by Dillwyn N. Bell as an official of the Bell Lock company, 188 West Randolph street. The company is being sued by the county for an unpaid 1930 personal property tax bill of $6,254. Special Tax Attorney Lee La Rochelle represents the county.

When the petition was presented Judge Hood placed Bell on the witness stand. Bell admitted that he had not known Judge Hood before the tax case was called before him, but said that he had heard the judge decide other tax cases recently and concluded that he was prejudiced against all taxpayers. He admitted, however, that he did not believe the court had any special prejudice against him.

"I'm going to deny this petition, as it hasn't complied with the law," ruled Judge Hood. "I'm merely following the law in these cases, and no judge under these circumstances can be prejudiced against any defendant. I believe this is but another way of seeking a continuance. I'm not going to allow any such subterfuge. These cases must be tried."

Inez H. Irwin Novel Pleases in Gay Scenes

But Tones of Tragedy Are Too Shrill.

"Youth Must Laugh," by Inez Haynes Irwin. [Bobbs-Merrill]. Published today.

"Royal Flush," by Margaret Irwin. [Harcourt-Brace.] Published tomorrow.

INEZ HAYNES IRWIN, the wife of Will Irwin, is an extremely popular writer in America. She has won prizes for her short stories and attention and praise for her novels, which have been translated into many languages. Despite the mediocrity of her latest novel, "Youth Must Laugh," it is not too difficult to understand the reason for her popularity.

INEZ IRWIN.

"Youth Must Laugh" opens in Charlestown, Mass., on Bunker Hill day, 1857. The Hart girls [there are eight of them] are finding various ways of celebrating this famous day. Josie-Em, quite by accident, comes upon three men who save her from an embarrassing moment.

Steadwell Sayre, Phin Mason, and Hijah Scovell become in a very short time the trusted friends of the Hart family. Steadwell falls in love with Josie-Em, who is 15 years his junior; Phin with Francie, who is a passionate, impulsive young woman, and Hijah with Lovena Hart, who is engaged to a minister. These men, as friendly and as curiously different from one another as the sisters, bring romance, drama, and tragedy into the uneventful lives of the girls.

From a life of quiet elegance, gayety, love, and devotion, an atmosphere of unreality where life with its harshness fears to tread, these eight sisters, sheltered, well kept, and attractive, as unacquainted with the hue and cry as china dolls, suddenly are pushed face to face with life which in its strangeness seems like a monster from another world. One of the sisters dies, the sweetheart of another is drowned, the tragedy of illicit love found out hangs over another, a murder is committed that in one way or another affects every one in this group of friends. Life comes at them hard and fast with its smash hits. But they fight back and, as is the case generally, neither wins the battle; it is a draw.

The colors darken, laughter is slowly quieted, carelessness gives way to care, which is life's appointed etcher, and the years of time drag on.

"Youth Must Laugh," though it is admirably conceived, is technically unconvincing. In the first place, the reader gets little impression of historical setting except for the arbitrary introduction of minor external data. This would be unimportant except for the story's dependence from time to time upon the unfamiliar psychology of the times. Structurally the book just barely hangs together. It rambles from Boston to Colorado and back again, jumps the civil war and skips from one sister to another.

There seems not to be one powerful theme or one unifying intention that can make these technical inadequacies excusable. The high destiny that pursues Lovena with a vengeance, finally overtakes her. Hijah, who prophesied this, says: "Penthesilea, your doom has overtaken you as it overtook me," and it all seems somewhat silly.

The author, when her story concerns the gaiety and the youth of her characters, their minor mistakes and troubles, their pathos and their delicate happiness, is both convincing and appealing. But when she attempts to portray tragedy it is obvious that she is out of her field. Her tones become shrill, her colors darken into impossible purples and blacks that smear on the canvas, and her figures stumble and stalk melodramatically.

"Royal Flush," the English Book society's choice for June, is written by another Irwin across the water, though she is no relation to Inez Haynes Irwin. The book is also historical, a biography of the charming little Minette, the cousin of Louis XIV, and the sister of Charles II, of England. With the beheading of her father Minette becomes an undesirable hanger-on of French royalty. She is poor, lonely and unwanted, unable to figure at court balls and without any chance for a distinguished husband. Charles, her brother, is, it seems, miraculously recalled to England and Minette almost immediately becomes one of the most popular and desired women in Europe.

"Royal Flush" is a sympathetic and exciting picture of this young girl's personality, of her frankness, her cleverness, and her mistakes. There is also an interpretation of the first ten or fifteen years of Louis' reign that is both brilliant and scholarly. For readers who like their history treated imaginatively, who like characters in history to become real and human, almost like one's next door neighbor, this book carries the highest recommendation. M. D.

First Fall Coats for Parisiennes Minus Fur Trim

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — With August drawing its last breath, the wise woman has begun plans for her fall wardrobe. What kind of coat to buy for autumn days is—and should be—her first consideration. And Paris, ever heedful of a young woman's fancy, has already turned out a goodly array for her inspection.

The new fall coats may vary in details, but their basic virtues are all the same—smartness and practicality. Along these lines, a trimmer silhouette that has become more feminine is the result. Masculine and military touches date a coat too obviously. The new coats are the kind that can be worn late into the autumn and donned again in the early spring. One of their most important features is the absence of fur trimming. They may, however, be worn with separate furs.

Lucile Paray has designed a coat, shown in the sketch today, that will carry one through the fall months for practically every occasion. It combines the virtues of being simple and yet smart enough for afternoon occasions. In a rough surfaced, black wool, it has a shoulder length cape in back that ends in two wide bands in front, which cross, surplice fashion, and fasten with two buttons. The cape is lined in red wool and the under band is turned to show the red side. The belt is of black and red leather.

The small sketch shows the back of this coat which has a center panel from the shoulders. Gored bands of the material trim the sleeves.

Zukor Will Be Host to Three Hundred Movie Exhibitors

Adolph Zukor, president of the Paramount-Publix corporation, will be host to 300 motion picture exhibitors of Chicago and the middle west at a luncheon at the Drake hotel today.

He will address the exhibitors on the problems of the film industry and explain the work now under way at Hollywood to put out better products. It is Mr. Zukor's belief that the film industry will be the first big business to return to normal conditions.

Among the theater owners and circuit heads who will attend are Barney Balaban, Morris Katz, James Coston, Arthur and Henry Schoenstet, Jack Miller, Nat Wolf, A. B. McCullin, Earl Silverman, Floyd Brookell, and Bob Lucas.

Young Vanity Gets Play in Boys' Clothes

Stores Are Filled with School Needs.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

WHEN you start on a shopping trip with your best young man for school clothes you'll need the understanding of a goddess, the wisdom of a Portia, and the patience of a feminine Job. Small masculine vanities flourish as lustily in your young son as they do among adult males and their pet abominations are the clothes that even hint at sissiness.

This son of yours may be curly headed and blond, with a Barrymore profile, a handsome potential heart breaker, but if you are wise and know your neighbor lads as well as your own, you'll forget your ideas and dress the offspring in sturdy, practical apparel so that he may swagger with the rest of the fellows of his gang, or mix, with true community spirit, with the sometimes questionable but mighty baseball players of another social strata, without being razzed about his clothes.

Don't run the risk of losing your amateur standing as a regular mother by insisting the very young gentleman wear shorts, when the "gang" hoot at anything but plus four knickers, and vice versa. You might do some research work among the neighboring porches and find out what's being worn by the rest of the gang, in the way of sweaters, blouses, hats and socks and shoes.

The shops are filled with everything that's needed—suits and school clothes in practically endless variety. The trick is to know what to select and how much to spurn. Tweed suits with either shorts, or the plus four knickers are what the clothes conscious youngsters will grab. You can find them in light and dark tan, light and dark gray and deep blue.

The suits are as masculine and as well tailored as the rough and scratchy grown up English tweeds from Saville row. All the pockets that only male ingenuity can find use for, are supplied. The new coats are collarless, and the casual curves of the cut-a-way style coats are swanky perfection.

Blouses, again, should be selected after the correct information is available as to what the rest of the fellows wear. Sweaters are the pullover type with either a V or crew neck. Small color collectors can revert to gawdy barbarism with stripes that are a riot. The strongest streaks of orange, red, yellow, wild greens, and wilder blues do some eye filling color combinations across the proud chests of the owners.

If you are a wily diplomat and have sold your son on some social duties such as a dancing class, you should be decorated for valor as well as diplomacy for the festive clothes for such occasions will no doubt do much to assuage your sorrow over the unpicturesque but practical school attire you unenthusiastically authorized. Future Beau Brummells will wear broadcloth suits fashioned enough like the tweeds to forestall any complaints. . . . Blouses dress them up for whatever gay party they attend.

Very young he-men, from 4 to 8, will see their world in dashing nautical outfits, the always popular sailor suit . . . navy blue trousers, navy blue collar and cuffs on a white duck top, the right sleeve sports a red stripe, the left a chevron and a screaming, wing flapping U. S. eagle.

Young, uninfluenced males will wear a beret till the day they hear some untrammeled contemporary sniff at it, then you buy an Eton cap or watch the child go savage and free without anything in the way of head covers to lose, mislay, or hunt for in the mornings.

Invitations Sent to Boys and Girls for Theater Party

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Invitations have been sent to the hundred boys and girls who will be my guests at the Publix-Balaban & Katz Oriental theater tomorrow where that thrilling mystery picture, "70,000 Witnesses," is being shown. You should have them by now.

We're going to have a grand time. The more I hear about this picture the more anxious I become to know just how that football player was killed. I've been told that we'll never be able to guess, for the victim met his death in a very startling and mystifying manner, in a way never before used in all the mystery stories and movies which have come out in the last few years.

Doesn't it all sound interesting? It is and so is the stage show in which we'll see and hear Peggy Bernier, the blues singer, and Stuart and Lash, a pair of very funny comedians. Peggy, you know, started her warbling at the Oriental a few years back when Paul Ash was maestro there. It will be good to see her again.

Ada Paggi, Opera Singer, Qualifies for Citizenship

Miss Ada Paggi, mezzo-soprano who sang with the Chicago Civic opera, yesterday qualified for citizenship in a hearing before Fred J. Schlotfeldt, chief of the United States naturalization service. She gave her address as 1117 North Dearborn street. Miss Paggi will receive her final papers later.

THE CAST.

Jim Kenyon ..... Jack Holt
Franklyn Bennett .. Ralph Graves
Julie March ..... Lila Lee
Wu Sun ..... Victor Wong
Fang ..... Tetsu Komai

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Ralph Graves and Jack Holt are still fighting over Lila Lee. (Cinematically.) Remember the trio in "Dirigible"?

(Pork and beans,
McLaglen and Lowe,
Spareribs and sauerkraut,
Wind and blow,
Ham and eggs,
Tan and leather,
Graves and Holt—
They're always together.)

China, racked by war and poisoned by intrigue, serves as background for the activities of the air ace (Mr. Holt), the war correspondent (Mr. Graves), and the lady both so greatly desire.

So far as character's concerned, neither rival has much to brag about. Jim Kenyon is brave and a glamorous fighting figure—but crooked as a dog's hind leg. Franklin Bennett is handsome, clever, a facile talker, and a poser. He carries his arm in a black sling for publicity purposes and his radio broadcasts are famous. He has, to quote Kenyon, who, for reasons you'll learn, hates him like the devil hates holy water, been in many wars but never fought in any of them.

The lady. Well—just one of God's good women gone wrong.

I suppose, when one is desperately ill, as was Miss Lee, things take on their true perspective. All that once has seemed so terribly important must appear strangely inconsequential to the person who returns to the every day world from gazing over the borderline into the infinite. Strife, gesture—nothing! Sincerity, understanding—all!

Something of this I sensed as I watched Miss Lee's effortless, sympathetic and comprehending portrayal of her rôle.

The rivalry of the two men precipitates the story into a welter of melodrama from which emerge, unharmed and wiser, the lady and—which do you think—the reporter or the aviator?

"War Correspondent" zips right along under excellent direction. It has much interesting detail and some exciting episodes. Dialogue is believable.

Both Holt and Graves give fine performances. Support is able.

Jot "War Correspondent" down as a movie you'll enjoy.

See you tomorrow.

"Il Trovatore" Will Be Given Tonight at Soldiers' Field

"Il Trovatore," the second of the open air operatic performances, will be given in Soldiers' field tonight. The cast of principals will be the same that sang "Aida" Sunday night: Anna Leskaya as Leonora, Dreda Aves as Azucena, Pasquale Ferrara as Manrico, Pasquale Amato as the Count di Luna, and Nino Ruisi as Ferrabdo. Giuseppe Creatore will conduct.

One of the hits of the "Aida" performance was the group of horsemen and mounted police who appeared in the triumph scene. They will also be included tonight, both in the scene of the gypsy camp and in that of the encampment of the troops. The ballet of the Civic Opera company will appear between the second and third acts.

Arts and Casino Clubs Prepare for Fall Season of Parties

Other Gathering Places of Fashionables Get Ready for Return of Summer Travelers.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Arts club and the Casino, those two smart gathering places for Chicago's fashionables during the winter season, are being put in readiness for fall openings. Both will open their doors about a month from now, when most of the summer travelers will have returned to town.

The Arts club these days is a topsy turvy place, with furniture shrouded and piled in corners and painters' pails and brushes strewn about. The rooms are being cleaned and the furniture mended and polished.

There will be no changes this year in the rooms that were planned and designed by the late Mrs. John Alden Carpenter. Mrs. Carpenter, you'll recall, was wont to shop for the Arts club every year during her travels and usually brought back some rare treasure to be added to the club's collection. Some of the furniture is to be recovered with new brocades, but the general decorative scheme will remain as it has been for the last two seasons.

The club will be formally opened on Oct. 1 and there will be the customary tea for members on that day.

Casino Club Being Renovated.

The Casino club on Delaware place will be available to its members shortly after the first of October. This rendezvous for the smart set is being renovated also. A new coat of conservative dark green paint has been applied to the exterior of the low one story building, and the ballroom, dining rooms, lounges and cardrooms are all being put into sparkling shape for the numerous debut balls and dinner dances to be given there this winter.

The Woman's Athletic club, which remains open all the year round, with so many Chicagoans summering at home, has been unusually busy. Luncheon and tea are served every day and members are enjoying the use of the club's beautiful swimming pool. The Woman's Athletic club is housed in one of the handsomest buildings of its kind in the country.

The Saddle and Cycle club has been a popular place all summer, too. Its outdoor swimming pool is the chief attraction to town dwellers and its Thursday night buffet suppers are always well attended.

The Tavern club, which serves dinner on its outdoor terrace, is well patronized nightly by members who enjoy the cool breezes far above the hot city streets.

This club will permit ladies as luncheon guests today to view the eclipse.

Bettina Beals Becomes Bride.

The marriage of Miss Bettina Byrd Beals, daughter of Major and Mrs. Frank Lee Beals of 180 East Delaware place, to Dr. George Schaller was solemnized at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Only close relatives attended the ceremony and the reception which followed at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. The bride, who was unattended, wore her going-away ensemble of navy blue wool crêpe with silver fox trimming and an orchid corsage.

Immediately after the reception the couple left for New York where they will sail tonight for Germany. They will reside in Berlin, where Dr. Schaller will be on the foreign office staff. He has been German vice consul to Chicago for two years.

Plans Novel Bachelor Dinner.

There has been plenty of entertaining for Miss Marie Clarke Smith and Hyde Gillette, whose marriage is to take place next Wednesday, but the most novel of all the prenuptial parties will be one that Mr. Gillette is to give himself.

Instead of the conventional bachelor dinner at a club in town, Mr. Gillette has decided to take his best man and ushers to Lake Beulah, Wis., where his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Fraser Gillette of Pasadena, have a summer estate.

On Sunday night he will give a bachelor supper and they'll all return to Chicago in time for a supper party to be given on Monday evening by Miss Betty Blair and John M. Blair for Miss Smith and Mr. Gillette and their wedding attendants.

Mrs. Ralph C. Otis is giving a kitchen shower for Miss Smith today. The bride's mother, Mrs. Kinney Smith, will give the bridal dinner on Tuesday, the evening before the wedding, following the rehearsal in her apartment at 10 East Schiller street.

The wedding is to be solemnized at 4:30 o'clock in the Smith apartment by the Rev. Edward Mullally of St. Mary's church. Only relatives and close friends have been asked to attend the ceremony, but a few more friends have been invited to attend the reception to follow.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Randolph Payson, and her little daughter, Betty Payson, will be her only attendants. Edwin Gillette will be his brother's best man, and the ushers will include John M. Blair, Dudley B. Blossom of New York, Alexis de Tarnowsky, Thomas P. Field, and Harlow D. Higinbotham.

Mr. Gillette's parents and his sisters, Helen and Marietta Gillette, will arrive from Lake Beulah on Tuesday. His uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William Shippen Jenks, who also summer at Lake Beulah, will accompany the Gillettes.

Parties for Dorothy Darling.

Miss Dorothy Darling, daughter of the Ira C. Darlings of Kenilworth, whose marriage to Lieut. George V. Holloman of Dayton, O., is to take place a week from Saturday, has been attending a round of prenuptial parties.

She held a trousseau tea on Monday, and yesterday Mrs. Burt Crowe of Kenilworth and her daughter, Mrs. Lawrence Knott of New York, gave a breakfast and bridge for the popular bride-to-be. Mrs. Sidney Y. Ball of Winnetka will be hostess at a luncheon and bridge party tomorrow. Among affairs given last week for Miss Darling were a luncheon by her sister, Mrs. Leland Danforth; a luncheon and bridge by Miss Jane Theurer at Glen View Country club, and a kitchen shower by Mrs. Leroy Woodland of Kenilworth.

Lieut. Holloman will arrive from Wright field, Dayton, on Sunday morning. Miss Catherine Roach, one of the bridesmaids, will be hostess at a buffet supper for the bridal pair on Tuesday evening, and on Wednesday night Miss Georgiana Fowler, another attendant, will give a dinner dance for them at the Drake. Lieut. Samuel Harris, who is to be best man, will arrive from Wright field on Friday, in time for the bridal dinner at the Darling residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Fortune of Indianapolis will go to Beverly Farms, Mass., next week to visit Mrs. Albert J. Beveridge and her daughter, Miss Abby Beveridge, at their summer place there. Mr. Fortune is Mrs. Frederic Clay Bartlett's brother. The Bartletts are also at their Beverly Farms estate and have had Mr. and Mrs. Frederic Clay Bartlett Jr. and their infant son as their guests for several weeks. Mrs. Bartlett and Mrs. Beveridge have been close friends for many years.

News Items of Travelers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hoefer are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Sherman Taylor at Cliveden in Stockbridge, Mass. The Taylors will return to Chicago around the fifteenth of September.

Mrs. Wait Talcott of Rockford, who has been abroad for several weeks, is to arrive in New York today and will reopen her villa at North Egremont in the Berkshires for the fall.

Mrs. Bertha Jacques of Chicago and Mrs. Edward C. Wright of San Francisco have been guests of Mrs. William Benson Storey at Montecito for a fortnight and have gone on to San Francisco. Mrs. Storey, who has been in the west since the early summer, will close her house in late September and return to Chicago. Mr. Storey spent several weeks in Chicago in July.

Mr. and Mrs. William R. Dickinson, who were Chicagoans before they moved to Hope Ranch at Santa Barbara, Cal., are now occupying their beach cottage at Sandyland, Cal.

The South Shore Country club Labor day program includes dinner and dancing in the outdoor pavilion on Saturday and Monday nights, a twilight concert before dinner on Sunday evening and the second round of the club championship golf tournament on Saturday afternoon.

Exhibit Ancient Napkins Cleaned by Use of Fire

Asbestos cloth, usually considered modern, was used for napkins in the middle ages, Henry W. Nichols, associate curator of geology at the Field Museum of Natural History, said yesterday. The asbestos napkins eliminated laundering as they were thrown into the fire for cleaning. Marco Polo found asbestos in Tartary in A. D. 1250, Mr. Nichols said.

The Death Watch

By Edgar Wallace

SYNOPSIS.

Peter Dunn of Scotland Yard is in pursuit of a band of thieves who some years before had robbed the Canadian Bank of Commerce in London. The robbers spent nine years in jail for the theft, but the loot was never recovered. Peter's buddy, Inspector Sam Allerway, was dismissed in disgrace, accused of taking a bribe from the head thief, and killed himself. Peter, the only baronet in the service, kept right on working after he came into his title and fortune. It was his form of fun and he wanted to vindicate Allerway. The year after the robbers were released Peter, on a vacation, cruising on the Thames, recognizes a servant in a supposedly haunted house as one of the robbers. Peter stays to investigate. The house is owned by Mr Hannay, and is one of two identical villas lying side by side. Hannay's has been improved, while the other is deserted and decayed. Neither Hannay nor his daughter, Pat, believes the ghost stories, but the servants leave one by one. Hannay invites Mr. Herzoff, a scientist living in the neighborhood, to be his guest. Pat, driving near her home, nearly collides with Peter's car

INSTALLMENT IX.

A MYSTERIOUS KEY.

Pat was a little startled that the fact of the gardener's presence should make the young man withdraw with such speed. What interest did Chesterford have for him?

Later in the afternoon she saw him again. At the western end of the property, where the ground began to slope down towards the river, was a thick belt of pine trees. Here, even before Mr. Hannay had improved the property, was a black wooden hut which was now used to house the lawn mower and other garden implements. He was standing against this, turning over with the toe of his shoe a big heap of mould that was stored there. She hesitated for a second and then began walking towards him, but Peter saw her coming, and when she had rounded a big rhododendron bush which for the moment obliterated a view of the hut he had disappeared.

He had been very much interested in this heap of earth and in the wheel tracks which led from the hut. He had tried to open the door, but it was fastened with a staple and a patent padlock.

It don't belong to our doors, we have those patent locks—with flat keys.

He went to the car he had parked in the side road and drove off. His inquiries that morning had located the cook who had recently left. She was staying with relations on the Reading road; a stout, placid woman who was very disinclined to discuss her late employer. After a while, however, Peter persuaded her to talk.

She liked Mr. Hannay; she thought Patricia was "a sweet young thing"; but for Chesterford itself she had little use.

"I don't mind burglars and tramps," she said, "but it was these goings on at night that worried me. Howlings and shriekings and people fighting on the lawn—it got so bad, sir, that I couldn't sleep."

She believed in the death watch. The demise of her own mother had been foretold. She had heard the tick-tick-tick of this mysterious agent, and a picture fell from the wall for no reason that was ascertainable.

"What other noises did you hear at night?" asked Peter.

She had heard a sort of thudding, she said vaguely, as if somebody was digging. Then one morning she had come down into her kitchen and found that the door had been forced. There were signs of muddy feet on her clean floor. Whoever it was had left a key behind.

"A key?" said Peter quickly. "What sort of a key?"

The ex-cook smiled broadly.

"Would you like to see it?"

"Have you got it?" asked Peter eagerly.

She had brought it away with her as a souvenir of her alarming experience. Going out of the room, she came back with an old-fashioned looking key in her hand. It had rusted but had been recently cleaned.

"It didn't belong to any of our doors: we've got those patent little locks—what do you call them?—with flat keys. I meant to give it to Mr. Higgins, the new butler who came in, but I forgot."

"Would you mind if I kept it for a day or two?" asked Peter.

She demurred at this.

"I don't know whether I ought to do that. It might open somebody's door and I should feel responsible."

Ultimately he persuaded her, and he went back with a clew which, he told himself, might not be a clew at all.

When he got back to his room he examined the key carefully. There was no maker's name on the handle; it was, in fact, the type of key which fitted a lock which was not made nowadays. Then an idea occurred to him, and he sat up. It would fit the kind of lock that Mr. Diggin would have chosen.

The professor came over in the afternoon, and Pat was a little startled when she heard that the professor was dressing for dinner. This was unusual: neither Pat nor her father dressed except when they were going out. She hastily changed her dress to match the splendor of their guest.

Since he had arrived Mr. Herzoff had spent his time making a minute inspection of every room in the house, including her own. He had followed this up by a very careful survey of the grounds, but he had nothing new to offer at dinner in the shape of a solution. Since Pat was very human, she was pleased with his praise of her dinner.

Mr. Herzoff was the most satisfactory guest they had had. He liked his room. He thought the view charming. His presence at any rate had one pleasing result. No sound disturbed the stillness of the house that night, and even the death watch maintained a complete silence.

Peter Dunn spent a long time on the telephone that morning, a longer time communing with himself. He strolled through the crowded streets of Maidenhead that morning and stopped before a secondhand bookshop. Outside were a number of shelves on which the gems of literature of other ages were displayd. He saw one stout volume, read the title and grinned. "Advice to a Young Lady of Fashion" was the title. The price was twopence. Peter put the heavy volume under his arm, not knowing exactly how his jest might develop.

It developed unusually, it turned out, for that afternoon he had a sudden spasm of panic, and in the center of that panic aura floated the trim figure of a girl who, for some reason or other, had become very important to him.

He spent the afternoon working clumsily, and left just before sunset, with the bulky book in his pocket. He waited till dark before he approached Diggin's Folly. The gaunt house was an ugly smear against the evening sky when he drove his car into its grounds and cautiously approached the house.

Taking from his pocket the key the cook had given him, he inserted it in the front door. His heart beat a little faster when the key turned and the door opened to his touch. The hinges did not squeak as he had expected. He had sufficient curiosity to stop, after he had shut the door, and examine them with his hand lamp. There was oil there, recently applied.

He waited, straining his ears, but there was no sound except the scurry of tiny feet. Generations of rats had been born and lived in this deserted building. Every step he took sent some terrified rodent to cover.

He went from room to room on the ground floor and found nothing. He climbed the stairs that creaked under him, inspected three small rooms and found them empty. The door of the fourth was locked.

From his inside pocket he took a flat leather case, fitted a pick-lock to the handle and probed inside the keyhole. Presently the ward shot back; he turned the handle and entered.

Somebody had been living here. There was a table with three empty China jugs and a couple of plates on it. In a cupboard he found two new empty suitcases. Continuing his search he made a startling discovery. In a cupboard, the lock of which he picked, he found, wrapped in oil paper, three automatic pistols of heavy caliber, and, stacked near them, six boxes of cartridges. He rewrapped the pistols, locked the cupboard and went out of the room, carefully locking the door behind him. He did not go to his car, but pushed through the hedge which separated Hannay's property from its desolate neighbor.

Westcott Acts at Birthplace; Wins Contract

Makes Successful Film of Utah Trails.

BY ROSALIND SCHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 30.—It's an odd thing, but Gordon Westcott, one time soldier of fortune, Irish revolutionist and explorer, now a successful actor, got his Paramount contract renewed on the strength of his work in "Heritage of the Desert," a story made along the old Mormon trails in Utah, the place where he was born, in a devout Mormon family.

Raoul Walsh has brought back his company making "Wild Girl," from location up in Sequoia National park, where he made scenes with Joan Bennett from a story adapted from Bret Harte's "Salomy Jane." Walsh is telling everybody about what a thrill he is handing the public. "Joan Bennett's come alive in this film," says Walsh. "And I think I am a lucky guy to have directed her in it."

Joan had a narrow escape due to the same daring that led her into disaster last year when she insisted on riding a fiery horse which threw her and broke her hip and kept her in bed for months.

This time, Joan dashed right into the midst of a group of wild bears gathered together by leading paths of honey out of the wilderness to a focal point in the Sequoias where the cameras were set up. Now the Sequoit bears are not as tame and trained as the bears in Yosemite, and it took quick work to get Joan out of a scramble of teeth and claws, that followed her rash friendliness. The company brought home several cubs after endless governmental red tape, and the cubs are boarding at Walsh's valley ranch, till needed for shots at the studio.

M G M folks, taking a cue from their boss, Louis B. Mayer, a Hoover lieutenant, have become politics-conscouis, and two players from that studio are grabbing at political jobs. Hedda Hopper won as Republican county cvntral committeewoman from the Fifty-seventh district, after handing out snappy literature about herself, with 20 pretty girls aiding her in stopping motorists and pushing doorbells. Her winning campaign pamphlets had "Hop to it for Hedda," "Hopper ahead by leaps and bounds," with fetching pictures.

Mitchell Lewis is running for state assemblyman, and when asked about it said, "Well, with studios closing for six months at a time as some have the last year, I figured I might as well put in my time somehow; and then too, if films need new faces, so do politics."

Lewis is having a swell time putting on a real showman's campaign by getting his actor pals to put on free vaudeville entertainments in the school houses throughout the district.

Sally Eilers, after being laid up with a severe cold, is back at the Fox studio for work in "Second Hand Wife" with John Boles.

Washington Society

Why Beets Get Brown and Red Cabbage Blue

Easy to Avoid Culinary Embarrassments.

BY MARY MEADE.

(This is the first of a series of three articles dealing with the common problems of color changes in cooking red, green, yellow, and white foods.)

Why did my nut bread turn a weird blue shade?

Why are my cooked beets sometimes distressingly pale or brownish? My red cabbage blue? My fruit punch a villainous muddy purple? My green vegetables olive colored or brown? My rice and onions yellow instead of white?

In a word—what makes food colors act the way they do apparently without rhyme or reason?

These questions come to me so often—and concern such a tremendously interesting subject—that I believe they deserve a whole day to themselves and then will be scarcely more than skimmed.

Materials called pigments, to begin with, found in all plants as well as in animals, account for the color we see—red beets, green lettuce, and in humans, the various stages of yellow, red, brown, and black colored skins. In plant foods these pigments are generally divided into those which appear red, blue, or violet; those with a yellow or orange tinge; and those colored green. The first—the red, blue and violet pigments—carry the imposing name of anthocyans. They turk in practically all plants, but are particularly outstanding in beets, berries, red or blue grapes, red cabbage and onions, etc. This particular pigment, when it meets an acid, is intensified in its reddish color. Salts [alkalies], on the other hand, react with red pigments to give first a blue, then shade off into green, yellow, and finally brown as the blues mix with the yellow pigments already in the food.

Acids and alkalies may take part in cooking in several ways and either help or destroy the good looks of our food.

"Hard" water has certain salts in it which injure the red in beets, red cabbage, etc. Soft water contains certain acids which intensify this color. When it is necessary to use hard water [most Chicago water is hard] a little vinegar may be added to the cooking water, or the red color later may be restored by the addition of vinegar or lemon juice before serving. Since plants all have acids within them, which are released by the action of cooking, it is well to cook red vegetables and fruits with the cover on whenever possible, as the acid that goes up in steam from the food is turned into water again on the cover and runs back into the food.

Fruit punches often do mysterious things in the way of color changing. If you wish to have a clear red color in your drink, keep the punch acid with lemon juice and do not add orange juice unless you like a brownish magenta color, which is not often pleasant. If a blue color is desired, bluish fruit juices may be intensified by the addition of canned pineapple juice. Alkaline water may give a bluish tint to red fruit juices unless sufficient lemon juice is added.

Another trick of the red anthocyans is to combine with the metals they meet. Often a violet color in a red canned fruit is caused by the action of the red pigment on the tin can. The bright red can be returned by the addition of a little lemon juice. You will find that this bluish color becomes more blue if the food is left in the can after opening. Red cabbage will turn blue on the surface if cut with a metal knife as well as turning that color or even green if cooked in hard water. If served raw with an acid dressing it keeps its red color. Or if cooked in milk that color seems well preserved.

Beets that are red on the outside and pale on the inside have been cooked in a too alkaline water and then dipped in vinegar which has not yet seeped all the way through. If the coloring is reversed, then the cooking was correct but the beets have come in contact with alkaline salts since cooking which have affected their outer rings. One of the best illustrations of these changes may be noticed when we put berry dishes in the dish pan. Alkaline soap instantly changes the red to blue or green.

The reaction that often turns nuts a disagreeable violet or dark blue in nut bread or Waldorf salad is not caused by the red pigments this time, but by tannin. This is a substance found especially in walnuts, and reacts with iron to give a dark bluish-violet color. Thus nuts cut with a knife worn down to the iron often spoil the appearance of otherwise perfect nut bread. When apples are cut with the same kind of knife, a reaction is set up between them and the iron and the iron substance formed immediately works havoc with the color.

Tomorrow in this column we shall talk more about color changes, not in red foods, but in green.

Music Leaders Praise Aid to Free Ice Fund

Sale of Festival Records Raises Money.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Two music directors gathered around a phonograph yesterday and heard again the choruses and bands they directed at the Chicagoland Music Festival on Aug. 20. They are Frank Bennett, who directed the audience of 125,000 in Soldiers' field in the community singing of "America," and Noble Cain, who led the singing of the great "Hallelujah Chorus" from Handel's "Messiah."

Each selection the directors heard was recorded at the festival, and one of the phonograph records, that which carries "America," caught also an announcement by Quin Ryan, who was broadcasting the music festival over a national radio hookup.

The directors were deeply interested in the records, but they were equally as pleased when told that the proceeds of the sale of the records would go to THE TRIBUNE Free Ice fund to provide ice to needy homes.

Another scorching day yesterday brought new suffering to the congested districts and a desperate need for ice. The fund is in immediate need of support, and those who send in their orders for the festival records will be speeding relief to needy homes.

To order the festival records all you have to do is clip out the adjoining coupon, indicate the records you desire, and mail it in with your check to the festival record department of THE TRIBUNE. The records will be sent to customers about ten days after the order is placed.

Those friends who in the past have sent their contributions to the ice fund should send them to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE, Tribune Tower. Contributors who support the Camp Algonquin fund, which sends mothers and children to the camp 45 miles northwest of Chicago for two weeks' vacations, are asked also to send their gifts to the cashier of THE TRIBUNE.

Fear of Family, Not a Desire to Pet, Keeps Boys from Home

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Continuing for one more session the subject of why young men keep away from the homes and parents of young women in whom they are temporarily interested, Max L. says: "I think if the girl's family is smart, they can make the home so charming a place that a boy would not hesitate to go there!"

In the responses to my query addressed to young men on the subject of why they appear to avoid the home and people of the girl they are attracted to, the impression that it is a desire for privacy with a lot of necking and petting thrown in is an erroneous one. The parental attitude is feared, in nine cases out of ten. Instead of being taken in as a young friend, the boy is made to feel his intentions are serious; therefore, he must be weighed and measured for the serious rôle. And this frightens him off.

"Max" says it is not much fun being with his current girl's family. They provide no interesting pastime, yet they sit around and expect him to do all the talking.

"Richard" adds the following to objections already presented against the girl's home atmosphere: drunken fathers and nagging mothers. A drunken father puts a girl in a pretty bad light. She is embarrassed and crushed. The boy is equally embarrassed. The evening is a terrible dud. A nagging mother is just as bad, just as embarrassing.

The lack of confidence on the part of a girl's parents gets "Richard," who protests that all young men are not raked with evil intentions toward said daughters.

Disorderliness, if not uncleanliness in the home is another objection. The girl may be smartly gotten up but against that disorderly home background she slumps in esteem.

Profanity, vulgarity and lack of prudence in the family circle is another thing hard for the caller to digest.

All of which objections simply go to substantiate the claim that a girl with a fine, wholesome, friendly family background has advantages that serve her well where young men are concerned.

Quick, Short Voice Harmful to Child's Calm

Is Overstimulating to His Nerves.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It is some time since a letter has had our space, but here is one I thought would interest many mothers because of the striking example it offered of cause and effect.

"I think you are so wise in your articles to stress the point of people having the care of small children keeping their voices free from strain, excitement, etc. I had such a complete example of this several months ago.

"I was forced to leave our three children for six weeks on account of the illness of my grandmother. The woman I got to care for them is a fine woman, loves the children dearly, and strictly adhered to their feeding, sleeping, and all schedules. From questioning the children and others who were able to tell me I could find nothing that she neglected doing for the children. They said they had a 'swell time.'

"However, when I returned I found the youngest one biting his nails, stuttering, and his formerly low pitched voice was very high and nervous. The oldest child was chewing her beads, ribbons on her dresses, collars, etc., and had dropped back in her work at school. Her teacher said there were evident signs of nervousness. The second child was more nearly herself than the other two.

"I studied this woman who cared for the children, and the only thing wrong I can detect in her management of them was that her voice continually 'peps them up.' She has a loud, nervous way of talking and laughing, a quick, short style of giving orders. In other words, her voice over stimulated them. I have known of so many mothers whose voices over stimulated their children until they were nervously fatigued.

"Three weeks after I returned home the voices returned to normal, the chewing on clothing, etc., ceased, and the school work began to improve decidedly.

"Just one more thing. I found it helped when my children were going through that nervous time to have them come in the house and read or rest or do something quiet a half hour before lunch and dinner and to stay in their own rooms doing something quiet for an hour after lunch. Of course, the youngest one slept."

The last suggestion I consider worth every mother's consideration, whether she is dealing with this situation or not. A short, quiet time before meals or after, or both, is a help to the child who is high strung, to the child who is under weight, to the overly active child—and to all children in summer, when they often sit down at the table exhausted and overheated. Incidentally, I've seen it improve the children's table manners—not that yours need it, of course!

Ileana's Baby Receives Title at Christening

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Aug. 30.—A lot of Von Hapsburgs and one well known Bourbon, whose titles do not mean very much around here any more, gathered solemnly in the historic St. Othmar church at Moedling near here today to attend the christening of the latest member of the family, the three weeks' old son of Princess Ileana and her flying archduke husband, Anton von Hapsburg.

The ceremony was not what it used to be when the Hapsburgs ruled. It seemed to sadden the assembled guests—bluebloods all. For here was a new Hapsburg getting his formal start in life, and though they formally named him Archduke Stephen von Hapsburg, the title sounded empty in this little republic which has abolished all titles, and somehow folks seemed to think the start wasn't the kind a Hapsburg had a right to expect.

Former King Alfonso of Spain was there. He had a principal rôle, for he was the godfather. He chuckled when the baby started screaming, but friends said he has a very sad heart, especially since the abortive uprising in Spain and its aftermath.

The former Empress Zita, titular head of all the Hapsburgs, could not come. Austria will not let her in until she renounces her rights to the throne and she will not do this. But she was represented by Archduke Theodor, who brought from her a special christening water from Palestine.

Dowager Queen Marie was at the side of Alfonso beaming at her grandson. Her daughter, former Queen Elizabeth of Greece, and Queen Marie of Jugo-Slavia were near, the latter apparently unafraid of various threats by Macedonian revolutionaries to assassinate her.

Salvation Army Extends Camp Service to Sept. 10

The Salvation Army will extend its camp service at the fresh air camp, Camp Lake, Wis., until Sept. 10, Brig. L. C. Bennett, head of the family welfare department of the territorial headquarters, announced yesterday. This arrangement was made because the public schools are not to open until Sept. 12. The camp has cared for nearly 2,500 women and children during this season, representing a 25 per cent increase over last year.

Charming Design with Molded Bodice Hipline Emphasizes Youthful Figure

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A printed silk or a lightweight crêpe wool makes an attractive little dress. The molded bodice and hipline emphasize the youthful figure. The waist is simple and pretty, and the full circular skirt sways gracefully when in motion.

The pattern, No. 2919, comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 36 and 38 inches bust measure. Size 16 requires 4⅛ yards of 39 inch material with 2¼ yards of 2 inch wide ribbon.

Slim Hipline Ushers in Fall Fashions, as Wise Gals Reduce

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

While the fashion world is carrying on a lively fracas over the placing of the waistline, which it is reported doing at this writing in dispatches from Paris, we'd better get busy and steal a march on the dictators and be ready, no matter where the darned thing lights eventually.

Patou, it seems would like waists to circle the hipline. Other French couturiers would shift it up as high as it can be worn. Anyway, over a rib. The idea seems to be not to make the waistline comfortable in its own waistline setting. Whatever else you do with it, keep it off its own premises seems to be the ridiculous ruling. All of which fashion reporting doesn't mean a thing to ladies with waistlines. They'll wear 'em and show 'em where it is going to make the figure look best.

It does seem as if a long-legged look is wanted. With it must go the higher waistline placing, of course. And hiplessness! Hiplessness in any event. Whether the waist goes up or down a couple of inches, the streamline hip gets the vote.

How's yours behaving these days? Been getting hippier on a lazy summer? If you've been swimming hard daily I'll wager your hips are neater. Or if you've been playing a lot of tennis! That stretching pulls the hips down.

One good thing about hips is that the fat that accumulates on them comes off quickly if you make up your mind you're going to get it off. And there's one swell exercise done ten, fifteen, twenty times twice a day that will get them into shape in no time. I've given it here before. Lie on the floor on your back. Keep the head and shoulders as close to the ground as possible as you pull one leg up and over the other. Keep pulling it up until you have it at right angles with the body. Stretch. Return that leg to position and make the other go through the same performance.

Turn on the radio if you like music with your exercise. But do this one a number of times a day and prove for yourself what a grand hip exerciser and reducer it is.

Is it good? Say..even Dad takes a second helping

"... it used to be you couldn't get Dad to eat even one bowl of breakfast food—let alone two! But now he hollers for 'seconds' on Heinz Rice Flakes just like I do. He says he feels better since he started eating 'em every morning, too. Why don't you ask your mother to get some? You'll be crazy about the taste—it's so crisp too. Just swell! ..."

GENTLY REGULATIVE—this delicious breakfast food, so different in flavor, is made from southern rice, flaked and toasted to a golden brown. And it has something no other cereal has—cereal cellulose added by the exclusive Heinz process. This healthful added substance is one of Nature's mildest and most effective regulators. Give your family Heinz Rice Flakes—they'll love that crisp, crunchy flavor—and it will help keep them well!

This year TRIBUNE WANT ADS OFFER MORE ATTRACTIVE APARTMENTS than ever!

YOU COULD SEARCH THE CITY AND SUBURBS PERSONALLY AND FIND NO MORE ATTRACTIVE APARTMENTS THAN THOSE TO BE FOUND IN THIS PREFERRED GUIDE

The most complete directory of apartments in all parts of the city—$25 and up.

IF you are planning to move this fall, there is good news in the Tribune Want Ad Section. The selection of apartments now offered there makes locating your next home an easy matter.

Furnished or unfurnished; two, three or ten rooms; steam heat or stove heat; $25 or $200—no matter what kind of an apartment you want, you are sure to find it at the rent you want to pay.

It is a treat to shop the Tribune Want Ad columns. Not only are the ads displayed conveniently by sizes and locations of the apartments, but, because for years the Tribune has been Chicago's preferred rental directory, agents and landlords place the bulk of their apartments-to-rent advertising in it. No other newspaper has produced such quick results and secured such great numbers of desirable tenants as the Tribune. Naturally, advertisers offer their best apartments in the Tribune.

This means that when you choose your apartment from Tribune Want Ads you have passed on practically every desirable apartment available at the time. You waste no time on apartments which could not possibly interest you. You make every minute—and every dollar—count.

Start reading the want ads now and you are certain to find just what you want at the rent you want to pay.

CUBS' 4 TO 3 VICTORY SETS SEASON RECORD

O. DUTRA'S 140 WINS MEDAL IN PRO GOLF MEET

HORTON SMITH IS SECOND, FOUR STROKES BEHIND

Burke, Cooper, and Armour Fail.

Dutra's Card

ST. PAUL, Minn., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Olin Dutra's sub par card for the 36 hole qualifying round of the Professional Golfers' association tournament here today follows:

[SCORES ON PAGE 17.]

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Olin Dutra of Santa Monica, Cal., holder of the 1932 Metropolitan and North Shore open golf championships, carded 140, four strokes under par, in the 36 hole qualifying round of the 15th National Professional Golfers association tournament today to win medal honors.

Horton Smith, professional at the Oak Park Country club, checked in with 144 for second place on the list of qualifiers. It was Smith's best performance since his wrist was broken on the west coast last year.

Four Tie for Third.

Young Tom Creavey of Albany, N. Y., who amazed the golfing world by winning the professional championship last year at New York, tied with three others for third with 145. The other members of the quartet were Ed Dudley of Concordville, Pa.; Eddie Schultz of Troy, N. Y., and Joe Kirkwood, the trick shot maker from Philadelphia.

Creavey, as the champion, qualified for match play tomorrow automatically, but competed today in an attempt to add the medal to his list of achievements.

Ralph Stonehouse of Indianapolis, who finished the 18 holes this morning with a 70, one more stroke than Kirkwood required, played a duffer's game this afternoon and found himself in the 150 class along with Al Watrous of Detroit.

Billy Burke, the national open champion, Harry Cooper, Canadian title holder, and Tommy Armour, the 1930 P. G. A. champion, found the qualifying test too severe and were left without places in the bracket of 32 survivors who join Creavey in the first round of match play tomorrow. It will be over the 36 hole route daily and will continue until next Sunday when the 1932 champion will be crowned.

Playoff Is Necessary.

Abe Espinosa of Chicago, Cooper, Burke, Armour, Tom Filmore of Birmingham, Mich.; Leonard Schmutte, Lima, O.; Clarence Hackney, Northfield, N. J.; Dave Hackney, Lowell, Mass.; Harold McSpadden, Bethel, Kas., and Al Collins, Kansas City, turned in cards of 153 and battled an extra hole to decide the two qualifiers.

Espinosa and Collins were the survivors. Espinosa scored a birdie three on the extra hole, dropping in an 8 foot putt, while Collins duplicated Abe's 3, sinking a 15 footer to join the select circle. With the exception of Filmore, who drove out of bounds, the others had 4s.

In addition to Smith and Espinosa, three other Illinois sectional qualifiers made the grade today. They are Frank Walsh, Bryn Mawr Country club, Chicago 150; George Smith, Lake Forest, and Gunnar Nelson, Rockford, 152.

Dutra on His Game.

Dutra, right at home in the high wind, was on his game from the outset. The Santa Monica professional covered the first nine in par 36 and came back on the homeward nine with a 35.

After luncheon Olin began to make life miserable for King Par, and when the half way mark of the afternoon round had been reached Dutra had

Baer, Schaaf Open Stadium's Fall Boxing Season Tonight

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The second flight tournament in the current heavyweight elimination gets under way tonight at the Chicago Stadium where Max Baer, from the Pacific coast, meets Ernie Schaaf, who comes from the Atlantic coast. The winner will be prepared to challenge the present champion, Jack Sharkey, but probably will be content to meet the victor of the first flight heavyweight contest which is scheduled next month at New York between Max Schmeling and Mickey Walker.

At no time since the days of Tex Rickard has the heavyweight situation been more out of control. From King Sharkey, who holds his title by virtue of the more or less disputed decision over Schmeling, down through the four previously mentioned fighters, each has a lot to live down. The affair in the east involves Walker, who after smearing Sharkey's record with a 15 round draw, fooled around until he lost a decision to the old baker boy of Cleveland, Johnny Risko.

Schaaf Can Look Good.

Tonight's battle at the Stadium may serve to clear the records of Ernie Schaaf. Ernie, under the same management as Jack Sharkey, which precludes his chances at the title as long as Jack holds it, has fought like a champion on occasion, and on others as if he had no conception of what it was all about. Schaaf's most impressive showing in Chicago was his ten round decision over Willie Stribling, during which he all but knocked out the one time pride of Dixie.

On another appearance at the Stadium Schaaf outpointed Tuffy Griffith, but by such a slight margin that Tuffy's west side friends deemed it their privilege to hoot the decision for ten minutes. To wind up his most recent campaign Ernie was licked by Stanley Poreda, which was as surprising as Risko's conquest of Walker.

Baer's claim to recognition as a heavyweight has been created for the most part on the west coast. His most important bout in the east was against this same Ernie Schaaf in December, 1930, when he lost the decision in ten rounds. Since then Baer's most notable achievements have been two victories over King Levinsky, the first in New York in ten rounds and the second this summer at Reno, Nev., in double that distance.

RIVALS

ERNIE SCHAAF. MAX BAER.

It's Up To Ernie.

Fortunately, comparisons mean nothing or next to that in tonight's bout. The fight may be the best Chicago has seen since the well remembered title scrap at Soldiers' field five years ago, or it may be a mediocre boxing match.

Baer has lent a certain mystery to the match in that he has trained at Aurora, far enough removed from the loop to prevent mass observation of his condition or ability. Most of the fans must be satisfied with his declaration that he is ready to whip Schaaf and whip him decisively. The rebuttal argument is up to Ernie.

The Stadium announces that tonight's fight opens the fall season. By this reasoning the recent championship battle between Eddie Shea and Kid Chocolate was a summer presentation only. Then, too, heavyweight

In the Wake of the News

POT POURRI.

REDUCTION of general admission to $1, slicing two bits off the railroad fare, and installation of the daily double at Lincoln Fields race track are palpably bids for public patronage.

The Wake attaches no criticism to that, even to the daily double which has not before been recognized at the larger Chicago tracks. Certainly reduced admission fees, a policy which Arlington Park espoused, is in line with the times. In fact, as far ago as last spring we suggested that track admission fees for the privilege of losing your money to improve the breed of thoroughbreds were a bit steep, all things considered.

Racing, along with boxing, has suffered more in the depression than baseball, although minor leagues have been cracking and few major clubs will show impressive black figures. That is because it takes more money to attend the races with their speculative attraction or to bring ducats for supposedly high grade fistic entertainment.

Col. Winn, major domo of Lincoln Fields, is an experienced race track operator with a practitioner's finger on the public pulse. So he is tempering the wind to the stock market-shorn lamb. That indicates wisdom.

University of Chicago likewise has made a radical move in reducing prices for its football games. Six home games for a $5 season ticket is unprecedented so far as the public is concerned. Of course, students at most colleges and universities are privileged to buy yearly books good for all sports at prices of from $6 to $10. Heretofore Old John Public, however, has paid $2 to $4 per seat for each football game—when he could get tickets.

Perhaps some will say it's not worth more than $5 to see six Maroon football games. In reply, we'll answer there have been seasons when one should have been paid to watch Maroon gridiron squads. But there's one thing—whether outclassed or not by the opposition—those Maroons are out there trying, often against hopeless odds. If the prospects really are improving, as current reports have it, it will be a great relief to those of us who feel it a duty or an assignment to visit the Midway once or twice each fall.

Player Limit.

Tomorrow the prescribed major league player limit of 23 active players comes to an end in favor of the 40 limit for the remainder of the season. Therefore we may expect to find teams, out of the pennant fight, experimenting to some extent with prospects for next season. The Cubs, still in front and going strong, are not likely to try out any new material until the flag is stored away beyond doubt from a mathematical basis.

SOX CAN SUBDUE YANKS, BUT NOT GEHRIG; LOSE, 6-5

Lou's 2 Homers Produce Five Runs.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Paul Gregory, one of the freshman members of the White Sox baseball school, would have been graduated cum laude today if Lou Gehrig the larruper hadn't shown up at Yankee stadium. The tall southerner made the impending champions eat out of his glove—that is, all of them except Gehrig, who refused to be satisfied with anything less than homers Nos. 30 and 31. The homers were directly responsible for five runs, so the Chicagoans closed their last eastern tour with a 6 to 5 defeat. It was the 15th time the Yanks have whipped the Sox in 19 attempts this season.

It would have been just too bad for Johnny Allen's record, now nine in a row for a total of 15 victories against two setbacks, if Gehrig had been sick. The Sox thumped Allen consistently, getting their first run in the opening inning. But in the third Gehrig tried to put Allen on easy street with an almost record homer with two men on base. An instant later Tony Lazzeri hit one. Then the Sox bore down and finally tied it up when Red Kress unfolded a homer in the sixth. And in the eighth they actually went ahead by a run, but in a few more minutes Gehrig collected No. 2 for the day with one on.

Attack Falls Short.

The Sox didn't go as far as they might have with a little revolt against Allen in the first inning. They uncorked a pair of singles and a double, but only one run scored.

The Yank third didn't start as if it was going to end disastrously. Allen fanned, Combs singled to center and Sewell lined into Appling's hands for the second out. Ruth walked. This proved to be disastrous. Gehrig then hammered the ball over a 429 foot sign on the right center, field bleacher fence. A moment later Lazzeri lined to center. The ball hopped over Funk and Tony got credit for a home run.

Three more Sox hits in the fourth produced two runs. Sullivan, Appling, and Selph singled, Sullivan scoring and Appling taking third on Selph's hit. Kress fanned and Berry grounded into a force out at second, permitting Appling to score. Then with two out in the sixth Kress tied the score at 4 to 4 by hitting his home run into the left field grandstand.

And Up Comes Gehrig.

Sullivan's single to left started the run that put the Sox ahead in the eighth. Appling flied out, but Selph doubled to left, putting Sullivan on third. Kress was purposely passed and Fothergill was sent up to bat for Berry. He flied to Ruth, Sullivan scoring after the catch.

Gregory then encountered bad news. He fanned Combs to start the eighth and nailed Sewell on a fly to center before the storm burst. Ruth walked. Gehrig, after spurning one pitch, drove the next one half way back into the right field bleacher for homer No. 31, scoring the tying and winning runs.

The Sox didn't quit without giving Allen and his pals a real scare. Hayes dumped a looping double close to the line in left field. He was nailed trying to reach third on Seeds' grounder to Lary. Sullivan caromed a single off Allen's shin and Appling drilled one into deep short. Lary flagged it and, with a hurried throw, beat Sullivan to second for the final play.

HITTING 'EM ON THE NOSE AGAIN

Kiki Cuyler connects with another one. Slowed up by a broken leg early in the season, the Cubs' veteran right fielder has regained his old form in the last few days and is contributing more than his share to the team's pennant drive. He hit his third home run in three days yesterday and stole a base with all of his old time speed. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

FERRELL DRAWS SUSPENSION FOR INSUBORDINATION

Boston, Mass., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Wesley Ferrell, who in each of his first four years in the majors had won twenty or more games for Cleveland, today was suspended for ten days by Manager Roger Peckinpaugh on a charge of insubordination.

The suspension will cost Ferrell, the highest paid player on the Cleveland team, about $1,500 in salary.

Peckinpaugh's ire was aroused when his pitching ace objected to leaving the mound in the first inning of today's game with Boston after being waved out. Ferrell had been touched for three hits and yielded a walk, but when Peckinpaugh ordered him aside he balked and kicked up dust.

Reports from Cleveland recently have been that Ferrell, who, though he already has won twenty games this year, has failed to win from the strong eastern teams Cleveland most wanted to beat, would be traded next year.

Pie Traynor Gets His 2,000th Hit in Majors

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Pie Traynor, captain and third baseman of the Pittsburgh Pirates, rapped out a double in the second game of today's double header with the Boston Braves, registering his 2,000th hit since he became a major leaguer. Pie has been in the National league 11 full seasons and part of two others. He has played 1,586 games; been at bat 6,198 times, has scored 998 runs, and has hit 2,001 times for a percentage of .323.

11 IN ROW BEST WINNING STREAK IN BIG LEAGUES

Cuyler Hits 3d Homer of Giant Series.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Cubs yesterday increased their winning streak to eleven straight to set a new major league high run mark for the year when they beat the Giants for the fourth straight in the series, 4 to 3. Despite the victory the Cubs' lead in the pennant race was reduced to 7½ games, for Pittsburgh won a double header.

The game was something apart from other late finishes, which were characterized by slap-bang attacks, as witness the fact the Giants tied the score in the eighth on no hits and one error and the Cubs won in the ninth without either hit or error.

The contest was not without its thrills for the 22,000 customers, however, this matter having been attended to by Kiki Cuyler with his seventh homer of the year and his third in the Giants series.

A nice scoreless pitching battle had been conducted by Charley Root and Carl Hubbell for five innings, but Mel Ott upset the goose egg balance when he hit his 29th homer with none on in the sixth. In the seventh the Giants made the score 2 to 0.

Cubs Break Loose.

Three runs in the seventh put the Cubs ahead. Koenig was hit by a pitched ball and Hartnett, batting for Root, walked on four pitches. Hack ran for Hartnett and the two runners moved up on Herman's sacrifice. Woody English flied to Lindstrom and Koenig scored, but the Cubs still needed a run to tie. Cuyler then came up and drove his homer over the left field wall to make the score 3 to 2 in favor of the Cubs.

Stephenson followed with a single to center, whereupon Wandering Waite Hoyt came in, eventually to absorb his second licking of the series. Hoyt threw out John Moore to end the inning, however.

Generosity overtook the Cubs in the eighth and the Giants tied the score, Jakie May, who relieved Root, got the first man out and then walked the next two batters. And before the inning was over Hemsley had thrown the ball away to let Terry score the tying run, which, in a way, was a break for Guy Bush, who replaced May, for the game thus became his to win or lose.

Warneke Pitches Today.

And as it turned out Bush was the winning pitcher, hanging up No. 16 to press Lon Warneke a little more when the latter goes after No. 20 in the final with the Giants this afternoon.

Bush got through the ninth with little annoyance other than that occasioned when Herman and Cuyler each quit in deference to the other on an easy pop fly by G. English.

Came the last of the ninth and the winning run though it was tainted a bit, just as the Giants' tying tally. Hoyt hit Herman with a pitched ball and walked English and Cuyler, filling the bases. Stephenson then sent a grounder to Critz, who had a chance for a double play through the plate, but Hughie fumbled. He recovered in time to go through the formality of tossing to Terry for the putout and save himself an error, Herman scoring with the winning run.

There was some activity on the base lines in the first inning though neither side came close to scoring. Joe Moore opened the game with a single to center, but went down with Critz in a double play, Koenig to Herman to Grimm. Terry flied to Demaree. In the Cubs' half, Cuyler beat out a slow roller to Critz and stole second, after which Stephenson walked. Then Demaree fouled to Hogan.

Hemsley Catches 3 Fouls.

In the second inning Ott, Lindstrom and Hogan fouled to Hemsley. In the Cub half Koenig beat out a bunt with two down, but Root was called out on strikes.

Two singles failed to get a runner

PAIRBYPAIR 1ST, BUT THAT ISN'T HALF THE STORY

Disqualification, Odd Ride on Hawthorne Card.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Pairbypair, the fleet son of Noah, carried Mrs. John Hertz's racing jacket to victory in the Garden City handicap during the most exciting racing day of the season at Hawthorne yesterday.

There was a disqualification during the afternoon, a ride by Jockey Charley Allen on the beaten 2 to 5 shot, Indian Runner, which incensed the spectators, and other happenings which kept the biggest week day crowd of the season in a turmoil.

Pairbypair upset a lot of heavily backed horses when he went galloping home in front. Indian Runner broke nearly everybody in the gathering when he faltered in the last stride, and Sobieha had also been made the medium of a plunge just before she dashed home in front, only to be disqualified a few seconds later.

Easy for Pairbypair.

Pairbypair was taking the worst insofar as the weights were concerned in the Garden City handicap. But after he leaped to the front soon after the start came and was rushed out into a lead of two lengths by Jockey Steffen he never left the result in doubt.

After winging it around in front all the way he wound up by beating the fleet Supreme Sweet by three lengths. Polydorus closed much ground and was third.

The Hertz colt ran the six furlongs in 1:13 2-5 and the track was dull. The boys who stormed the pari-mutuel windows didn't give him much of a tumble, so he paid $13.44 to win, $6.78 to place, and $4.88 to show. Supreme Sweet was also an outsider in the wagering.

Indian Runner Just a Bust.

There have been few incidents in Chicago racing that have excited a crowd more than Indian Runner's defeat. Half way down the stretch he was three lengths in front and apparently running in easy stride. Then Kibitzer popped out of the pack behind him and began to gain rapidly.

With twenty strides to go Indian Runner still appeared to have the race at his mercy. Then he began to lunge in toward the rail. He began to run sideways and Kibitzer passed him to win. The crowd thought Allen was pulling him. Maybe he was, but the stewards thought differently.

It all happened thirty feet from the stewards' stand directly beneath the gaze of the officials. They issued a statement to the effect that Allen should not be blamed and that the jockey did all that he could to keep the horse running straight.

This didn't satisfy the crowd and when Allen appeared on Brown Wisdom in the parade to the post thirty minutes later the crowd all the way up and down the rail, from the paddock to the clubhouse turn, gave him a rousing Bronx cheer.

Kibitzer Pays $56.66.

Kibitzer had been a long shot, had tried and failed many times here this season, so he paid $56.66 in the two dollar market.

Even Sobieha's noisiest rooter didn't complain about her disqualification in the second race. All the way down the stretch Jockey Chidney brought her out from the rail and each move landed directly in front of Blackstrap, which was trying to move past her. So the jockey was suspended, the horse was disqualified, and Blackstrap declared the winner.

Old Pigeon Hole rolled up his sixth straight victory during the afternoon when he won the third race at a mile and a sixteenth.

He let Jack Collins, Chesney and William T. outrun him in the early stages, but began to move up like a stake champion on the turn into the stretch. He leaped out into a lead of three lengths a furlong out and ran away from his rivals in the final stages. Culloden got up to be second and Old Depot, which was all but left at the post, ran third. He might have made it interesting for Pigeon Hole with a better start.

P. G. A. Will Expel Players Selling Tourney Places

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Golfers who buy or sell qualifying places in the Professional Golfers' association tournament will be expelled from membership for life, President Charles Hall, Birmingham, Ala., ruled today.

Halls' action followed a report in the Michigan district that a berth had been placed on the auction block. Hall said he investigated and failed to find any truth in the rumors. He declined to mention the name of the player reported to have attempted to sell his place in the tournament proper.

Lincoln Fields Makes Bradley Race Steward

Thomas C. Bradley yesterday was named an associate steward for the Lincoln Fields meeting. He succeeds Martin Nathanson, who resigned. Mr. Bradley, steward at all the Kentucky tracks, hails from Lexington, Ky. Mr. Nathanson said yesterday he had quit his Lincoln Fields and Aurora posts to take a rest before he takes his place in the steward's stand for the long winter meeting at Agua Caliente.

Morris Vehon's Aladdin's Dream, a 2 year old son of Crusader, proved a great stretch runner when he won the opening race yesterday. Jockey Steffen brought him out in the middle of the track and he flew past the leaders as if they were standing still. There had been quite a plunge on him, but he paid $6.96.

Col. Matt J. Winn made an inspection trip of the Lincoln Fields property yesterday and was satisfied that everything will be ready for the opening of the season on Saturday. Stalls have been bedded down for more than 1,200 horses, most of which will be at the track on Friday night.

Pigeon Hole, which won his sixth straight yesterday, has a new mascot to keep him company in his stall. It is a small monkey which his trainer, J. A. Connor purchased from a west side organ grinder who tried to beat the races and couldn't.

O. L. Foster, owner and trainer, and Jockey Charley Allen, who rides Foster's horses, were the victims of a holdup gang when they returned to their apartment at Mayfield and Madison streets after Monday's Hawthorne races.

Foster arrived first but didn't have more than a couple of dollars in change. He was backed up against the wall at the point of a gun and the bandits began a vigil. They would wait for Allen.

He arrived about an hour later. He had just collected his week's jockey fees of $270, and the robbers relieved him of it. They didn't harm either the owner or the jockey.

Aurora yesterday added another prominent racing official to the list of its racing chiefs. Dr. Fred Ansche, former racing secretary and steward at Havana, will be in the stand as associate steward with Presiding Judge Sam C. Nuckols when the meeting of thirteen days or more opens on Saturday. Judge Nuckols and Dr. Ansche are expected to arrive at Aurora tomorrow to complete whatever details are left for the opening day.

NEW ORLEANS IS VICTOR LEGION SERIES OPENER

Manchester, N. H., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Pitcher Joe Graffagnini won his own game today as New Orleans rallied to defeat Springfield, Mass., 3 to 2, in the opening game of the Junior American Legion "Little World Series."

The Louisiana team, western champions, came to bat in the last of the ninth with Springfield leading 2 to 0. Ingolia, pinch hitting, singled to center and advanced on a single by Mounes. Diaz forced Mounes, but Ingolia scored on Constancy's drive to left. Fraiche filed out and then Graffagnini drove a double to center that scored two runs and ended the game.

Kilbourne Scores K. O. Over Task in 2d Round

Wilmington, Del., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Jack Kilbourne, Chicago middleweight, knocked out Billy Task, New York National Guard champion, in the second round of an eight round bout tonight. Jack had Task on the canvas twice for counts of eight and seven before putting over the finishing punch, a left hook to the chin.

Sands Point Polo Team Ends Drill for Open

Manhasset, L. I., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Sands Point finished its preparation for the open polo championship tournament with an impressive display of power and team play on John Hay Whitney's Greentree field today, turning back Greentree, 17 to 9. Sands Point won only after playing the finest sort of polo.

Fields Returns to Chicago for Eye Treatment

Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, yesterday returned from California where he was to defend his title against Young Corbett Aug. 27. A recurrence of an eye injury caused a definite postponement of the Corbett match, which was scheduled at San Francisco. Fields will remain here to receive treatment from Dr. Harry S. Gradle until the ailment is cured.

Gorilla Jones, former middleweight champion, passed through the loop yesterday en route to Akron, O. He won from Kid Leonard at Davenport, Ia., Monday. Jones clashes with Tommy Freeman, former welterweight titleholder, at Cleveland, O., next week.

Routier Parra, flyweight, and Luis Angel Rodriguez, lightweight, champions of South America, reached Chicago yes

PIRATES DEFEAT BRAVES TWICE FOR 4TH IN ROW

Rally in 8th Wins First, 10-7; Take Second, 3-2

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Boston's Braves lost a doubleheader to the Pirates today, 10 to 7 and 3 to 2. The victories gave the Pirates four straight.

Misfortune helped rout the Braves, Knothe suffering injury to his right leg while trying to steal second in the fifth inning. He was carried from the field and removed to a hospital for an X-ray examination.

The Pirates came from behind to score five runs in the eighth to take the opener after both of the starting pitchers, Bobby Brown of the Braves and Heinie Meine of the Pirates, had been routed.

HOCKEY LEAGUES AGREE ON PLAN FOR MERGER

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—The National and American hockey leagues have reached a working agreement, President Frank Calder of the National league announced today after an officials' meeting. The plan adopted by the officials will be submitted to owners of both leagues for approval.

"We have been seeking a plan whereby the American league can be restored to a working agreement with the National league and we believe we have found the way," said Calder.

Thomas Shaughnessy and James Norris, owners of the Chicago American league club, who recently assumed control of the Detroit National league club, were present. Others at the meeting were William Grant, president of the American league, and Arthur Pfiddederer, receiver for the Detroit club.

Calder refused to announce the terms of the tentative agreement. The club owners of both leagues will be canvassed within 48 hours, he said.

Release Joe Walcott from Bellevue Hospital

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Joe Walcott, former world's welterweight champion, was discharged from Bellevue hospital today. The 60 year old Negro was taken to the hospital nine days ago after he had been taken ill while living in an unlighted cellar in 59th street. He is suffering from a chronic heart condition.

DICK TRACY—Down the Hillside

Foxx's 48th Homer Beats Tigers, 6 to 4

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 30.—(AP)—Jimmy Foxx's 48th home run of the season broke a tie today, gave the Athletics a 6 to 4 victory over the Detroit Tigers, and provided Lefty Grove with his 21st victory of the year. The score was tied, 3 to 3, in the seventh inning when Foxx's wallop sent Cochrane in ahead of him.

Gehringer accounted for one of the Tiger scores with a home run over the right field fence in the fourth inning. Score:

The Kansas City Monarchs, national colored champions, will invade Mills stadium Sunday for four games. Two are to be played Sunday, one Monday afternoon and one Monday night.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

It must give the White Sox business office considerable satisfaction to read the complimentary lines being printed these days about Mark Koenig, the Cubs' new shortstop, whose individual exploits have had much to do with the team's sensational victory march.

The White Sox could have had Koenig. They had two chances to sign him, but apparently they didn't think he was good enough for south side competition.

Koenig at the start of this season was attached to the Detroit Tigers. His eyesight was reported to be failing and the Tigers asked for waivers. The Sox, because they finished last in the 1931 race, had first claim. They passed him up. So did the other teams in the league, and he landed with the San Francisco Missions.

They play night baseball in the coast league, and few thought that Koenig, the blind man, could see the ball in the moonlight. But he demonstrated that his sight was not entirely gone. He fielded brilliantly and soon was hitting at a .370 pace.

Meanwhile the Cubs, who were just getting the notion that they were the best team in the National league, began to worry about the reserve strength of their infield. Jurges, regular shortstop, had become so prominent socially that it looked for a time his services to the team would be impaired.

Bill Veeck, president of the club, called in Jack Doyle, a scout, and told him the club needed another shortstop. Doyle recommended Koenig. A few days later he was in a Cub uniform. He hit the first ball thrown to him in the National league for a single, and he has been busting 'em ever since. His average since joining the club has been .405.

Where were the Sox scouts when Koenig was making his comeback in the coast league?

One of the changes in the 1932 football rules, designed to lessen chances of injury, will fail of its objective, in the opinion of Noble Kizer, coach of the Purdue eleven, which last year shared the Big Ten championship with Northwestern.

Under the new provision of rule 7 the ball becomes automatically dead when any part of the body of the player in possession of it, except hands or feet, touches the ground.

The intent of the rules makers was to eliminate piling on after a player had been downed. This was said to have been responsible for several of the fatal injuries incurred by college players last season.

"No aggressive ball carrier is going to stop because he has slipped to his knee or in any other way touched the ground," Kizer said. "There always is the possibility that the officials will not be in position to see the play. If a runner has a fighting heart he will get up and try to carry on.

"Coaches realize this and they certainly will not encourage men on defense to relax after an opposing runner has touched the ground."

Maj. Philip Fleming, athletic director at West Point, who has been visiting in Chicago, looks for no decrease in attendance at the big eastern football games this fall.

"There will be no reduction in prices to the Army's major contests," he said. "The demand for tickets to the Notre Dame game could fall off 50 per cent and we still would be unable to fill all ticket applications. We usually have in excess of 200,000 requests for seats to this game," the major stated.

The West Point leader predicted there would be another charity game with the Navy after the regular schedule had been completed.

Let Yanks Win 100 Games; 85 Victories Will Suit Cubs

The New York Yankees are reported to be bearing down with determination to win more than 100 games—a little whimsy of pride that will have no part in the Cubs' ambitions. The Cubs will be very happy to accept the National league pennant on fewer wins than ever before marked up by a major league champion in a 154 game schedule.

The St. Louis Cardinals won the National league pennant in 1926 with 89 victories and carried on to a world championship. The Cubs are a cinch to win if they fall several under this old time low. In 1929 the Cubs won 98 games and finished with a ten game edge over the Pirates and lost the world series, 4 games to 1. This year they will settle for ten or more fewer games and not be the least timid on that account, come world series time.

Why Crimp Turnstiles?

Last year the Cardinals won the pennant with 101 games and didn't have half as much fun as the Cubs will have had if they win on 85 victories. And, moreover, those 101 Cardinal victories crimped the turnstiles in every National league park, for they climaxed a tame race that extended over the entire season.

If the Cubs do tie their 1929 mark, though, they will have to win 24 games while losing five. If they tie the Cardinals' last year mark they will have to win 27 out of their remaining 29 games. T'ell with the Cards' 1931 mark!

In 1929, as in this season to date, the Pirates were the only team to beat the Cubs in the season series. That year the Pirates licked the Cubs 13 games to 9. So far this season the standing is 10 victories for the Pirates to 8 for the Cubs.

The following table shows how the Cubs have battled the other teams of the league this year, as compared to 1929:

	1929 W.	1929 L.	1932 [to date] W.	1932 L.	Games remaining '32.
Cubs vs. Giants	12	10	12	5	5
Cubs vs. Cardinals	15	*5	9	9	4
Cubs vs. Pirates	9	13	8	10	4
Cubs vs. Dodgers	16	6	10	9	3
Cubs vs. Phils	17	5	14	5	3
Cubs vs. Braves	15	7	12	5	5
Cubs vs. Reds	14	8	9	8	5

*Cubs and Cards did not play out schedule in 1929.

Dodgers Not Such Good Cousins.

The foregoing table reveals the Dodgers, good old cousins in 1929, had a great deal to do with the fact that the Cubs will fall below their 1929 record of 98 wins. Even if the Cubs sweep the remaining three games the Dodgers still will owe them three on the comparison of the two years.

And the Cardinals. If the Cubs sweep their impending series with the Cards—and that's a big ticket—the ratio will be 12 games to 9, which is by no means as plump as 15 to 5, the tabulation in 1929.

The Reds should wind up the season the same kind of pals they were in 1929, but that won't square them for those seven straight they walloped the Cubs in 1930, when the Cubs finished in second place by a margin of two games.

The Giants, of course, have been better benefactors than ever before and the Phils and Braves will finish about the same as in 1929 insofar as Cub relations are concerned.

Sox Rush Home to Rest Before Facing Browns

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—The White Sox hopped a fast train early this evening and are due in Chicago tomorrow afternoon. They'll be idle until they open a series at St. Louis on Friday.

The Yanks certainly didn't let any grass grow under their feet while the western clubs were visiting the stadium. Joe McCarthy's coming champions won 15 while losing three. That's about the reverse of what the Sox did during their travels. They won one game in each of the four cities and lost 13.

Billy Sullivan hit the Yankee pitchers as consistently as he thumped those at Washington, Philadelphia, and Boston. In the five games here he was up 21 times and produced 10 hits.

Including a game thrown out because of a protest, the Yanks now have gone 130 games without being shut out. This exceeds their 1927 record, when they dodged whitewash for 128 consecutive games before Lefty Grove blanked them.

OUIMET BACK ON LINKS; SHOOTS 74 IN PRACTICE

Brookline, Mass., Aug. 30.—[Special.]—Showing no ill effects from his recent illness, Francis Ouimet, captain of America's Walker cup team against Britain here Thursday and Friday, played the local course in 74 strokes today.

Ouimet played with Jack Westland of Chicago, whom Francis defeated in the final round for the national amateur title last year, and they scored an unofficial 3 and 1 victory over Gus Moreland of Dallas, Tex., and Billy Howell of Richmond, Va.

It was Ouimet's first test since playing a 36-hole match against Gene Sarazen last week.

Cubs Make It 11 in Row; Set Season Record

past second in the Giants' third. Marshall pushed off with a hit to center. G. English popped to Koenig in short center and Hubbell forced Marshall. Joe Moore knocked his second single, this one to left, and Hubbell stopped at second. Critz lined to Cuyler.

Herman led off the Cubs' third with a single to left, but nice stops by Critz and Marshall on Woody English and Cuyler and Joe Moore's catch of Stephenson's liner thwarted scoring enterprise.

Both managers doubled in the fourth, but their hired help couldn't advance them. Terry led off with a two bagger to left center. Ott and Lindstrom flied out, Hogan was given an intentional pass and Marshall lined to Herman. In the Chicago half, Grimm doubled to right with one down, but Hemsley fouled to Hogan and Marshall threw out Koenig.

Both pitchers singled in the fifth, but like their managers in the preceding inning, got no aid from their associates.

Production got under way early in the sixth. Cuyler backed up for Terry's long fly. Then Ott knocked the ball over the screen at the south end of the right field bleachers for homer No. 29. Lindstrom was safe on Woody English's fumble, but Hogan hit into a double play, Koenig to Herman to Grimm. The Cubs were held to a harmless single by Demaree in their end of the sixth.

Giants Score Run No. 2.

The Giants' second run came in the seventh. Marshall opened with a single to center and went to third on G. English's single to the same field. English, however, was out trying to reach second when Koenig cut off Demaree's throw to third and got the ball to Herman for the putout. Hubbell sent a long fly to Demaree and Marshall scored after the catch. Joe Moore flied to Demaree.

After the Cubs had grabbed a 3 to 2 lead in the manner heretofore recited, the Giants got busy and tied the score without the aid of a hit in the eighth, doing so in the following fashion: With May pitching, Critz flied to Cuyler. Then Terry and Ott walked on nine pitches after which Jakie was excused.

Bush came in and Lindstrom ran the count to three balls and two strikes and then fanned. As he did so, Terry and Ott worked the double steal and when Hemsley threw past English at third Terry came home with the tying run. Hogan was given a more or less intentional pass and Allen ran for him. Then Marshall forced Allen.

GIANT FINAL TODAY

Freddie Fitzsimmons, who pitched the first game of the current series between the Cubs and the Giants, probably will try to stop Lon Warneke and the Cubs today.

The Cubs by winning today and taking the opener from the Cardinals Friday can tie their big winning streak of 13 straight, set in May, 1923. In winning yesterday the Cubs topped the major league high run of ten for the season set by the Yankees.

The thinning ranks of wolves had their first real chance to second guess Manager Grimm yesterday when he sent in Jakie May in the eighth. Charley wasn't stubborn, however, and when Jake walked Terry and Ott on nine pitches out he came.

Koenig's arm was bruised by one of Hubbell's pitches in the seventh and he retired after scoring the Cubs' first run.

New York, Aug. 30.—Ignoring more favorable news, railroad bonds were irregularly lower today on a small volume of sales. The general market occupied a waiting position pending news developments which may shape its future course.

Losses ranged from fractions to more than a point in the majority of carrier liens. However, Nickel Plate 6s rallied more than 4 points at one time, while Frisco issues were steady to firm.

Firmness in Frisco bonds reflected today's report that the road has obtained a loan of $1,000,000 from the Railroad Credit corporation, which will take care of its needs for the remainder of the year. The bonds were also aided by assertions of the management that reorganization would be accomplished without resort to the courts.

MORGAN GROUP ASKS BOND DEPOSIT FOR TRANSIT REVAMPING

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—The protective committee, of which J. P. Morgan is chairman, issued today a call for the deposit with it of the $132,000,000 in outstanding 5 per cent Interborough Rapid Transit company bonds, as the first step toward consolidating the position of Interborough security holders in the legal battles that the company's receivership may bring.

The impression has grown in transit circles in the last few days, in the face of silence on the part of the bankers, and officials of the Manhattan Railway company, that back of the receivership is a determination to put the Interborough on a basis that will insure its financial stability in view of the competition of the city's new Eighth-avenue subway, scheduled to open soon.

A. M. Byers.

I would appreciate information on A. M. Byers.—P. P. B.

A. M. Byers company is one of the oldest and largest manufacturers of wrought iron pipe in the United States. Its product, because of high corrosive resisting qualities, is used mainly in the transportation of water with a high chemical content. The company competes with manufacturers of lower priced steel pipe and of copper, brass and cast iron pipe.

Sales have dropped steadily since the 1926 fiscal year, and net income has declined since the 1929 fiscal year. The dearth of building and competition of steel pipe are the primary factors in the unfavorable trend.

Net loss for the nine months to June 30, 1932, was $571,000, against net income of $107,000, equal to only $1.89 per preferred share, for the corresponding period of the preceding fiscal year.

Sales for the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, 1931, were $4,978,000, and net income was $82,000, equal to only $1.44 per preferred share. For the preceding year sales were $8,013,000 and net income was $1,134,000, or $2.79 per common share. Net income for the 1929 fiscal year was $1,977,000.

On Sept. 30, 1931, current assets were $4,137,000, and current liabilities were $251,000. Working capital was $3,886,000, against $5,545,000 the year before.

The company has no funded debt. There are outstanding 56,744 shares of 7 per cent, cumulative preferred [par $100] and 262,135 shares of no par common. Dividends are being paid on the preferred, but nothing is being paid on the common.

The preferred is medium grade and the common is speculative.

Iowa Electric Light and Power.

Kindly give me a rating on Iowa Electric Light and Power first 7s, due 1942.—Mrs. H. P. M.

Iowa Electric Light and Power company operates in Iowa. It furnishes electricity to more than 125 communities, operates a 28 mile electric railroad and furnishes gas to ten communities.

Gross revenues for the year ended June 30, 1932, were $4,982,000, against $5,335,000 for the preceding year and $5,417,000 for the June 30, 1930, year. Net before depreciation and interest was $2,577,000 for the year ended June 30, 1932, $2,634,000 for the June 30, 1931, year, and $2,551,000 for the preceding year.

After deduction of $457,000 for depreciation in the twelve months to June 30, 1932, charges on total funded debt to be outstanding were covered 2.58 times.

The $6,000,000 first 7s, series C, due 1942, are equally secured with $4,000,000 5½s, due 1945, and $3,600,000 5s, due 1946, by a first mortgage on all assets of the company. All issues are reasonably sound.

BRIGHT SPOTS IN THE DAY'S BUSINESS NEWS

W. S. Knudson, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor company, stated that on the basis of dealer reports of sales for the first twenty days of August, this month, normally the dullest summer season, shows promise of exceeding July by a comfortable margin. Up to Aug. 20 sales for the month were reported at 17,138 units, compared with 14,698 in the like period of July, a gain of 16 per cent. Mr. Knudson added that for the last several years, July sales had consistently run ahead of those for August. Some sections of the country reported an increase to Aug. 20 over the same period a year ago, the first time that such reports have come in since early in spring.

C. W. Matheson, sales manager of the Graham Paige Motors corporation, said that in the first twenty-three days of August his company had enjoyed a decided upturn in sales. Shipping orders to and including Aug. 23 were 62 per cent over those in the corresponding period of July and 35 per cent greater than for the like period a year ago.

Retail deliveries reported by distributors and dealers for the first three weeks in August exceeded total deliveries for the full month of July.

The Standard-Coosa-Thatcher company of Chattanooga, large producers of cotton yarns, will have a normal force of 2,300 persons back at work within a month, Thomas H. McKinney, vice president, said yesterday. The company started a gradual program of putting men back at work last week as a result of improved conditions. The company operates six plants.

The Turner Falls, Mass., plant of the International Paper company, which has been closed since March will resume operations on full time after Labor day.

Rubens & Marble, Inc., manufacturers of underwear for infants, are now operating on full time. Employing 300 operators with daily production of 25,000 garments, according to H. S. Rubens, president.

Dealers in canned goods say there has been a noticeable improvement in buying based on the rise in commodity prices. No one item is in particular demand, but the volume of miscellaneous business has increased, according to trade reports.

Flour prices have been marked up about 15 cents a barrel this week, in sympathy with strength in cash wheat markets, but buying has not improved materially, according to some mill agents.

About 1,000 men will return to work Thursday at main repair shops of Baltimore and Ohio.

The H. A. Baker Co., Sioux City, Ia., manufacturers of work clothing, has called back 150 women employés, idle for several months. The company has orders for at least six weeks.

Viscose company is raising prices on all sizes rayon 5 to 10c a pound.

McKesson & Robbins recalled 600 employés and increased operating hours from 3 to 5 days a week at its Bridgeport plant.

GROUP FORMED TO HELP ROADS BUY EQUIPMENT

Manufacturers Act to Get Business.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

While railroad executives yesterday were developing still further their plans to bring about additional wage reductions, the railway equipment manufacturers were making strenuous efforts to build up some business by finding ways to get the railroads to spend money.

In New York the formation of an organization to be known as the Railroad Equipment Finance corporation was reported to be practically completed. This body, it was said, would be the joint protégé of the Reconstruction Finance corportaion and eight or nine of the larger equipment makers.

Its function would be to extend credit to the railroads for the purchase of new equipment. Tentative plans call for loans to the carriers up to 80 per cent of the cost of the equipment. The buying road would pay 10 per cent cash and the remaining 10 per cent in junior equipment certificates.

Roads Cold to Plan.

The railroads themselves have been rather cold to the various proposals for extending them credit to buy equipment. A number of rail executives have pointed out that this would simply be increasing the debt burdens of their roads to buy equipment that they have no need for just now because of the small volume of traffic.

While the steel companies and the equipment manufacturers are trying to find a way to develop business for themselves, the railroads are endeavoring to pare their expenses to keep pace with reduced income.

There is still some division of opinion among railroad executives as to the best means of cutting wages still further. The present agreement between the carriers and the unions expires Feb. 1, 1933. Under it wages are ten per cent lower than last year.

The carriers say that wages will have to come down still more, some are known to favor asking for as much as a 35 or 40 per cent reduction, so that the ultimate compromise will result in a wage level 20 per cent below present rates and 30 per cent below last year's rates.

No Agreement Yet.

No agreement has been reached as yet among the railroad presidents as to what the method of approach shall be. Most of them favor going through the mediation machinery set up by law. A few, however, are understood to favor seeking the voluntary consent of labor leaders, as was done last year under the leadership of President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio.

The Eastern Presidents' conference at a meeting in New York yesterday appointed a committee to consider the subject of wages with similar committees from the western and southern regions.

The committee includes John G. Walber, vice president in charge of personnel of the New York Central; C. W. Galloway, vice president in charge of operations of the Baltimore and Ohio, and H. A. Enochs, acting chief of personnel for the Pennsylvania.

Frisco Gets Loan.

New York, Aug. 30.—The St. Louis-San Francisco railway today received from the Railroad Credit corporation an addtional $1,000,000 loan. That with $2,000,000 which the road will supply from its own treasury, will enable the Frisco to meet its Sept. 1 interest requirements.

Although a petition for a reveiver has been filed against the carrier in St. Louis and the Railroad Credit corporation is not permitted to make loans to roads in receivership or unless the extension of credit will prevent default, the Frisco has "every assurance of receiving financial assistance for Sept. 1 interest requirements and to carry the readjustment plan through," its president said.

Of about $3,000,000 interest due on Thursday, more than $2,000,000 represents the road's semi-annual interest on the $109,866,000 series A consolidated 4½ per cent bonds. With Thursday's interest apparently provided for, the road is not faced with additional interest payments until Jan. 1. The Frisco already has initiated formal action opposing the appointment of a receiver.

Calls Plan Successful.

E. N. Brown, chairman of the board, said the reorganization had been approved by more than a majority of the bond and stock holders.

"The assenting bonds exceed $135,000,000. It has been only about six weeks since the plan was published and the result is especially remarkable," he said. "We anticipate that many bondholders, who have been delaying action until they can be satisfied the plan would be generally approved, will now deposit their bonds."

Time for deposit has been extended to Sept. 26.

Britain Plans to Repay Big Loan on Dec. 1

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—The second treasury announcement within 24 hours, issued this evening, declares that two government issues, totaling 766 million dollars at par, together with interest due, will be repaid Dec. 1. This is the same date on which all unconverted holdings of the 10 billion dollar 5 per cent war loan must be redeemed for cash.

The issues at present involved are a 4¼ per cent war loan amounting to 64 millions and the 4½ per cent treasury bonds totaling 702 millions. Both are subject to redemption on three months' notice. The loan was dated 1925-'45 and the bonds 1932-'34. The loan will bear 6 per cent when repaid and the bonds 4 per cent.

The announcement means that the government proposes to lift four of the treasury's heaviest burdens, at least partially, by the end of the year.

These transactions figured in the minds of treasury officials last night when they announced that until the conversion scheme and other financial turnovers are completed, the government's ban on fresh capital issues would be enforced. It is assumed in financial quarters that the government will borrow to pay off both the unconverted 5 per cent war loan and the issues which it announced tonight it will redeem at the end of this year.

STOCK BROKERS REOPEN OFFICES IN PALMER HOUSE

Believing that the outlook for the security business is considerably brighter, Charles Sincere, head of the New York stock exchange firm of Charles Sincere & Co., yesterday signed a lease for branch office space in the Palmer house. Robert B. Witwer, real estate agent of the Palmer House company, represented all parties.

The transaction is especially significant because this same firm maintained a branch office in the Palmer house from 1927, when the hotel opened, until the lease expired on Dec. 31, 1931. Economic conditions at that time forced them to discontinue this branch. Convinced that conditions are now improving, Mr. Sincere's confidence in the future possibilities is reflected in the execution of the new lease. The firm has main offices at 231 South La Salle street and has been in business for the last three decades.

U. S. Crude Oil Output Grows 3,200 Brls. in Week

New York, Aug. 30. — (AP) — Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 3,200 barrels in the week ended Aug. 27, totaling 2,114,000 barrels, the American Petroleum institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California increased 2,900 barrels to 1,639,600 barrels.

Refineries representing 95.1 per cent of estimated total capacity, operating at 57.5 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,104,100 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries repreting 95.1 per cent of total, operated at 58.1 per cent of capacity, was 2,128,300 barrels.

Daily average of cracked gasoline by refineries representing 95.6 per cent of total charging capacity was 470,600 barrels. Daily average the previous week by refineries representing 95.5 per cent of total was 448,500 barrels.

Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 631,000 barrels against 847,000 barrels.

DEMAND DEPOSITS GAIN $43,000,000 FOR WEEK OF AUG. 24

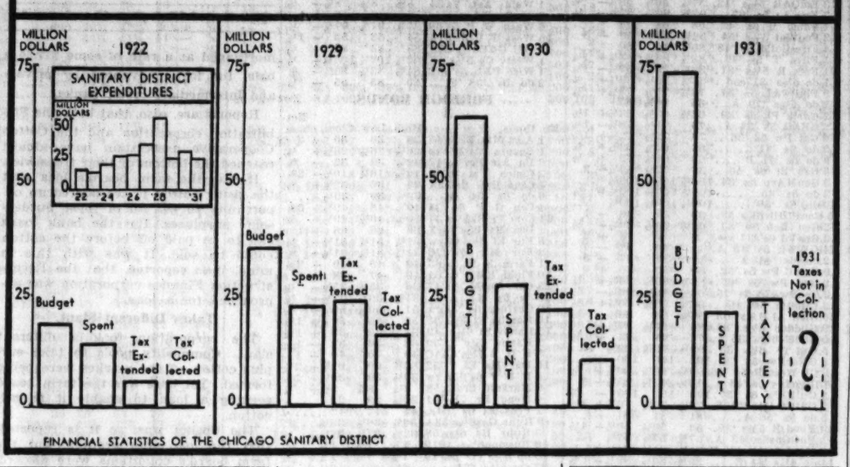
The federal reserve board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in leading cities on Aug. 24 shows decreases for the week of $81,000,000 in loans and investments, $29,000,000 in government deposits and $12,000,000 in borrowings from federal reserve banks, but increases of $43,000,000 in net demand deposits and $65,000,000 in reserve balances with federal reserve banks.

Loans on securities declined $18,000,000 at reporting member banks in the Chicago district, $14,000,000 in the New York district and $35,000,000 at all reporting banks. All other loans declined $19,000,000 in the New York district, $12,000,000 in the Chicago district and $46,000,000 at all reporting banks.

Holdings of United States government securities increased $7,000,000 in the Boston district, and decreased $5,000,000 each in the New York and Richmond district and $8,000,000 at all reporting member banks. Holdings of other securities increased $9,000,000 in the Chicago district, $6,000,000 in the New York district and $8,000,000 at all reporting banks.

Borrowings of weekly reporting member banks from federal reserve banks aggregated $150,000,000 on Aug. 24, the principal change for the week being a decrease of $6,000,000 at the Federal Reserve bank of San Francisco.

Sanitary District Budgets Have Mounted Steadily—Tax Collections Show Little Change



Details of Chart

The enormous increase in the appropriations of the sanitary district, as shown by the budget columns, is due alomst exclusively to a decision of the United States Supreme court. That compelled the district to construct expensive sewage disposal works instead of caring for the sewage by dilution in water extracted from Lake Michigan. At the time of the decision, it was estimated that those works would cost $160,000,000. As the plans were developed, appropriations were made for those plants.

It was planned to obtain the money by bond issues, but the district has been unable to sell bonds at what it considered a reasonable figure. That accounts for the short columns of expenditures and of taxes extended.

The cash could not be obtained, and was therefore not spent on the construction. By the same token no taxes were needed to retire bonds, which could not be sold.

The district like other local governments has suffered a heavy loss in taxes collected.

COPPER PRICES MOVE UP AGAIN ON SLOW TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—An advance of ⅛ cent a pound in domestic copper prices, Connecticut valley basis, was reported here today with deliveries up to the end of 1932 at 5⅝ cents and beyond that at 5¾.

Even at the 5⅝ cents level producers are unwilling to sell in any great quantity and it is said only one source is doing any business at that level, most of the companies holding out for 5¾ cents. Transactions were slow.

While domestic sales were light, foreign buying continued at a brisk pace with prices up slightly at 5.75 and 5.80 cents a pound, c. i. f. European points.

Offers Reorganization Plan for Chicago Artificial Ice

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—Notices were mailed today to holders of the Chicago Artificial Ice company's three year six per cent gold notes and certificates of deposit outlining the basis of exchange for preferred and common stocks. The notices were sent by Howard Morris, chairman of the readjustment committee which has approved the plan and is seeking additional deposits. For each $1,000 note with Nov. 1, 1930, and subsequent coupons attached the holder is to receive five shares of the $6 no par preferred and five shares of the no par common stock. The notes are to be sent to the New York Trust company as depository. Twenty days are given in which depositors may withdraw from the plan.

Holland Furnace Company Omits Common Dividend

The Holland Furnace company yesterday omitted the quarterly dividend of 25 cents on the common stock. At the same time the firm reported a net loss of $248,026 for the 12 months ended June 30, as compared with a net profit of $713,080 in the corresponding period last year. Heating equipment sales are off, but a good volume was reported for air conditioning devices.

The S. S. Kresge company yesterday voted its regular common stock dividend of 25 cents a share. Allied Chemical and Dye corporation authorized the usual dividend of $1.75 on the preferred stock.

HURLEY COMPANY FINDS NOTABLE BUSINESS GAINS

A marked improvement in the market for household utilities is giving electrical washing machine manufacturers their most optimistic viewpoint since 1929, according to a report made by the Hurley Machine company. Edward N. Hurley Jr. heads the machine company and is also president of the American Washing Machine Manufacturers' association. The report finds dealer and consumer buying on the upturn and factories resuming their old time schedules.

"Forty-six distributors in every section of the United States report practically without exception that business conditions have improved in their districts," says the Hurley statement.

Banking Group to Offer Missouri Bond Issue

An issue of $1,000,000 St. Louis county, Mo., 4¼ per cent bonds will be offered by a banking group headed by the Guaranty company of New York and including the Mercantile-Commerce company, Stern Bros. & Co., and the First Wisconsin company. The bonds mature from 1938 to 1952 inclusive and are priced to yield from 4 per cent to 4.10 per cent, according to maturity. Proceeds of the issue will be used for road purposes.

MOTORS OFFICIAL PREDICTS BETTER WORLD BUSINESS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—Growing recognition on the part of America that economic realities must be faced boldly if the depression is to end is regarded as a highly favorable sign by James D. Mooney, vice president of General Motors corporation.

He sailed for Europe on the North German Lloyd liner Bremen early today. He predicted that the Lausanne agreement and the work of the Ottawa trade conference will have a far reaching effect in improving international trade conditions.

P. A. S. Franklin, shipping magnate just back from England, says ocean passenger fares will not be raised this year.

L. O. Head New President of Railway Express Agency

New York, Aug. 30.—(AP)—The board of directors of the Railway Express agency today announced that Robert E. M. Cowie would retire as president on Aug. 31. L. O. Head, vice president at Chicago, was elected to succeed him. Pending Cowie's formal retirement under the pension regulations of the company next February, the directors voted him the honorary post of president, retired. Head will take over the presidency on Sept. 1.

FARM BOARD'S ROW WITH R. F. C. COMES TO LIGHT

Plan for Cotton Loan Airs Trouble.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 30.—A long standing controversy between the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the federal farm board came to the surface today with the revelation that the corporation's approval of a 50 million dollar cotton loan was accompanied by a stipulation that the 2 to 2½ million bales now held by farm board financed coöperatives be withheld from the market.

That such a loan had been authorized was first made known last night by Jesse H. Jones of Texas, member of the corporation's board of directors. His statement was confirmed today in a brief official announcement by the corporation which stated that the directors had authorized an advance of 35 millions to the American Cotton Coöperative association and 15 millions to the Cotton Stabilization corporation. The security for the advance is to be the cotton held by the corporations at the rate of $25 a bale, c. approximately 5 cents a pound.

Refuse Statements.

Officials of the corporation and the farm board refused pointedly to disclose further details of the authorization.

By authoritative sources, however, it was reported that the corporation gave its approval only on condition that the cotton be held off the market until next March or until the price should reach 12c and that between March 1 and Aug. 1, 1933, only 600,000 bales should be sold.

Such a stipulation flew directly in the face of the farm board, which only last May announced that it intended to sell 650,000 bales of stabilization cotton from Aug. 1, 1932, to Aug. 1, 1933.

Estimates of Holidays.

Best estimates of the cotton stocks held by the Stabilization corporation, setting aside the 500,000 bales earmarked for the Red Cross, fix the total at between 600,000 and 800,000 bales. Recent sales by the coöperative association are believed to have cut its total of 2,000,000 bales to something like 1,400,000 bales.

These stocks are already heavily

FRENCH FAVORING GERMAN GOODS? PROTESTS MADE

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 30.—Evidence appeared here today of the opposition aroused by the comparatively favorable treatment German industries are receiving from the French.

In Les Echos it is pointed out that the Franco-German trade balance favored Germany by 3½ million francs last year, with relative positions remaining about the same this year. Moreover, according to recent information from Berlin, the reich contemplates severe restrictions on imports. Therefore, denunciation of the 1927 trade treaty with Germany consolidating tariff rates is demanded.

Americans particularly are interested in this controversy because the negotiations to draft a trade treaty with France reach the critical stage on Thursday. Then the Franco-American experts meet again. One of the bones of contention has been that the Americans complain that Germans were unduly favored is the recent import quota allotments.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 30.—Setbacks in the cotton and wheat markets and growing apprehension over the rising tide of demand for a soldiers' bonus combined to take the edge off speculative enthusiasm in Wall street today. Stock prices closed 1 to 3 points lower on a turnover that fell short of 3,250,000 shares.

Bull pools were conspicuously active throughout the session, striving to start a renewal of the advance by the old ruse of "group rotation." This is accomplished by bringing one group after another forward and whirling it up with a deluge of buying orders in the endeavor to attract a following and "get things going." First they tried the motors, with Chrysler as the special object of their attentions, and while the "nominee" for leadership honors rose a point or so with Mack Truck, Nash and Studebaker trailing it up, the flurry was short lived and the mushroom gain quickly melted away.

The rubbers got a hand in time, and Goodyear, Goodrich, and U. S. Rubber were pegged up rather impressively. The first named scored a net gain of nearly 4 points, but the buying was a "local" affair and refused to spread to other sections of the list.

Finally the rails were brought forward, and, with the executives' conference and talk of better operating figures for the class No. 1 roads for this month in their favor, moved ahead in irregular formation.

The break of $2.15 to nearly $3 a bale in cotton counted against the farm implement shares, and Case lost more than 3 points on the day's operations. International Harvester was also under pressure most of the session. Mail order shares looked wilted also, Sears-Roebuck losing nearly a point.

Save with Safety . . . .

SKIES are clearing. Optimism is taking the place of pessimism. The Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company rejoices in this change in sentiment and hopes that it will prove well founded.

But whether markets go up or down—whether recovery comes now or later—"L-M-C" protection will continue to be thoroughly dependable.

In this year of trial for all business, the Lumbermens Mutual Casualty Company has continued to forge ahead along the conservative lines it has always followed. "L-M-C" invested assets were worth more on June 30 this year than they were on December 31, 1931. For the fiscal year ended June 30, 1932, cash dividends to policyholders exceeded those of any previous year in the Company's history. Net premium income increased 5.4%.

In ever increasing numbers, big business and little business—the largest fleet owner—the individual motorist—are saving with safety on the cost of their Automobile, Compensation, and other casualty insurance through the "L-M-C".

NELSON AGREES TO MORATORIUM ON MORTGAGES

Wires Washington He Will Co-operate.

BY AL CHASE.

State Auditor Oscar Nelson yesterday made public the following telegram which he sent to Franklin W. Fort, chairman of the federal home loan bank board, following the request from Washington for a two months' moratorium on foreclosures on homes: "Telegram received and we will be glad to coöperate fully." At the same time Mr. Nelson declared that, so far as Cook county is concerned, the 134 banks in the hands of receivers are avoiding foreclosures wherever possible.

OSCAR NELSON. [Gibson Photo.]

"As a matter of fact, we've been operating for some time the Cook county state banks which are in receivership along the lines of a moratorium on home foreclosures," he said. "We've foreclosed on only 2 per cent and then only as a protection for the bank. Where the home owner showed no intention or inclination to coöperate, we've had to foreclose. Where the owner plainly wanted to go along and was able to pay the interest, even though he couldn't make prepayments, we carried him through."

To Start in October.

In Mr. Fort's telegram of last week to Mr. Nelson he stated that he hoped to have federal home loan banks open and doing business on or before Oct. 16. He predicted that after that date substantial relaxation in the mortgage loan market should develop speedily. Mr. Nelson sent copies of this telegram and his reply to all receivers of closed Cook county state banks.

Mr. Nelson also made public some figures regarding the liquidation of loans for the year ending June 30, in which the real estate securities made a better showing than expected. Out of a total of $51,846,000 real estate loans, $4,527,000 were liquidated with a loss of $807,000. Other bonds totaled $37,791,000; of these $16,696,000 were liquidated with a loss of $3,508,000.

Travel Row Lease.

North Michigan avenue's travel row had an interesting lease closed yesterday through McMenemy & Martin. Raymond-Whitcomb, Inc., internationally known travel bureau, active for the last half century in tours of all parts of the globe, rented the ground floor space of the Story & Clark building at 173 North Michigan avenue. This is a Spanish type structure built originally to house the Story & Clark piano concern. The travel firm will move to its new quarters tomorrow from its present location across the boulevard at No. 176.

Fred V. Robinson, district manager of the Chicago territory, stated yesterday that the improvement in the last month indicates a substantial gain in fall and winter travel. For instance, the sales of August, generally a quiet month, already exceed those of May, one of the busiest months of the year.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 8,000; hogs, 20,000; sheep, 19,000.

All live stock markets sagged a trifle yesterday. Buyers, however, soon found it was not easy to shave costs. Some classes finished in a stronger position. Hog prices commenced to ebb slowly directly after the start under pressure of receipts, but good action developed with the appearance of larger houses and few of the hogs left at the close were being offered for sale.

Most sales were made on a steady to 10c lower basis, butcher grades showing the least weakness. The general average for the day at $3.95 showed only 5c loss, while the peak price came down 10c to $4.60. Most of the high quality 150@250 lb averages sold at $4.25@4.55, while 260@350 lb averages sold at $3.60@4.25.

Top Grade Steers Steady.

Top grade steers maintained Monday's prices throughout yesterday's session, but the inbetween classes slipped. Poorer grades of cattle are a drag on the list. Yesterday's selling of them was on a catch as catch can basis and losses up to 25c were cited. Receipts exceeded expectations at 9,000, the unexpected increase coming over the truck route. Cattle of good quality averaging better than 1,200 lbs were scarce and in good demand. General quality was not quite up to the preceding session. The top price at $9.90 was paid for 20 averaging 1,296 lbs. Bulk of beef steers sold at $6.75@9.00, with a fair number of plain kinds at $5.50 and under. Butcher stock ruled weak to 25c lower, grassy and short fed heifers getting the brunt of the decline. Calves were strong to 25c higher. A fairly large number of stockers and feeders were available at weak to 15c lower prices.

Best Lambs Firm.

Best grades of slaughter lambs were in demand again and held steady, while the inbetween and commoner kinds ruled weak to 25c lower. The latter comprise a very small share of offerings and cut little figure in the general market. Most slaughter lambs are grading good to choice. Packers obtained the majority of natives at $6.00 and under, but hand picked some extra choice kinds up to $6.50. Most range lambs brought $5.50@5.90, the tops from 58 carloads selling within this range. Matured stock and yearlings remained steady. Country buyers are eager for feeding lambs around the $5.00 line. Some recently sold up to $5.25.

New Members Are Added to Chicago Board of Trade

J. A. McDonnell of Jay A. McDonnell & Co., Peoria; Lloyd W. Georgeson of Park & Walbridge, New York City; Frederick A. McClellan of the Cooperative G. F. L. Mills, Inc., Buffalo, N. Y., and George W. McCallum of Chicago were elected to membership on the Chicago Board of Trade at a meeting of the board of directors yesterday.

George E. Saunders, a member of the Chicago Board of Trade for 25 years, is to have charge of the commodity department of Abbott, Hoppin & Co.

Here and There in Business

Seats on the New York Stock Exchange continue to increase in price. One sold yesterday for $185,000. This was $17,000 higher than the previous sale. The low price for the year was $68,000.

Employés of one La Salle street house received a pleasant surprise yesterday. Ettinger & Brand is paying its employés a 10 per cent bonus for August as a result of the sharp increase in activity which caused considerable overtime work.

The Pennsylvania railroad's treasury has been enlarged by $4,496,198 as a result of added revenues resulting from the freight rate surcharge authorized by the interstate commerce commission last January. The amount was received in the 7 months ending July 31.

PROFIT TAKING HALTS ADVANCE IN THE GRAIN PIT

Closing Drop Follows Midsession Rally.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The advancing tendency in the grain markets came to an abrupt halt yesterday. An oversold condition was disclosed when longs tried to take profits. The reaction shown in both cotton and stocks was the main factor in bringing about the down turn, but the latter was orderly.

At one time there was a complete recovery of the early losses in the market with commission houses and local professionals aggressive buyers, but the continued weakness in stocks led to another selling movement and the finish was well toward the bottom.

Wheat at the inside figure showed 1¼c under the finish of Monday with the December selling at 57½c, only to rally to 58⅝c later and then react to close at 57½@57⅝c to 57¾c, while September was 53⅜@53½, and May 62¼@62⅝c, net losses for the day being 1¼@1⅝c. The decline in the market was cushioned to a considerable extent by commission house buying in small lots, and the selling was not very aggressive.

Routine News Ignored.

Aside from the sympathetic action with other commodities and securities there was nothing in the general run of the news to account for the selling of wheat. Pit brokers generally said the market was in a weakened technical position incident to the advance of 5⅝c from the inside figure of the previous week.

Selling of wheat futures here against purchases at Winnipeg was under way again and the spread between the two markets widened slight, as Winnipeg was ⅝@1c lower at the last with the December at 58½c in Canadian funds. Liverpool finished ⅞@1c per bu higher with December at 59c.

Wheat traders are commencing to pay some attention to the prospects for the winter wheat acreage for the 1933 crop. There was buying at one time on a report suggesting that the acreage in Kansas might be sharply less than last year.

The figures given, however, referred to the harvested acreage for the 1932 crop. The Kansas state report indicated the acreage would be around 11,594,000 acres, compared with 11,711,000 acres seeded the previous fall. Export demand at the seaboard was relatively slow with sales of 500,000 bu in all positions. Largely Manitobas.

Corn at New High.

Several leading local professionals were aggressive buyers of corn futures and with the assistance of the largest general trade in several months the December future sold up to 35½c, the highest figure since May 28, and a new top on the current movement. Profit taking and hedging against purchases of 850,000 bu cash corn to arrive from the country caused a reaction toward the last and the close was ¼@⅝c lower. September finished at 31½c, December 34⅝@34½c, and May 39⅜@39½c.

In the last two days the country is estimated to have sold close to 2,000,000 bu of cash corn to arrrive. The bulk of that has been hedged in the pit. The increase of 1,904,000 bu in the open interest on Monday to a total of 31,666,000 bu attracted attention, as it confirmed trade reports of a marked expansion in speculative interest. Houses with eastern connections were good buyers of futures at times during the day.

Larger Trade in Oats.

More interest is being paid to the oats market and a number of the larger local operators were said to have been good buyers during the day. There was relatively little pressure early, but on the advance commission houses sold on resting orders and a reaction followed when other grains weakened. The close was ⅛@½c lower with September 17⅛@17¼c, December 19⅝@19¾c, and May 22⅜@22½c. Rye was off ⅜@1½c with wheat. September closed at 32⅝c, December 35⅞c, and May 40⅜@41⅛c.

GRAIN BOARD SEATS $8,100

A Chicago Board of Trade member ship sold yesterday at $8,100, or the same as previous sale last week.

FISK RUBBER CO. REORGANIZATION PLAN IS GIVEN

A new reorganization plan for the Fisk Rubber company was announced last night. The program calls for the distribution of $400 for each $1,000 bond and $370 for each $1,000 note and the formation of a new operating company to carry on the Fisk business and a real estate company to take over certain mortgaged properties not required by the operating firm.

The company is now in receivership. The plan was announced by the reorganization committee headed by Orrin G. Wood. The proposed operating company will have an authorized capitalization of $4,000,000 6 per cent preferred stock cumulative after Jan. 1, 1934, and 400,000 shares of common stock, plus additional share not exceeding 300,000 shares as may be subscribed for by stockholders of the old company.

The company will acquire the rubber plant at Chicopee Falls and the tire fabric plant at New Bedford, Mass., as well as other of the old company's plants as may be determined by the reorganization committee.

The real estate company, all of the stock of which will be distributed pro rata to the first mortgage bondholders, will take over mortgaged property pledged under the first mortgage bonds and not acquired by the operating company. These properties include the Cudahy, Wis., plant and the stock of the Fisk building in New York. This company will be liquidated for the benefit of the bondholders.

In addition to cash of $400 the $1,000 bondholder will receive $300 preferred stock in the new operating company and 30 shares of common together with his pro rata share in the real estate company stock. Each $1,000 note holder will get $370 in cash, $200 in preferred stock, and 20 shares of common stock in the operating company.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Traders who believe that prevailing conditions will carry prices for wheat and all grains to a higher level in the next two months express the belief at the close that the break Tuesday was due to profit taking and to pressure from other sources and gave the market leaders an opportunity to pick up grains, particularly wheat, at lower prices.

It would not be a surprise to trade leaders to have a lower opening in wheat and a good rally following breaks similar to those of yesterday. Basis for this confidence is that prices have been too low and are getting back to a normal level despite the fact that wheat is selling above an export basis.

Referring to the holding back of wheat in the country the Uhlmann Grain company says wheat that is held back is in the same position as wheat held back formerly by the farm board in the United States and by the Canadian pool.

LARD OFF WITH HOGS

Lard prices weakened in sympathy with the decline in hogs and cotton. Liquidation of September contracts by commission houses furnished a good part of the selling, and there was buying of January and May by commission houses and traders. The close was at net losses of 5@10c, May showing the most strength. Liverpool lard was 3@6d higher, the latter on January. Export of lard was 857,850 lbs and bacon 32,500 lbs.

Liquidation by holders of bellies was taken by packers on a 5c decline. There was no change in lard or bellies for cash delivery, the price holding at $6.75. Regular lard was $5.27½, loose $5, and leaf $5.12½.

Hog receipts were slightly in excess of a week ago and 10,000 less than a year ago at western points. Prices follow:

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Cotton goods buying continued moderately active in finished and unfinished lines. Branded bleached cottons were advanced 1-16c a yard. The Red Cross is buying chambrays freely for home sewing. Burlaps advanced five points on moderate sales. Silk goods are in steady demand for cutting up purposes. Men's wear suitings and dress goods are selling freely. Rayon production is being stepped up to capacity.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—(AP)—Bleachable cottonseed closed easy at 8 to 14 points net decline under liquidation and commission house selling promoted by the weakness of cotton and easiness of lard. Sales were 40 contracts or 6,000 bbls. Crude oil was nominal in the valley and Texas, with sales at 4¼c in the southeast. Bleachable spot closed 5.00c: Sept., 5.05c; Dec., 5.12c; Jan., 5.18c; March, 5.20c.

Fair Rentals
But No
"Concession Tax."

Every thinking man and woman KNOWS that so-called rent "Concessions" are offered only after the rent has been sufficiently marked up to take care of such "Concessions."

We believe that this "Concession Tax" places a hardship on the great majority of renters, and therefore propose to do everything we can to eliminate it.

In its stead we aim to bring forth Fair Rental Values—without the
